Eisenhower Hits Hard at Democrats

Says This Is No Period for Men of Indecision, No Matter How Fine Their Intellects

Plugs for Peace

Nominee Says His Wish Is Passion That War Be Ended

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 23 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower brought his Republican presidential campaign to the home city of the man he defeated for the nomination last night with a plea for men "whose strength of mind is matched by their strength of will."

Eisenhower, in his first visit to the home state of Sen. Robert A. Taft whom he beat for the nomination, delivered a hard-hitting speech at his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois and the Truman administration.

"It is not hard to find men of fine intellect and faint heart," said the general. "But this is no time for men of refined and elaborate indecisions. Our need—our most urgent need—is the leadership of men whose strength of mind is matched by their strength of will."

Eisenhower and Taft continued their whistle-stopping through Ohio today, with Eisenhower scheduled to speak briefly in Columbus before making a major address in Cleveland tonight.

No Mention of Mate

Eisenhower made no mention of his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, whose $18,235 privately-raised expense fund has proved a political bombshell in the Republican camp.

Although the general has said he will delay any decision about keeping Nixon on the ticket until the Californian makes a television-radio report of his finances tonight, the odds were long that Nixon would get a clean bill of health.

Meantime, the Republican presidential nominee was pressing the attack against Stevenson, his Democratic opponent.

Describing himself as having "a passion for peace," Eisenhower told a cheering crowd of 3,500 persons in Cincinnati Music Hall that Stevenson's foreign policy views show a "faintness of heart" reflecting the Truman administration's "surrender of initiative" to the Communists.

100,000 See Parade

Earlier, he headed a parade which Detective Chief George Pearcy estimated was seen by 100,000.

Eisenhower chose Taft's home town to make a blistering attack on Stevenson, President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson on foreign policy issues.

Some of Eisenhower's points of attack were strikingly similar to those Taft has been pounding for years. The nominee's over-all theme followed closely that which John Foster Dulles, one of his foreign policy advisers, has been preaching in recent months.

Essentially, it consisted of the charge that the Truman administration in drifting from one emergency to another and that its "program of bits and pieces" is permitting Stalin to call the tune for world diplomacy.

Cites His Goal

Without offering specific solutions for any of the international ills, such as the Korean war, Eisenhower said his goal is to establish America as "the headquarters of freedom."

He promised that a Republican administration would (1) "win respect from other peoples," (2) "check the menace of inflation," (3) "establish a foreign policy * * * (that is) not the product of blackmail extorted by the So-

Press Secretary Flanagan Says Governor Not to Give Out Names of Contributors

Talk Not Recalled

Stevenson Says He Has No Memory of April Conversation

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP)—An Eisenhower supporter's assertion that Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson promoted a cash fund from private individuals to augment salaries of some state officials was acknowledged by the Illinois governor last night.

But, the Democratic presidential candidate said in a reply, there was nothing secretive or improper about such aid.

Stevenson, in a statement in New York, said there never has been any secret about his trying to ease the financial strain of men be induced to leave private employment to take state jobs. None of the men, Stevenson declared, was an elected official or an office seeker.

The governor's statement was in reply to a telegram sent Stevenson by Kent Chandler, a Chicago manufacturer, who stated the governor personally promoted a cash fund, made up of private contributions from private citizens.

Stevenson's press secretary, William Flanagan, said the governor would not answer a part of the telegram demanding that names of the contributors be made public.

Paid to Appointees

Chandler, who served on the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee before the Republican convention, said in his telegram that the fund "was paid to various of your official appointees to state jobs in order to supplement the salaries paid them by the state."

He asked Stevenson to disclose the names of the contributors and recipents and the amounts involved. Chandler said the governor had made known he favored such an assistance policy to him and others at the Chicago Commercial Club last April 23, Stevenson said last night he did not recall any such conversation with Chandler.

Stevenson, who is in his first four-year term as governor, at that time had announced his candidacy for reelection.

Nixon Arrives for 'Explanation' Speech

Sen. Richard Nixon, the GOP vice presidential nominee who is under fire because of his $18,000 expense fund, stands on car in Los Angeles to greet supporters as he arrived there for his television and radio speech. Today he will speak to give his explanation of the fund, given by wealthy Southern California businessmen. (AP Wirephoto).

Nixon Reveals Stress He Has Been Under for Week

Los Angeles, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Republican candidate for vice president steps before a jury of Americans by the millions tonight to tell his story of an $18,000 expense fund—and to plead for vindication.

The verdict of those who hear Sen. Richard Nixon of California in his fateful half hour radio-television broadcast may decide whether he will remain on the GOP ticket with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Associates of his interrupted campaign denied emphatically there was any basis for talk that he would resign.

They said he will try with all his heart to convince the country that he did no wrong in accepting contributions from wealthy California friends to pay for "strictly political activities."

NBC television and two radio networks—CBS and MBS—will carry the unprecedented explanation from 6:30 to 7 p. m. PDT (8:30 to 9 EST).

Will Give Full Story

Nixon promised he will tell everything about both his personal and political finances. He planned to speak from the NBC television studio without prepared text. There will be a supplementary press statement listing private income and expenditures described as too detailed for the limited air time.

Eisenhower said yesterday he will decide whether to retain his young running mate after Nixon's public report. Dispatches from the Eisenhower campaign train declare the general is known to have said that Nixon must come "clean as a hound's tooth" in his financial history.

It has been Nixon's steadfast contention that none of the disputed fund went into his own pocket. He said that none of the contributors ever asked for or received any special consideration from him.

Money Use Criticized

Democrats and some Republicans criticized use of outside money by a senator, and Eisenmower strategy leaders became concerned that the outcry would embarrass his campaign attack on corruption in Washington. Nixon replied that the fund was entirely legitimate; that it was never secret and that it permitted him to carry on his fight against communism and corruption "above and beyond my official duties."

In Washington friends of the senator said Nixon probably will include in his explanation a statement of where he obtained the money for the down payment on a home he purchased in Spring Valley, near Washington, D. C., after his election to the Senate.

Kept Whittier House

But in the meantime an explanation of how the down payment was made came from Nixon's brother, Don, in the senator's home town of Whittier, Calif. Don Nixon told reporters his brother sold his Whittier home for $14,000 and bought another house in Whittier. The brother said that after Nixon was elected to the Senate he decided to keep the new Whittier home for his parents' use. The brother said he then borrowed between $3,500 and $4,000 from his parents to pay on the purchase price of the Whittier home and applied the receipts from the sale of his first home on the Spring Valley property.

The 39-year old California senator arrived here by chartered plane from Portland, Ore., yesterday afternoon. A partisan crowd of 400 to 500 persons greeted him with shouts of "we want Nixon...we want Nixon."

Shows Strain of Ordeal

Nixon looked tired. There is no question that the ordeal of the past week and the chilling possibility of being dropped from the GOP ticket have been a severe

Seymour, Turck Sentenced Monday To Clinton Prison

Defendants Get Terms of 6½ to 13 Years at Hard Labor at Dannemora

Wilfred James Seymour, 29, of of 305 South avenue, Poughkeepsi, who was arrested by Kingston police on June 16, on a charge of having abducted a 12 year old girl from her Van Buren street home, was sentenced to a term of from 6½ to 13 years at hard labor at Clinton State Prison at Dannamora Monday afternoon by County Judge John M. Cashin. Seymour had entered a plea of guilty of assault, one of three counts in the indictment.

Prior to being sentenced, District Attorney Bruhn filed an information with the court charging Seymour with having been convicted of a felony in Tacoma, Washington, on March 10, 1943, that charge being rape. He admitted he was the same person and that he had been sentenced to a term of not more than 20 years, but had served only 32 months of that sentence.

Seymour it was charged by the police entered the home of the girl while her parents were absent and on a pretext that he was a friend of the family, he induced the girl to accompany him to look for her folks. This was around 1 a. m. At 1:20 a. m. the girl was found on Broadway by police and later Seymour was apprehended as he drove his car along Broadway.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Seymour in court and moved for dismissal of the other two counts of the indictment and that Seymour be given credit for the time he had already served in jail. The motion was granted.

Turck Sentenced

Louis J. Turck, Kingston, charged with robbery, first degree; rape, first degree, and assault, second degree, for an alleged attack on a woman at a local hotel on May 27, last, also was sentenced to a term of from 6½ to 13 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison. Turk also was senfenced as a second offender. Turck had previously entered a plea of guilty to robbery, third degree. Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appeared for Turck. Turck was charged with having assaulted and robbed a woman of a small sum of money.

Prior to imposition of sentence, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn filed an information with the court charging that Turck had on August 4, 1947 in Cook county, Illinois, been found guilty to larceny of a motor vehicle and also on September 2, 1947, in Cook county had been convicted of robbery while armed. He admitted he was the same person. Mr. Davis moved for dismissal of the other two counts of the indictment, rape, first degree, and assault,

Congressman Says His Record Shows 'Yes' Stand on Both Measures

In a letter to The Freeman this morning, Congressman J. Ernest Wharton cited the official voting record on Congress to refute a charge by a CIO leader that he was absent when votes were taken on Social Security and Tidelands Oil Bill.

Congressman Wharton, who lives at Richmondville in Schoharie county and represents New York's 30th District—including Ulster—stated that the record shows he voted in the affirmative on both matters.

The charge referred to was one made by Alonzo L. Evory, president of the Upper Hudson Area Industrial Union Council, CIO.

Congressman Wharton's letter follows:

My attention has been called to your issue of Sept. 19th and an article entitled "CIO Takes Stand Against Wharton." I note that the article states "Evory charged Wharton was absent when votes were taken on "the all-important issues of Social Security and the Tidelands Oil Bill."

Says Its Misleading

It would appear that this misleading statement emanates from some source entirely unreliable, for reference to the official voting record of the 82nd Congress in the House shows that Social Security Vote No. 106, taken on June 17, 1952 records the writer as present and voting in the affirmative. As to the Tidelands Oil Bill recorded as vote No. 71 on May 15th, 1952, the record also shows that I was present and voted in the affirmative.

I am sure that it will not be your desire to leave the foregoing

To Proceed With Plans For Hospital Addition

The Kingston Hospital Board of Directors Monday night authorized Architect Harry Halverson to proceed with plans for an addition to the hospital.

This action was taken, the board said, with a view to having the plans ready for bidding sometime after Jan. 1, 1953.

Details of the proposed expansion program will be announced after plans and estimates are completed. The addition is to extend in the direction of Foxhall avenue where there will be another entrance. It is expected that the architect's estimates will be submitted in the near future.

Police Chief Says Children Should Know Road Laws

Children must understand traffic laws and proper steps must be taken to see that they obey them, Police Chief Raymond Van Buren said today.

The chief is cooperating this month with the Police Bureau of the Division of Safety's September Child Safety Program.

"Our boys and girls in the city of Kingston are mighty important to us and they have a vital problem of safety in traffic," the chief said.

"We need to teach our children the traffic laws and take the responsibility for seeing that they obey them. This means that the parents, teachers and other adults, must not only teach the rules, but must set a good example by heeding them," he advised.

"Most of us need to be reminded not only to be careful in traffic, but that our boys and girls are likely to do as we do rather than as we say. If we want them to follow in our footsteps—let's see that our steps set a course of safety.

"When you stop to think that according to the National Safety Council, approximately 1660 children ranging from 5 to 14 years of age were killed in traffic last year, it seems more urgent than ever that we give them all the protection we can.

"Parents should remember that alleys and driveways, as well as streets, are dangerous places. Keep your youngsters out of them. Of course, enclosed playgrounds are the safest places to play. If children have access to such a playground encourage them to use it by all means."

Daniel Shaw Dies In Auto Crash Near Highland

Was Former Postmaster of New Paltz and Served 10 Years as Supervisor

Daniel Shaw, 64, New Paltz insurance and real estate broker, died in an automobile accident near Highland about 9:40 p. m. Monday, state police reported. A prominent Democratic leader, Shaw was a former postmaster of New Paltz village and had served 10 years as supervisor of his town.

Troopers said Shaw was driving alone in his 1950 coach when he "apparently lost consciousness." The automobile ran off the north side of Route 299, traveled about an eighth of a mile through the brush, crossed to the south side of the highway and struck a tree head-on about 50 feet off the pavement.

The accident occurred on Route 299 about three and a half miles west of Highland.

Had Heart Condition

Troopers said that Shaw had been suffering from a heart condition. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was notified and began an investigation to determine whether Shaw died of a heart attack just before the accident, or whether he died of injuries received in the accident.

Shaw was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Peter Lordi of Highland and the body was removed to the V. T. Pine and Son Funeral Home in New Paltz.

Shaw, a prominent Democrat, resided at 28 Main street, New Paltz, and was self employed as an insurance and real estate broker.

Held Various Offices

He was postmaster of the village of New Paltz during the early 1930's. He was supervisor for the town of New Paltz from 1920 to 1929. He was elected clerk of the Board of Supervisors on February 17, 1934, succeeding John D. Rippert of Ellenville. Shaw served as clerk until his resignation on April 23, 1935, when he was succeeded by former Sheriff Arthur Rice. He was a past president of the Ulster County Supervisors Association.

Active Many Years

Shaw was also a trustee of the New Paltz Rural Cemetery, a member of the Masonic Lodge of Highland and a past president of the New Paltz Fire Department. He had been active in New Paltz civic affairs for many years.

He was born in Newburgh, son of the late Isaac and Esther Burger Shaw, but had made his home in New Paltz for many years.

He is survived by his widow, Belia T. Shaw; a brother, Augustus, of New York; a sister, Miss Maude Shaw of Poughkeepsie, and a half-sister, Miss Susan Shaw of New Paltz. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz, with the Rev. John Follette officiating. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. There will be a Masonic service at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the funeral home. Friends may call at the funeral home between 7 and 9 p. m. Wednesday.

Stevenson Gets AFL Endorsement At New York Parley

New York, Sept. 23 (AP) — The American Federation of Labor convention today endorsed Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president of the United States.

The action was unanimous by the 800 delegates who acted on a committee recommendation.

It was the first endorsement by convention action since the AFL was founded in 1881. Back in 1924 a special AFL committee endorsed the late Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin who was running for the presidency on the Progressive ticket.

The announcement by AFL President William Green of the outcome of the standing vote by delegates at the Hotel Commodore was greeted with thunderous shouts. Scraps of torn paper were hurled into the air.

Has CIO Backing

The CIO already has endorsed Stevenson, thus putting the two big branches of labor firmly behind the Democratic candidate.

All the 800 delegates appeared to be standing on the vote as they applauded, whistled and cheered for half a minute.

After calling for "nay" votes to be registered in the same way, Green carefully scanned the convention hall. There appeared to be no one standing among the delegates.

Green then announced "it appears there is no opposition" and declared the report "officially adopted." Prolonged cheers rang

Outlay for Nixon Suggests GOP Will Keep Him on Ticket

Wicks Will Lead Local GOP Group In State Plans

Full-Scale Discussion Is Slated on Campaign for Dinner Parley Thursday

A group of Ulster county Republican leaders will join other prominent members of the Third Judicial District at a dinner meeting in Albany Thursday night at which they will confer with state Republican leaders now touring upstate New York.

Among those attending the meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p. m. at Hotel Ten Eyck, will be Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, Miss Marguerite M. Quick of High Falls, a member of the Republican State Committee from Ulster county, Congressman J. Ernest Wharton of Richmondville and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland.

Will Consider All

Senator Wicks said today that the meeting would afford "an opportunity for full-scale discussion of plans for the presidential, U. S. senatorial, congressional and legislative campaigns."

He said that the meeting would signal the kick-off for the 1952 Republican campaign in Ulster county.

Other Judicial District representatives invited are Mrs. Ethel Purdy, of McKnownville, of the State Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, James Hutchinson of Watervliet and Mrs. Stanley Steinberg of the State Association of Young Republican Clubs, Albany, and Mrs. Clance E. Hosier, a member of the Republican State Committee.

Seasoned Politicians See This as Answer to Situation on Nominee

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 23 (AP)—A $75,000 outlay by the national committee for a television-radio defense by Sen. Richard M. Nixon of his expense records indicated today Republicans plan to keep him on their ticket.

Although Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has made it clear he is delaying any personal decision until afterNixon lays it on the line, seasoned politicians said there is no doubt in their minds about the outcome.

The argument of these politicians was that the Republican National Committee, along with the GOP senatorial and House campaign committees, would not invest $75,000 in a Nixon speech likely to bring a thumbs down verdict from the party's presidential nominee.

Only Part of Smear

The California senator, speaking at the same time (8:30 p. m., EST) that Eisenhower will be delivering a major, not-televised address at Cleveland, is expected to go beyond the circumstances of this fund to explain all of his financial dealings.

Friends here said this probably will include an explanation of where the money came from for the down payment of the home purchased in Washington since his election to the Senate.

Eisenhower told a curious on-and-off the record news conference yesterday that he had urged Nixon in a telephone conversation from St. Louis Sunday midnight to "present everything that could be considered by the most meticulous person even as a collateral piece of information—to get the full works on the record instantly."

AFL Hears Action Appeal, Fund-Raising for Campaign

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders heard an appeal today that they temporarily set other matters aside and concentrate on political action.

James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Astion, asked delegates to the AFL 71st annual convention "to see that every union member under your jurisdiction is given an opportunity to contribute" funds for activity in the current presidential and congressional election campaign.

McDevitt made his appeal in a report prepared for delivery at the convention's closing session, which is expected to endorse the candidacy of the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

"I'm making this plea to you—go home from here—let all but emergency contract work rest until after Election Day," McDevitt said.

Labor's League for Political Action, McDevitt said, now has $200,000 for political action as compared to half-million-dollar funds in both 1948 and 1950.

The league is the political arm of the AFL.

In addition to the action on the endorsement of a presidential candidate, the convention is scheduled to pick its national officers today.

The 800 delegates yesterday approved a resolution calling for a $1.25-an-hour minimum wage instead of the 75 cents pay minimum now prescribed under federal law. The convention last year urged a minimum wage of $1.

Among other resolutions adopted was one favoring a national holiday to mark the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday. Others favored fair employment practices legislation, condemned the partition of Ireland, and opposed a proposal that the U. S. Constitution be amended to limit taxes to 25 per cent of a person's or corporation's income.

Wilfred James Seymour, 29, of of 305 South avenue, Poughkeepsi, who was arrested by Kingston police on June 16, on a charge of having abducted a 12 year old girl from her Van Buren street home, was sentenced to a term of from 6½ to 13 years at hard labor at Clinton State Prison at Dannamora Monday afternoon by County Judge John M. Cashin. Seymour had entered a plea of guilty of assault, one of three counts in the indictment.

Prior to being sentenced, District Attorney Bruhn filed an information with the court charging Seymour with having been convicted of a felony in Tacoma, Washington, on March 10, 1943, that charge being rape. He admitted he was the same person and that he had been sentenced to a term of not more than 20 years, but had served only 32 months of that sentence.

Seymour it was charged by the police entered the home of the girl while her parents were absent and on a pretext that he was a friend of the family, he induced the girl to accompany him to look for her folks. This was around 1 a. m. At 1:20 a. m. the girl was found on Broadway by police and later Seymour was apprehended as he drove his car along Broadway.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Seymour in court and moved for dismissal of the other two counts of the indictment and that Seymour be given credit for the time he had already served in jail. The motion was granted.

Turck Sentenced

Louis J. Turck, Kingston, charged with robbery, first degree; rape, first degree, and assault, second degree, for an alleged attack on a woman at a local hotel on May 27, last, also was sentenced to a term of from 6½ to 13 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison. Turk also was sentenced as a second offender. Turck had previously entered a plea of guilty to robbery, third degree. Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appeared for Turck. Turck was charged with having assaulted and robbed a woman of a small sum of money.

Prior to imposition of sentence, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn filed an information with the court charging that Turck had on August 4, 1947 in Cook county, Illinois, been found guilty to larceny of a motor vehicle and also on September 2, 1947, in Cook county had been convicted of robbery while armed. He admitted he was the same person. Mr. Davis moved for dismissal of the other two counts of the indictment, rape, first degree, and assault,

Congressman Says His Record Shows 'Yes' Stand on Both Measures

In a letter to The Freeman this morning, Congressman J. Ernest Wharton cited the official voting record on Congress to refute a charge by a CIO leader that he was absent when votes were taken on Social Security and Tidelands Oil Bill.

Congressman Wharton, who lives at Richmondville in Schoharie county and represents New York's 30th District—including Ulster—stated that the record shows he voted in the affirmative on both matters.

The charge referred to was one made by Alonzo L. Evory, president of the Upper Hudson Area Industrial Union Council, CIO.

Congressman Wharton's letter follows:

My attention has been called to your issue of Sept. 19th and an article entitled "CIO Takes Stand Against Wharton." I note that the article states "Evory charged Wharton was absent when votes were taken on "the all-important issues of Social Security and the Tidelands Oil Bill."

Says Its Misleading

It would appear that this misleading statement emanates from some source entirely unreliable, for reference to the official voting record of the 82nd Congress in the House shows that Social Security Vote No. 106, taken on June 17, 1952 records the writer as present and voting in the affirmative. As to the Tidelands Oil Bill recorded as vote No. 71 on May 15th, 1952, the record also shows that I was present and voted in the affirmative.

I am sure that it will not be your desire to leave the foregoing

Police Chief Says Children Should Know Road Laws

Children must understand traffic laws and proper steps must be taken to see that they obey them, Police Chief Raymond Van Buren said today.

The chief is cooperating this month with the Police Bureau of the Division of Safety's September Child Safety Program.

"Our boys and girls in the city of Kingston are mighty important to us and they have a vital problem of safety in traffic," the chief said.

"We need to teach our children the traffic laws and take the responsibility for seeing that they obey them. This means that the parents, teachers and other adults, must not only teach the rules, but must set a good example by heeding them," he advised.

"Most of us need to be reminded not only to be careful in traffic, but that our boys and girls are likely to do as we do rather than as we say. If we want them to follow in our footsteps—let's see that our steps set a course of safety.

"When you stop to think that according to the National Safety Council, approximately 1660 children ranging from 5 to 14 years of age were killed in traffic last year, it seems more urgent than ever that we give them all the protection we can.

"Parents should remember that alleys and driveways, as well as streets, are dangerous places. Keep your youngsters out of them. Of course, enclosed playgrounds are the safest places to play. If children have access to such a playground encourage them to use it by all means."

Stevenson Gets AFL Endorsement At New York Parley

New York, Sept. 23 (AP) — The American Federation of Labor convention today endorsed Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president of the United States.

The action was unanimous by the 800 delegates who acted on a committee recommendation.

It was the first endorsement by convention action since the AFL was founded in 1881. Back in 1924 a special AFL committee endorsed the late Sen. Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin who was running for the presidency on the Progressive ticket.

The announcement by AFL President William Green of the outcome of the standing vote by delegates at the Hotel Commodore was greeted with thunderous shouts. Scraps of torn paper were hurled into the air.

Has CIO Backing

The CIO already has endorsed Stevenson, thus putting the two big branches of labor firmly behind the Democratic candidate.

All the 800 delegates appeared to be standing on the vote as they applauded, whistled and cheered for half a minute.

After calling for "nay" votes to be registered in the same way, Green carefully scanned the convention hall. There appeared to be no one standing among the delegates.

Green then announced "it appears there is no opposition" and declared the report "officially adopted." Prolonged cheers rang

Daniel Shaw Dies In Auto Crash Near Highland

Was Former Postmaster of New Paltz and Served 10 Years as Supervisor

Daniel Shaw, 64, New Paltz insurance and real estate broker, died in an automobile accident near Highland about 9:40 p. m. Monday, state police reported. A prominent Democratic leader, Shaw was a former postmaster of New Paltz village and had served 10 years as supervisor of his town.

Troopers said Shaw was driving alone in his 1950 coach when he "apparently lost consciousness." The automobile ran off the north side of Route 299, trayeled about an eighth of a mile through the brush, crossed to the south side of the highway and struck a tree head-on about 50 feet off the pavement.

The accident occurred on Route 299 about three and a half miles west of Highland.

Had Heart Condition

Troopers said that Shaw had been suffering from a heart condition. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was notified and began an investigation to determine whether Shaw died of a heart attack just before the accident, or whether he died of injuries received in the accident.

Shaw was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Peter Lordi of Highland and the body was removed to the V. T. Pine and Son Funeral Home in New Paltz.

Shaw, a prominent Democrat, resided at 28 Main street, New Paltz, and was self employed as an insurance and real estate broker.

Held Various Offices

He was postmaster of the village of New Paltz during the early 1930's. He was supervisor for the town of New Paltz from 1920 to 1929. He was elected clerk of the Board of Supervisors on February 17, 1934, succeeding John D. Rippert of Ellenville. Shaw served as clerk until his resignation on April 23, 1935, when he was succeeded by former Sheriff Arthur Rice. He was a past president of the Ulster County Supervisors Association.

Active Many Years

Shaw was also a trustee of the New Paltz Rural Cemetery, a member of the Masonic Lodge of Highland and a past president of the New Paltz Fire Department. He had been active in New Paltz civic affairs for many years.

He was born in Newburgh, son of the late Isaac and Esther Burger Shaw, but had made his home in New Paltz for many years.

He is survived by his widow, Belia T. Shaw; a brother, Augustus, of New York; a sister, Miss Maude Shaw of Poughkeepsie, and a half-sister, Miss Susan Shaw of New Paltz. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Pine Funeral Home, New Paltz, with the Rev. John Follette officiating. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. There will be a Masonic service at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the funeral home. Friends may call at the funeral home between 7 and 9 p. m. Wednesday.

Outlay for Nixon Suggests GOP Will Keep Him on Ticket

Wicks Will Lead Local GOP Group In State Plans

Full-Scale Discussion Is Slated on Campaign for Dinner Parley Thursday

A group of Ulster county Republican leaders will join other prominent members of the Third Judicial District at a dinner meeting in Albany Thursday night at which they will confer with state Republican leaders now touring upstate New York.

Among those attending the meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p. m. at Hotel Ten Eyck, will be Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, Miss Marguerite M. Quick of High Falls, a member of the Republican State Committee from Ulster county, Congressman J. Ernest Wharton of Richmondville and Assemblyman John F. Wadlin of Highland.

Will Consider All

Senator Wicks said today that the meeting would afford "an opportunity for full-scale discussion of plans for the presidential, U. S. senatorial, congressional and legislative campaigns."

He said that the meeting would signal the kick-off for the 1952 Republican campaign in Ulster county.

Other Judicial District representatives invited are Mrs. Ethel Purdy, of McKnownville, of the State Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, James Hutchinson of Watervliet and Mrs. Stanley Steinberg of the State Association of Young Republican Clubs, Albany, and Mrs. Clance E. Hosier, a member of the Republican State Committee.

Seasoned Politicians See This as Answer to Situation on Nominee

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 23 (AP)—A $75,000 outlay by the national committee for a television-radio defense by Sen. Richard M. Nixon of his expense records indicated today Republicans plan to keep him on their ticket.

Although Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has made it clear he is delaying any personal decision until afterNixon lays it on the line, seasoned politicians said there is no doubt in their minds about the outcome.

The argument of these politicians was that the Republican National Committee, along with the GOP senatorial and House campaign committees, would not invest $75,000 in a Nixon speech likely to bring a thumbs down verdict from the party's presidential nominee.

Only Part of Smear

The California senator, speaking at the same time (8:30 p. m., EST) that Eisenhower will be delivering a major, not-televised address at Cleveland, is expected to go beyond the circumstances of this fund to explain all of his financial dealings.

Friends here said this probably will include an explanation of where the money came from for the down payment of the home purchased in Washington since his election to the Senate.

Eisenhower told a curious on-and-off the record news conference yesterday that he had urged Nixon in a telephone conversation from St. Louis Sunday midnight to "present everything that could be considered by the most meticulous person even as a collateral piece of information—to get the full works on the record instantly."

AFL Hears Action Appeal, Fund-Raising for Campaign

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders heard an appeal today that they temporarily set other matters aside and concentrate on political action.

James L. McDevitt, director of Labor's League for Political Action, asked delegates to the AFL 71st annual convention "to see that every union member under your jurisdiction is given an opportunity to contribute" funds for activity in the current presidential and congressional election campaign.

McDevitt made his appeal in a report prepared for delivery at the convention's closing session, which is expected to endorse the candidacy of the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

"I'm making this plea to you—go home from here—let all but emergency contract work rest until after Election Day," McDevitt said.

Labor's League for Political Action, McDevitt said, now has $200,000 for political action as compared to half-million-dollar funds in both 1948 and 1950.

The league is the political arm of the AFL.

In addition to the action on the endorsement of a presidential candidate, the convention is scheduled to pick its national officers today.

The 800 delegates yesterday approved a resolution calling for a $1.25-an-hour minimum wage instead of the 75 cents pay minimum now prescribed under federal law. The convention last year urged a minimum wage of $1.

Among other resolutions adopted was one favoring a national holiday to mark the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's birthday. Others favored fair employment practices legislation, condemned the partition of Ireland, and opposed a proposal that the U. S. Constitution be amended to limit taxes to 25 per cent of a person's or corporation's income.

Stable Burns in Jersey

Deal, N. J., Sept. 23 (AP) — A wind-blown fire early today destroyed the last remnant of one of the shore area's last great showplace estates. An abandoned, 75 by 100-foot tudor-style stable on the once pretentious estate of the late William P. Ahnelt in nearby West Deal went up in flames shortly before 1 a. m. Deal Fire Chief Donald J. Southard said "the barn could not be replaced for $50,000." He said cause of the blaze had not yet been determined. The fire was reminiscent of a $450,000 blaze that levelled the 55-room Ahnelt mansion in 1935. The stable was all that was left of the 71-acre estate that had been purchased by Ahnelt in 1914.

Republicans Form Rural Group for Ike's Candidacy

Albany, Sept. 23 (AP)—Rural Republican leaders were enlisted today in what Gov. Dewey calls a "house-to-house and farm-to-farm campaign" upstate "to offset the captive vote controlled by tottering and desperate New York city Democrat bosses."

Dewey, who begins his campaign stint tomorrow night with a television broadcast from the metropolis, met about 80 party leaders yesterday. He told them that "an overwhelming vote of confidence" was needed in upstate areas to help Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower win the presidency and to send Sen. Irving M. Ives back to Washington.

The upstate Republicans organized a "Rural Citizens for Ike and Ives Committee" to get out the vote.

Former Assemblyman Harold L. Creal of Homer was elected state chairman of the group. Creal, director of the State Fair at Syracuse, held a similar post on a committee set up in 1950 to help the governor win re-election.

Confidence Increases

In a statement following the meeting at the Executive Mansion, Dewey said the creation of the committee "increases my confidence that General Eisenhower and Senator Ives will carry New York state against their boss-picked opponents."

Dewey said that the election of Eisenhower "could well be decided by whether all the rural voters of upstate New York go to the polls," he added:

"If they turn out in full strength, they can guarantee the return of Irving Ives to the United States Senate for another six years.

"Gen. Eisenhower, as president, will need Sen. Ives to help him restore old-fashioned honesty to our federal government and to bring efficiency and economy to Washington without impairing any social achievements and aspirations for the American people."

To Use Radio, TV

Dewey, who helped win the presidential nomination for Eisenhower, plans to use radio and television extensively from now until election day in a drive to cut into the big majority New York city usually turns out for Democratic candidates.

The Rural Citizens group elected Mrs. Roger Todd of West Danby its co-chairman.

Meanwhile, a touring party of state Republican leaders led by State Chairman William L. Pfeiffer visited Buffalo and Rochester to take soundings on the progress of the presidential campaign.

Pfeiffer said the state campaign was progressing "very satisfactorily."

"Contrary to 1948 when everybody was overconfident, our workers have buckled down to the job and they are working hard," Pfeiffer added.

CHILDREN UNWELCOMED AT WEDDING

A bride-to-be writes: "I am going to be married in church soon and have a reception afterwards at an hotel for relatives and nearest friends. My problem is this: Most of my relatives have young children and if I invite one of them to the wedding, it would mean having to invite them all and I am trying to limit the number of guests as much as I possibly can. How can I word the invitations so that these relatives will not bring their children with them? Would it be possible to write at the bottom of their invitations: "No children, please." I know that if I just address the envelope to Mr. and Mrs. and make no mention of the children they will bring them along anyway. If this wording is not proper, what would you suggest?"

To engrave "No children allowed' would be unforgivable. If the children's names are not included on the invitation, it is very incorrect on the part of the parents to take them. If a few do not know better it can't be helped.

Miss and Mrs.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a secretary and very often I have to write letters to other business concerns in my own name. I would like to know the correct way to sign these letters. Do I sign my name with Miss before it, or just my first and last name? If I sign this last way, the person answering will not know whether to address me as Miss or Mrs.

Answer: If the name is signed "Mary Jones," the reply is addressed "Miss" always. A "Mrs." would put (Mrs. John) beneath her signature.

Wedding Clothes

Dear Mrs. Post: I am invited to the wedding and reception of a friend which will take place in two weeks. The wedding is at five o'clock. Will you please tell me the correct clothes for my husband and me to wear to this wedding?

Answer: You both wear daytime clothes. It is not correct to wear evening dress before six o'clock.

Here's a man who is through with doubt and wonder about the wisdom of his choice in a motor car.

He has just taken possession of his first Cadillac—and, this time, he knows he's right.

The car's reputation—built by the judgments of hundreds of thousands of the world's most critical motorists—is his complete assurance that he has made the wisest choice it is possible to make.

He's a happy man as he rolls serenely along the highway—heading for home and the approval of his family and friends.

And how the years and the miles will justify his confidence!

LET US REPAY OUR DEBT

"Where," George Washington once asked, "is the man to be found who wishes to remain indebted for the defense of his own person and property to the exertion, the bravery and the blood of others, without making generous effort to repay the debt of honor and gratitude?"

That's a question every civilian should ask himself every day his country is engaged in any war. Particularly is it a question to be asked in this time of the "forgotten war" in Korea.

The Korean war is a brutal, bloody business, but because it has been limited in scope, civilians here at home have suffered nothing worth mentioning in the way of material deprivation. Have you ever, during the course of the Korean war, asked for something at a store only to be told by the clerk, "Don't you know there's a war on?"

Too many of us are unaware or forgetful of the terrible things our young fighting men are going through on the shell-ripped Korean hills. We need to be reminded.

Such a reminder comes from the Department of Defense, the Red Cross and the Federal Civil Defense Administration. They are the organizations operating the National Blood Program for the benefit of our war wounded, the sick and injured civilians here at home, and to build a plasma reserve for use in event of a future national emergency.

The National Blood Program knows better than any of us the value of blood in treating the sick and injured. Because of this we should heed its plea that the American people become not just one-shot donors but "regular" givers—regular like paying the rent or mowing the yard. Regular like going to the movies every couple of weeks or playing golf every Saturday.

For remember there are a bunch of guys in Korea who would give their imperiled necks to be home paying the rent or mowing the yard. To say nothing of playing golf or taking their girls to the movies.

George Washington didn't know a blood transfusion from a cherry tree. But when he mentoned "the blood of others" as a thing we should not remain indebted for, he seems almost to have been speaking with foreknowledge of these autumn days in 1952.

COMMUNISM NOT LASTING

Communism in China may be just a veneer which the Chinese will eventually reject. This comforting view is advanced by the New York Times Magazine by Professor Nathanial Peffer of Columbia University, who knows China well.

Mao Tse-tung and his followers, says Mr. Peffer, use Russian slogans which are meaningless to the Chinese. The attempt to defy Mao by showing pictures of him everywhere, imitating the Russian practice in the case of Stalin, runs contrary to the ways of thought of the Chinese. Even Confucius is represented in temples only by tablets. The Chinese also must abhor the frequent purges of disaffected elements, and the attempts to ban non-Communistic books.

In the long run the Chinese may prove almost impossible to regiment, in the Peffer view. Communism may last longer than some of the recent systems, but its ultimate fall is sure.

Just where the summer went is always the question of the hour in September. Although, like most pleasant interludes, it raced by in a hurry, the coloring leaves and crisp air of fall soon will help us forget.

GOBBLEDYGOOK TESTS

Young men and women who wish to enter the diplomatic service are tested on their ability to understand the double talk and gobbledygook which is frequently a part of diplomatic communication. The tests require the job candidates to translate paragraphs of verbose and involved prose that might be encountered by diplomats in the course of their work.

It is a good idea to determine whether those who would enter our diplomatic service can understand gobbledygook. It might be even more important to make sure that they are not prone to use it themselves. A great deal of the misunderstanding which exists among nations might be cleared up if simple, lucid statements were made in letters and notes exchanged by diplomats.

We like the fellow who wants constantly to do something worthwhile. But we admire and respect the one who does it.

THE TARIFF AND OUR ALLIES

Some European countries, particularly the British, are worried because the United States does not buy as much from them as it gives or sells to them. A neo-mercantilism controls the European economic mind. Had the Marshall Plan been so arranged that ECA had provided cash dollars in a free market, the Europeans would have been pleased to take our money to spend anywhere on the face of the earth and to manufacture goods, to be sold anywhere, including Soviet Russia, Soviet China and the satellite countries. That was undoubtedly their original concept of the plan.

It has not worked out that way. Much of the allotments of the American taxpayer's money that has been given to foreign countries has been in the form of credits to be expended in the United States. From the European standpoint, this has amounted to dumping. It is the reason why they have assumed that our generosity was due to our necessities; that without their assistance, the United States could not maintain full employment.

The British, in particular, to quote Peter Thorneycroft, president of the Board of Trade, want "trade, not aid." They desire that our tariffs be reduced so that they can flood this country with British-made goods, sold in competition with American-made goods. The difference in costs and prices between Great Britain and the United States is not being taken into consideration by those who want the American tariff reduced.

The London "Times," speaking editorially of this, says:

". . . the United States has great resources, which have been energetically developed by twentieth-century pioneering. American production grew during the war while Europe's industrial fabric was weakened. This was initially the basis for American post-war aid to Europe. Now, when European countries seek, as they should, to pay for dollar goods by sales of their own goods, as they have become increasingly able to do, the protective restrictions on imports have proved a strong artificial buttress of American self-sufficiency. Aid has therefore had to be continued—though now it is only defense aid. . . ."

This, in gist, is the European point of view—not only the British but the general European attitude toward our aid. The day may come when these countries find it advantageous to reject our aid. In fact, at a recent bankers' convention in Mexico City, the proposal was making the rounds that the United States be boycotted economically unless it imported more goods than it now does. That could only be accomplished by lowering the tariff.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that the Republican Platform states:

"We favor the expansion of mutually advantageous world trade. To further this objective we shall press for the elimination of discriminatory practices against our exports such as preferential tariffs, monetary license restrictions, and other arbitrary devices. Our reciprocal trade agreements will be entered into and maintained on a basis of true reciprocity and to safeguard our domestic enterprises and the pay rolls of our workers against unfair import competition."

It is the clause which says "to safeguard our domestic enterprises and the pay rolls of our workers" that frightens the Europeans. That could mean higher rather than lower tariffs. The Democratic Platform has this to say:

The Democratic Party has always stood for expanding trade among free nations. We reassert that stand today. We vigorously oppose any restrictive policies which would weaken the highly successful reciprocal trade program fathered by Cordell Hull. Since 1934 the United States has taken the lead in fostering the expansion and liberalization of world trade. Our own economy requires expanded export markets for our manufactured and agricultural products and a greater supply of essential, imported raw materials. At the same time, our friends throughout the world will have opportunity to earn their own way to higher living standards with lessened dependence on our aid."

Surely, this does not indicate free trade nor does it guarantee lower tariffs. The British want lower tariffs; so do the Swiss and the Scandinavians. The Russian satellites would like to trade with us on a barter basis; so would some of the South American countries.

This question is not being discussed by the candidates in what seems to be a campaign over trifles. The tariff might, in view of the European attitude, be a major problem during the next four years.

That Body of Yours

REDUCING FOOD INTAKE REDUCES WEIGHT

Physicians today are receiving a large amount of literature about new drugs, not only the sulfa drugs and penicillin, cortisone and ACTH, but about the new antihistamines to enable patients to withstand the various allergies—food, furs, feathers, pollen, house dust, street dust, hay fever, asthma and many others. Then there are the new drugs to control, not to cure, high blood pressure, which help patients physicall, mentally and emotionally by "quieting" their nerves and muscles.

However, some of the literature arriving in these "nervous" days gives helpful advice on keeping fit and free from symptoms by using common sense in their daily health habits as to rest, food, and sleep. For instance, one drug manufacturer, with an excellent product in the treatment of overwieght, tells of the dangers to health and life itself by allowing one's self to become and remain overweight. Thus, instead of immediately describing the value of his product from the standpoints of, cutting down the desire for food and increasing the rate at which the body processes work (thereby creating more heat to burn up the excess fat), he states: "Overweight is caused by overeating. Psychological, emotional, traumatic (injury) and other factor may contribute to stimulation of appetite, but fat can come only from food. There are no magic drugs that can satisfactorily bring about loss of weight." The chief feature in the correction of obesity (overweight), therefore, is the reducing diet; all other treatment is subordinate to the reducing diet. "Such a diet must be low in calories, high in protein—meat, eggs, fish—moderately low in starches—sugar, potatoes, bread—very low in fat; sufficient in bulk to satisfy hunger and adequate in vitamins and minerals."

The amount and kinds of food eaten must be adjusted to the individual's general condition, the calculation of energy output as regards his work or occupation and finally, the rate at which it is desired to reduce his weight—18 days, 18 weeks, 18 months.

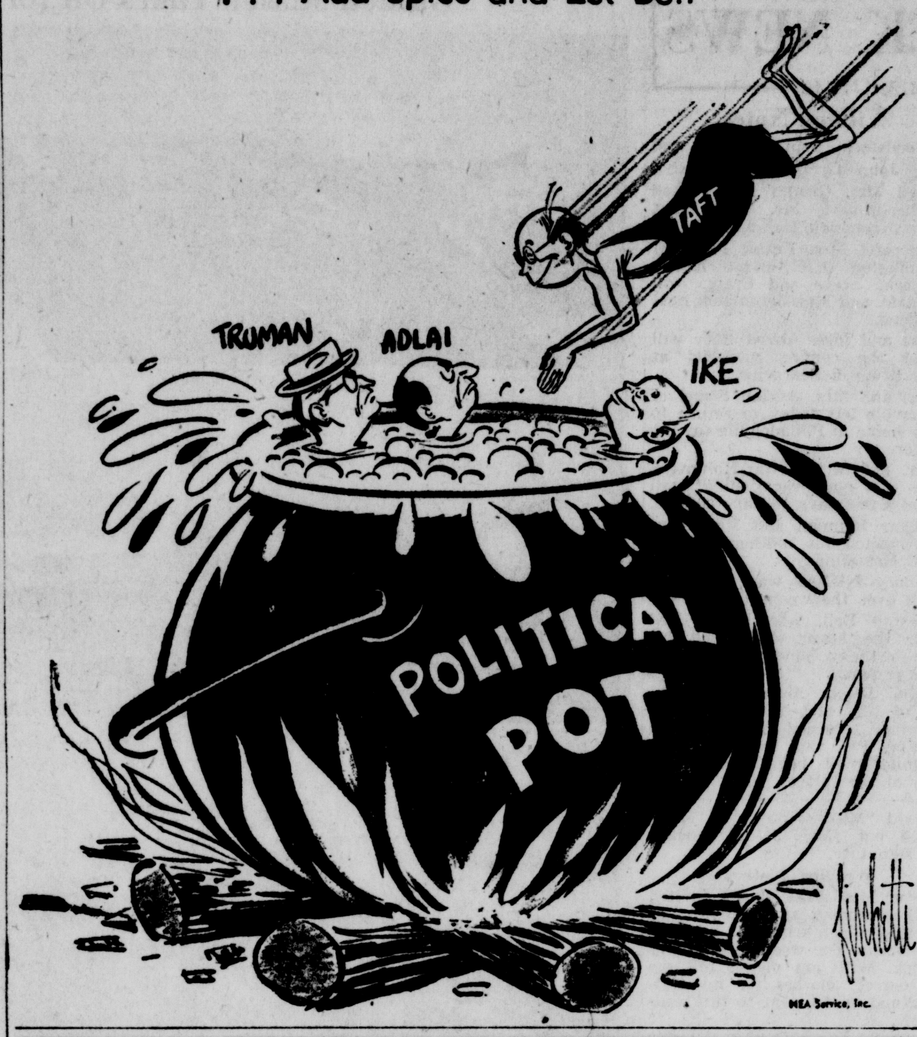

While admitting that thyroid extract and perhaps other gland extracts may be needed to partly help reduce weight, even where gland extracts are needed and used, reducing the food intake is still absolutely necessary. As so often said, you can't get fat on food you do not eat.

. . . Add Spice and Let Boil

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Aboard the Eisenhower Campaign Train—Ike Eisenhower had settled down to whistle-stopping with the verve and gusto of Harry Truman when the $16,000 Nixon bombshell hit him. After a hesitant and faltering start during the first part of his trip, the general had really learned how to harangue the crowds and seemed to like the hustings.

Then suddenly came word that his side-kick, the candidate for vice president and the man who had been held up to the public as the model young man of America, had received $16,000 a year for expenses from a "millionaires' club" in California while serving in the Senate.

For a time it took most of the campaign wind out of Ike's sails. He looked pretty grim the next morning when he spoke at little midwest towns along the way. Ike went through the usual motions but you could see his heart wasn't much in it anymore.

Back in the rest of the train, Eisenhower's advisers discussed the pros and cons of Nixon's "expense" gift.

According to normal tax practice, income used for living expenses is taxable. It cannot be tax-exempt as Senator Nixon treated it, and therefore, he opened himself up to a charge of income-tax evasion—if the Justice Department wanted to deal with Nixon the same way the Republicans have demanded that it deal with others. Likewise those who gave the expense gifts to Nixon would be vulnerable—in case they deducted the money from their own income taxes.

Illegal Gifts

Finally, it is against the law for any member of Congress to accept a fee or gift in connection with any claim, legislation or case against the U. S. Government. It is quite possible that some members of California's so-called millionaires club could have had government contracts, or could have filed for a radio or television station, or could have had other matters pending against the government on which Nixon used his influence.

In this case he would be open to criminal prosecution and a jail sentence of two years. Sen. Barton of Kansas once went to jail in such a case, while the criminal division of the Justice Department recommended the prosecution of Congressman Gene Cox of Georgia, a Democrat, for taking a gift of stock in connection with a call he made to the Federal Trade Commission to secure a radio license in Albany, Ga.

These and other possibilities were discussed on the Eisenhower train while the general was trying to make up his mind what to do.

Eisenhower's Decision

Meanwhile newsmen, most of them representing pro-Eisenhower papers, asked Press Secretary Jim Hagerty for a statement.

"No comment at this time," replied Hagerty usually one of the most obliging men in the world.

"But this is something the American people have a right to know about," pressed Vance Johnson of the San Francisco Chronicle, a paper supporting Eisenhower and Nixon.

Ed Folliard of the Washington Post, also an Eisenhower paper, backed him up, as did others.

"I'm not going to get a statement for all you Democratic papers," gibed Hagerty, half joking.

"But I happen to represent a paper which strongly supports your candidate—at least momentarily," shot back Johnson.

Hagerty couldn't help himself. He knew that the general was in the rear of the train at that moment with Senators Carlson of Kansas and Seaton of Nebraska, two of his closest advisers, trying to decide what to do.

Next morning Hagerty came forth with the general's statement which many construed as strong support of Nixon though Ike also said he would talk to his vice presidential running mate.

A moment later, the train stopped for a usual whistle-stop appearance. Ike was grim as he stepped out on the real platform. But he went through with his corruption routine.

"We have to get rid of people who regard public office as an opportunity to get rich and aggrandize themselves," he said. "I believe the cure has to come from top to bottom. I sincerely believe I can do the job with the men I gather round me in Washington."

General Eisenhower looked stern indeed as the train pulled on to the next whistle-stop on the midwest prairies.

Enticing Coattails

A sure sign that a candidate is ringing the bell is when his coattail riders increase. Local Republicans have been flocking aboard the train in such numbers to ride with Ike across their state that he's kept busy shaking hands between stops. A total of 180 rode with him across Iowa.

This would be all right if so many didn't want to make speeches or take a bow alongside Ike. You can understand this on the part of Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana, who faces a tough election fight, or Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa who was caught doing some strange things with his income tax.

But when Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, who was re-elected as recently as 1950, speaks for almost as long as Eisenhower in introducing him, it illustrates how enticing indeed are the coattails of the general.

TV Make-Up's Important

The man who taught Ike the importance of being made up for television appearance was Les Wienrott, crack television executive for the Ted Bates Advertising Agency.

Helping the general make half a hundred TV "spots" for TV "saturation" of the air waves during the last three weeks of the campaign, Wienrott noticed that Ike's bald heal glistened under the cameras. So he applied pancake make-up not only to the barren Eisenhower dome, but to the general' face. He also advised Ike never to let the TV cameras shoot him from above. "If so," cautioned Wienrott, "it makes your head egg-shaped."

Ike is now using make-up regularly, in Rock Island he drafted a schoolteacher Miss Dorothy Petersen, to apply the pancake.

Note—The campaign has been a definite strain on Eisenhower. Now 62, he says he never dreamed politics could be so rugged. The pace has been terrific. In one day, for instance, he flew from the A. F. of L. speech in New York to speak in Rock Island the same night.

Changing Backers

Strangely absent from the Eisenhower train are some of his original boosters. Sen. Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, who first started the draft-Ike movement and made speech after speech last winter when the general was still in Paris, is not only absent but unmentioned. Duff is not a Taft admirer.

Also missing is Paul Hoffman, former head of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee and one of the most effective organizers in helping Ike win the nomination. Hoffman also is not an admirer of Taft's. Reports persist that he has broken with Ike, not personally but politically.

Also missing is Herbert Brownell, the Dewey campaign manager who, along with Dewey, did so much to beat the Taft forces at Chicago. During the convention, Ive never made a move without consulting Brownell. His most frequent remark then was: "What do we do next, Herb?"

In New York, Brownell sometimes drops around to Ike's headquarters at the Hotel Commodore. But the calls are not frequent and Herb always comes up by a back elevator.

The political backers of any candidate are bound to change, but the complete turnover of the men around Eisenhower has been a little quicker than usual.

Today in Washington

Democrats Act as Though All Their Crooks Should Be Freed From Jail

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 23—"What a break — what a break!" That's the chorus heard among the Democrats hereabouts, who are jubilant to the point of ecstasy over the Nixon controversy.

To hear them talk, one gets the impression that all the Democratic administration's officials convicted of fraud or bribery or perjury or any other scandalous conduct in the past might as well be released from the jails now and all indictments quashed on pending cases. The politicians on the Democratic side are so happy that they act as if the Truman administration has been acquitted of all guilt for what has happened by way of waste and corruption in the last four years.

It would be a curious turn of the political wheel if the American people really shared the viewpoint of the Democratic politicians. It would mean that the cashier who robbed the bank would be acquitted if he merely cited the case of another bank cashier who did the same thing. It would mean that any administration which has failed in its duty to the public in the waste and mismanagement of the taxpayers' money needs only to dig up some scandal affecting the opposite political party, and all is well.

There can hardly be any other explanation for the sudden optimism which has begun to emanate from Democratic headquarters and for the rosy predictions of those who should know better—namely, that Stevenson is "in" just because the Republican vice-presidential nominee has come under criticism.

The attitude of the Democratic leaders indicates that they are blissfully ignorant of why there is so much resentment in the country today against the administration. The theory that, by merely substituting someone else in office or by finding fault with the second man on the Republican ticket, the Democratic party can win an election is a bit difficult to understand, especially if there is taken into consideration the historic record of the American people in holding the administration in power to strict accountability irrespective of the nominees on the opposite ticket. In elections, almost without exception, the people have voted against an administration guilty of bad faith with the people, without worrying too much about the capacity of the successor from the opposite party to do a better job.

From a strictly political strategy viewpoint, the Democrats have been making a mistake. Their cue was to insist that Nixon be given a fair hearing, to restate their contention that every man is innocent until proved guilty, and to repeat that no man should be accused of wrongdoing till there is some proof of it. Instead the so-called "liberals" were among the first to charge "guilt by association" and to infer that a contribution accepted from businessmen or persons with business interests to a political fund incriminates the recipent—as if this didn't also, theoretically at least, incriminate every Democrat who ever put himself under obligation by accepting large campaign contributions.

To argue that other senators or representatives had similar funds set up for them to cover their expenses does not convict of exonerate Senator Nixon. The only question at issue is whether he was bribed or influenced by the gifts to his political fund. Anyone who charges him with that crime and cannot prove it is himself guilty of libel.

The wave of inferences of guilt which has emanated from Democratic officials and their supporters against Nixon has helped to focus attention on Senator Nixon's radio and television speech. Undoubtedly General Eisenhower will await the verdict of the jury—the American people—and will be guided by their judgment.

The question of whether the California senator will voluntarily bow out of the picture probably will be decided by the vice-presidential nominee himself later in the week after he observes public reaction to his speech. If the public feels he did no wrong, morally or from a legal viewpoint, he can remain on the ticket. But the query that arises is whether he should sacrifice himself on the altar of political expediency anyway and yield to the Democratic clamor for his scalp. General Eisenhower in that case would have to hint to Senator Nixon how he himself feels about it. Then the final decision would come.

No matter which way the Republican presidential nominee decides now, he will be in political trouble. It was inevitable that once Senator Nixon explained his case, he would convince a large number of persons. He is a persuasive speaker. Those who become his partisans are expected naturally to disapprove any attempt to punish him for a wrong they feel he did not commit. Yet Senator Nixon's political fund will rise to plague him on the stump and also will tend to weaken the argument against the "Washington mess'" when the Republicans have a "mess" of their own.

Broadly speaking, the old-fashioned political rule is to defend the candidate when attacked, acquit him promptly of wrongdoing and carry the battle on with renewed vigor against political opponents. But the Eisenhower folks have defied the rules before, and it will be interesting to see if they follow them now.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Soon before the Wisconsin primary and just in time to smear Senator Joe McCarthy, the Civil Service Commission suspended an examiner of the Loyalty Review Board on suspicion that she had permitted McCarthy to learn the contents of confidential documents tending to show that the State Department had not made a sincere effort to get rid of disloyal employes. The documents were minutes of a Loyalty Review Board hearing showing that the board itself had criticized the State Department for this attitude. Nobody has denied that the board did so criticize the State Department so the action against the examiner implies that it was a worse offense for her to tell McCarthy the truth than for the State Department to harbor suspected persons.

This alacrity to punish a loyal American is in strong contrast to the practice in other known leaks of information which was legitimately confidential and private.

In a flagrant case, Drew Pearson, a faker and notorious scoundrel, broadcast on a Sunday night just before the Supreme Court's decision in the Harry Bridges deportation case, a correct prediction of the decision against Bridges and the names of the dissenting justices. I immediately wrote to the late Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, reminding him that a pipeline of Supreme Court decisions obviously could result in killings in the market and other illicit coups.

The chief justice, in handwriting, replied at once, requesting me to call on him. He said he was "profoundly disturbed." I called at his study at his home and we agreed that the late Justice Frank Murphy was the probable source of Pearson's leaks. Justice Stone said there had been an earlier instance in which the evidence was more convincing because there had been a change in the vote of one of the brethren which caught Pearson and Murphy flat-footed. I believe the chief justice called a meeting of the court and either accused Murphy directly or strongly hinted that he was under suspicion.

Murphy was a cheap, night-club type of New Dealer, given to shooting off his mouth about court business in hotel lobbies and boasting of his hot licks of rhetoric in his opinions. Like Felix Frankfurter, Murphy would write an independent opinion even in concurrence.

Another individual, once a cabinet member, had told me that Pearson sent an emissary to see him when he took office, offering to praise him on the radio and in print in return for exclusive news tips. This cabinet member declined the proposition.

Jesse Jones said that Harold Ickes and Henry Wallace both leaked confidential cabinet matters to Pearson. Ickes, of course, was as Red as Harry Hopkins or Roosevelt himself, and Wallace, after running as the Communists' candidate for president and ballyhooing Russia's ardent desire for peace, only now has found it expedient, for some occult reason, to admit that he was mistaken. He is a persistent liar, however, as I have proved through the correspondence concerning his ruthless betrayal of two scientists of the Department of Agriculture in connection with the Asiatic expedition of Nicholas Roerich, his personal Guru, or God-man.

Pearson had one reporter on his staff of "leg-men" who admitted that he had been a reporter on the Daily Worker, and another who was exposed as a Communist party member in a secret Washington cell after he had died. The first, David Katz, alias Karr, is still associated with Pearson and with the William Weintraub Ad-

LET US REPAY OUR DEBT

"Where," George Washington once asked, "is the man to be found who wishes to remain indebted for the defense of his own person and property to the exertion, the bravery and the blood of others, without making generous effort to repay the debt of honor and gratitude?"

That's a question every civilian should ask himself every day his country is engaged in any war. Particularly is it a question to be asked in this time of the "forgotten war" in Korea.

To further this objective we shall press for the elimination of discriminatory practices against our exports such as preferential tariffs, monetary license restrictions, and other arbitrary devices. Our reciprocal trade agreements will be entered into and maintained on a basis of true reciprocity and to safeguard our domestic enterprises and the pay rolls of our workers against unfair import competition."

It is the clause which says "to safeguard our domestic enterprises and the pay rolls of our workers" that frightens the Europeans. That could mean higher rather than lower tariffs. The Democratic Platform has this to say:

The Democratic Party has always stood for expanding trade among free nations. We reassert that stand today. We vigorously oppose any restrictive policies which would weaken the highly successful reciprocal trade program fathered by Cordell Hull. Since 1934 the United States has taken the lead in fostering the expansion and liberalization of world trade. Our own economy requires expanded export markets for our manufactured and agricultural products and a greater supply of essential, imported raw materials. At the same time, our friends throughout the world will have opportunity to earn their own way to higher living standards with lessened dependence on our aid."

Surely, this does not indicate free trade nor does it guarantee lower tariffs. The British want lower tariffs; so do the Swiss and the Scandinavians. The Russian satellites would like to trade with us on a barter basis; so would some of the South American countries.

This question is not being discussed by the candidates in what seems to be a campaign over trifles. The tariff might, in view of the European attitude, be a major problem during the next four years.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

REDUCING FOOD INTAKE REDUCES WEIGHT

Physicians today are receiving a large amount of literature about new drugs, not only the sulfa drugs and penicillin, cortisone and ACTH, but about the new antihistamines to enable patients to withstand the various allergies—food, furs, feathers, pollen, house dust, street dust, hay fever, asthma and many others. Then there are the new drugs to control, not to cure, high blood pressure, which help patients physicall, mentally and emotionally by "quieting" their nerves and muscles.

However, some of the literature arriving in these "nervous" days gives helpful advice on keeping fit and free from symptoms by using common sense in their daily health habits as to rest, food, and sleep. For instance, one drug manufacturer, with an excellent product in the treatment of overwieght, tells of the dangers to health and life itself by allowing one's self to become and remain overweight. Thus, instead of immediately describing the value of his product from the standpoints of cutting down the desire for food and increasing the rate at which the body processes work (thereby creating more heat to burn up the excess fat), he states: "Overweight is caused by overeating. Psychological, emotional, traumatic (injury) and other factor may contribute to stimulation of appetite, but fat can come only from food. There are no magic drugs that can satisfactorily bring about loss of weight." The chief feature in the correction of obesity (overweight), therefore, is the reducing diet; all other treatment is subordinate to the reducing diet. "Such a diet must be low in calories, high in protein—meat, eggs, fish—moderately low in starches—sugar, potatoes, bread—very low in fat; sufficient in bulk to satisfy hunger and adequate in vitamins and minerals."

The amount and kinds of food eaten must be adjusted to the individual's general condition, the calculation of energy output as regards his work or occupation and finally, the rate at which it is desired to reduce his weight—18 days, 18 weeks, 18 months.

While admitting that thyroid extract and perhaps other gland extracts may be needed to partly help reduce weight, even where gland extracts are needed and used, reducing the food intake is still absolutely necessary. As so often said, you can't get fat on food you do not eat.

. . . Add Spice and Let Boil

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Aboard the Eisenhower Campaign Train—Ike Eisenhower had settled down to whistle-stopping with the verve and gusto of Harry Truman when the $16,000 Nixon bombshell hit him. After a hesitant and faltering start during the first part of his trip, the general had really learned how to harangue the crowds and seemed to like the hustings.

Then suddenly came word that his side-kick, the candidate for vice president and the man who had been held up to the public as the model young man of America, had received $16,000 a year for expenses from a "millionaires' club" in California while serving in the Senate.

For a time it took most of the campaign wind out of Ike's sails. He looked pretty grim the next morning when he spoke at little midwest towns along the way. Ike went through the usual motions but you could see his heart wasn't much in it anymore.

Back in the rest of the train, Eisenhower's advisers discussed the pros and cons of Nixon's "expense" gift.

According to normal tax practice, income used for living expenses is taxable. It cannot be tax-exempt as Senator Nixon treated it, and therefore, he opened himself up to a charge of income-tax evasion—if the Justice Department wanted to deal with Nixon the same way the Republicans have demanded that it deal with others. Likewise those who gave the expense gifts to Nixon would be vulnerable—in case they deducted the money from their own income taxes.

Illegal Gifts

Finally, it is against the law for any member of Congress to accept a fee or gift in connection with any claim, legislation or case against the U. S. Government. It is quite possible that some members of California's so-called millionaires club could have had government contracts, or could have filed for a radio or television station, or could have had other matters pending against the government on which Nixon used his influence.

In this case he would be open to criminal prosecution and a jail sentence of two years. Sen. Barton of Kansas once went to jail in such a case, while the criminal division of the Justice Department recommended the prosecution of Congressman Gene Cox of Georgia, a Democrat, for taking a gift of stock in connection with a call he made to the Federal Trade Commission to secure a radio license in Albany, Ga.

These and other possibilities were discussed on the Eisenhower train while the general was trying to make up his mind what to do.

Eisenhower's Decision

Meanwhile newsmen, most of them representing pro-Eisenhower papers, asked Press Secretary Jim Hagerty for a statement.

"No comment at this time," replied Hagerty usually one of the most obliging men in the world.

"But this is something the American people have a right to know about," pressed Vance Johnson of the San Francisco Chronicle, a paper supporting Eisenhower and Nixon.

Ed Folliard of the Washington Post, also an Eisenhower paper, backed him up, as did others.

"I'm not going to get a statement for all you Democratic papers," gibed Hagerty, half joking.

"But I happen to represent a paper which strongly supports your candidate—at least momentarily," shot back Johnson.

Hagerty couldn't help himself. He knew that the general was in the rear of the train at that moment with Senators Carlson of Kansas and Seaton of Nebraska, two of his closest advisers, trying to decide what to do.

Next morning Hagerty came forth with the general's statement which many construed as strong support of Nixon though Ike also said he would talk to his vice presidential running mate.

A moment later, the train stopped for a usual whistle-stop appearance. Ike was grim as he stepped out on the real platform. But he went through with his corruption routine.

"We have to get rid of people who regard public office as an opportunity to get rich and aggrandize themselves," he said. "I believe the cure has to come from top to bottom. I sincerely believe I can do the job with the men I gather round me in Washington."

General Eisenhower looked stern indeed as the train pulled on to the next whistle-stop on the midwest prairies.

Enticing Coattails

A sure sign that a candidate is ringing the bell is when his coattail riders increase. Local Republicans have been flocking aboard the train in such numbers to ride with Ike across their state that he's kept busy shaking hands between stops. A total of 180 rode with him across Iowa.

This would be all right if so many didn't want to make speeches or take a bow alongside Ike. You can understand this on the part of Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana, who faces a tough election fight, or Gov. William S. Beardsley of Iowa who was caught doing some strange things with his income tax.

But when Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, who was re-elected as recently as 1950, speaks for almost as long as Eisenhower in introducing him, it illustrates how enticing indeed are the coattails of the general.

TV Make-Up's Important

The man who taught Ike the importance of being made up for television appearance was Les Wienrott, crack television executive for the Ted Bates Advertising Agency.

Helping the general make half a hundred TV "spots" for TV "saturation" of the air waves during the last three weeks of the campaign, Wienrott noticed that Ike's bald heal glistened under the cameras. So he applied pancake make-up not only to the barren Eisenhower dome, but to the general' face. He also advised Ike never to let the TV cameras shoot him from above. "If so," cautioned Wienrott, "it makes your head egg-shaped."

Ike is now using make-up regularly, in Rock Island he drafted a schoolteacher Miss Dorothy Petersen, to apply the pancake.

Note—The campaign has been a definite strain on Eisenhower. Now 62, he says he never dreamed politics could be so rugged. The pace has been terrific. In one day, for instance, he flew from the A. F. of L. speech in New York to speak in Rock Island the same night.

Changing Backers

Strangely absent from the Eisenhower train are some of his original boosters. Sen. Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, who first started the draft-Ike movement and made speech after speech last winter when the general was still in Paris, is not only absent but unmentioned. Duff is not a Taft admirer.

Also missing is Paul Hoffman, former head of the Citizens for Eisenhower Committee and one of the most effective organizers in helping Ike win the nomination. Hoffman also is not an admirer of Taft's. Reports persist that he has broken with Ike, not personally but politically.

Also missing is Herbert Brownell, the Dewey campaign manager who, along with Dewey, did so much to beat the Taft forces at Chicago. During the convention, Ive never made a move without consulting Brownell. His most frequent remark then was: "What do we do next, Herb?"

In New York, Brownell sometimes drops around to Ike's headquarters at the Hotel Commodore. But the calls are not frequent and Herb always comes up by a back elevator.

The political backers of any candidate are bound to change, but the complete turnover of the men around Eisenhower has been a little quicker than usual.

Today in Washington

Democrats Act as Though All Their Crooks Should Be Freed From Jail

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 23—"What a break — what a break!" That's the chorus heard among the Democrats hereabouts, who are jubilant to the point of ecstasy over the Nixon controversy.

To hear them talk, one gets the impression that all the Democratic administration's officials convicted of fraud or bribery or perjury or any other scandalous conduct in the past might as well be released from the jails now and all indictments quashed on pending cases. The politicians on the Democratic side are so happy that they act as if the Truman administration has been acquitted of all guilt for what has happened by way of waste and corruption in the last four years.

It would be a curious turn of the political wheel if the American people really shared the viewpoint of the Democratic politicians. It would mean that the cashier who robbed the bank would be acquitted if he merely cited the case of another bank cashier who did the same thing. It would mean that any administration which has failed in its duty to the public in the waste and mismanagement of the taxpayers' money needs only to dig up some scandal affecting the opposite political party, and all is well.

There can hardly be any other explanation for the sudden optimism which has begun to emanate from Democratic headquarters and for the rosy predictions of those who should know better—namely, that Stevenson is "in" just because the Republican vice-presidential nominee has come under criticism.

The attitude of the Democratic leaders indicates that they are blissfully ignorant of why there is so much resentment in the country today against the administration. The theory that, by merely substituting someone else in office or by finding fault with the second man on the Republican ticket, the Democratic party can win an election is a bit difficult to understand, especially if there is taken into consideration the historic record of the American people in holding the administration in power to strict accountability irrespective of the nominees on the opposite ticket. In elections, almost without exception, the people have voted against an administration guilty of bad faith with the people, without worrying too much about the capacity of the successor from the opposite party to do a better job.

From a strictly political strategy viewpoint, the Democrats have been making a mistake. Their cue was to insist that Nixon be given a fair hearing, to restate their contention that every man is innocent until proved guilty, and to repeat that no man should be accused of wrongdoing till there is some proof of it. Instead the so-called "liberals" were among the first to charge "guilt by association" and to infer that a contribution accepted from businessmen or persons with business interests to a political fund incriminates the recipent—as if this didn't also, theoretically at least, incriminate every Democrat who ever put himself under obligation by accepting large campaign contributions.

To argue that other senators or representatives had similar funds set up for them to cover their expenses does not convict of exonerate Senator Nixon. The only question at issue is whether he was bribed or influenced by the gifts to his political fund. Anyone who charges him with that crime and cannot prove it is himself guilty of libel.

The wave of inferences of guilt which has emanated from Democratic officials and their supporters against Nixon has helped to focus attention on Senator Nixon's radio and television speech. Undoubtedly General Eisenhower will await the verdict of the jury—the American people—and will be guided by their judgment.

The question of whether the California senator will voluntarily bow out of the picture probably will be decided by the vice-presidential nominee himself later in the week after he observes public reaction to his speech. If the public feels he did no wrong, morally or from a legal viewpoint, he can remain on the ticket. But the query that arises is whether he should sacrifice himself on the altar of political expediency anyway and yield to the Democratic clamor for his scalp. General Eisenhower in that case would have to hint to Senator Nixon how he himself feels about it. Then the final decision would come.

No matter which way the Republican presidential nominee decides now, he will be in political trouble. It was inevitable that once Senator Nixon explained his case, he would convince a large number of persons. He is a persuasive speaker. Those who become his partisans are expected naturally to disapprove any attempt to punish him for a wrong they feel he did not commit. Yet Senator Nixon's political fund will rise to plague him on the stump and also will tend to weaken the argument against the "Washington mess" when the Republicans have a "mess" of their own.

Broadly speaking, the old-fashioned political rule is to defend the candidate when attacked, acquit him promptly of wrongdoing and carry the battle on with renewed vigor against political opponents. But the Eisenhower folks have defied the rules before, and it will be interesting to see if they follow them now.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Soon before the Wisconsin primary and just in time to smear Senator Joe McCarthy, the Civil Service Commission suspended an examiner of the Loyalty Review Board on suspicion that she had permitted McCarthy to learn the contents of confidential documents tending to show that the State Department had not made a sincere effort to get rid of disloyal employes. The documents were minutes of a Loyalty Review Board hearing showing that the board itself had criticized the State Department for this attitude. Nobody has denied that the board did so criticize the State Department so the action against the examiner implies that it was a worse offense for her to tell McCarthy the truth than for the State Department to harbor suspected persons.

This alacrity to punish a loyal American is in strong contrast to the practice in other known leaks of information which was legitimately confidential and private.

In a flagrant case, Drew Pearson, a faker and notorious scoundrel, broadcast on a Sunday night just before the Supreme Court's decision in the Harry Bridges deportation case, a correct prediction of the decision against Bridges and the names of the dissenting justices. I immediately wrote to the late Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, reminding him that a pipeline of Supreme Court decisions obviously could result in killings in the market and other illicit coups.

The chief justice, in handwriting, replied at once, requesting me to call on him. He said he was "profoundly disturbed." I called at his study at his home and we agreed that the late Justice Frank Murphy was the probable source of Pearson's leaks. Justice Stone said there had been an earlier instance in which the evidence was more convincing because there had been a change in the vote of one of the brethren which caught Pearson and Murphy flat-footed. I believe the chief justice called a meeting of the court and either accused Murphy directly or strongly hinted that he was under suspicion.

Murphy was a cheap, night-club type of New Dealer, given to shooting off his mouth about court business in hotel lobbies and boasting of his hot licks of rhetoric in his opinions. Like Felix Frankfurter, Murphy would write an independent opinion even in concurrence.

Another individual, once a cabinet member, had told me that Pearson sent an emissary to see him when he took office, offering to praise him on the radio and in print in return for exclusive news tips. This cabinet member declined the proposition.

Jesse Jones said that Harold Ickes and Henry Wallace both leaked confidential cabinet matters to Pearson. Ickes, of course, was as Red as Harry Hopkins or Roosevelt himself, and Wallace, after running as the Communists' candidate for president and ballyhooing Russia's ardent desire for peace, only now has found it expedient, for some occult reason, to admit that he was mistaken. He is a persistent liar, however, as I have proved through the correspondence concerning his ruthless betrayal of two scientists of the Department of Agriculture in connection with the Asiatic expedition of Nicholas Roerich, his personal Guru, or God-man.

Pearson had one reporter on his staff of "leg-men" who admitted that he had been a reporter on the Daily Worker, and another who was exposed as a Communist party member in a secret Washington cell after he had died. The first, David Katz, alias Karr, is still associated with Pearson and with the William Weintraub Advertising Agency in New York which handles Pearson's radio business. Madeline, the wife of Katz, got into the White House as correspondent of an obscure New York weekly Greek-language paper and was barred by order of General Harry Vaughan after Pearson had tried to plant an undercover agent on an official economic mission to Greece, with a view to that agent's later entry into Jugoslavia when Tito and Stalin were warm friends.

Johnny Maragon was the immediate agent in the cancellation of Madeline Katz' White House credentials. He got six months in jail for giving confused information about his income and taxes and was the only person of all those involved in the deep-freeze and perfume scandals who did go to prison. Maragon was expendable.

Pearson's other Red reporter, Andrew Older, was exposed by a patriotic American housewife who joined his cell to spy on traitors. After the denunciation, Pearson wrote that he himself had discovered the poor, misguided boy's unfortunate error and had tried to show him the right way. Pearson probably lied here as he has in other matters. He did not mention Older's guilt until it had been exposed in official proceedings. By that time Older was dead.

During the war, the censorship office seized personal letters written by Miss Vivien Kellems, an outstanding patriot, to a German citizen living in South America.

Pearson broadcast them and smeared Miss Kellems as a Nazi-phile on the unsupported suspicion that the German was a Nazi. No person ever was suspended, much less sent to prison, for this criminal violation of the purpose of the censorship.

The traffic in filched documents and confidential knowledge has grown into an alarming menace. The Communists almost always get the breaks and the old Dies Committee went to great pains to photograph its documents showing guilty activity by many of the Roosevelt-Frankfurter cult when it appeared, for a time, that Eleanor Roosevelt and her machine would succeed in abolishing the committee. In that case, the files would have been burned at once.

In the dramatic investigation of the Alger Hiss "apparatus" Adolf Berle, a typical Harvard lace-cuff liberal of the Frankfurter-Acheson group, testified that a "leg-man" for Pearson had been obtaining secret information valuable to the Soviets out of the State Department. He did not name this "leg-man" who might have been Katz, late of the Communist Daily Worker, or Older.

None of these revelations in their turn aroused even a whisper of indignation in the same anti-McCarthy press which took voluptuous joy in the suspension of a patriotic employe for warning Joe McCarthy that the Loyalty Review Board suspected the State Department of covering up Communists.

Wore Only Panties For Treatment, She Sues for $50,000

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—An unmarried woman is suing a psychoanalyst for $50,000, contending he caused her "severe emotional shock" by analyzing her while she wore only her panties.

The woman, identified as Rita Smith, said in her complaint that she reclined on a couch "dressed only in her panties while the defendant sat in a chair at the head of the couch and probed into the inner recesses of her mind."

Disclosure of the suit came yesterday when State Supreme Court Justice James B. M. McNally refused to dismiss the complaint. No date for a trial was set.

The psychoanalyst, Hal M. Wells, denied the charges and described them as "scandalous and shocking."

Miss Smith also alleged that sedatives made her physically as well as mentally upset. She said she paid Wells $2,245 in 1949 for treatments after he told her that reputable psychiatric associations "authorized him to examine patients while they were dressed only in panties."

Snake-Catcher Hired

Durban, South Africa (AP)—Mambas, puff-adders and other deadly reptiles have so harassed white technicians and African laborers working on the new 17 million dollar Standard Vacuum Oil refinery here that the company has hired a snake-catcher to prevent walkouts. Site workers hacking their way through virgin bush complained of the snakes which festooned the trees and whirred up from overturned rocks. Julio Desebrook, 66, was hired to flush the snakes out. He has been catching snakes about 40 years, and is rated as "the most successful snake catcher in South Africa." Desebrook has caught one snake nearly five feet long. The company also permits him to sell the snakes he catches.

Wore Only Panties For Treatment, She Sues for $50,000

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—An unmarried woman is suing a psychoanalyst for $50,000, contending he caused her "severe emotional shock" by analyzing her while she wore only her panties.

The woman, identified as Rita Smith, said in her complaint that she reclined on a couch "dressed only in her panties while the defendant sat in a chair at the head of the couch and probed into the inner recesses of her mind."

Disclosure of the suit came yesterday when State Supreme Court Justice James B. M. McNally refused to dismiss the complaint. No date for a trial was set.

The psychoanalyst, Hal M. Wells, denied the charges and described them as "scandalous and shocking."

Miss Smith also alleged that sedatives made her physically as well as mentally upset. She said she paid Wells $2,245 in 1949 for treatments after he told her that reputable psychiatric associations "authorized him to examine patients while they were dressed only in panties."

Canada's average yield per acre of tobacco in 1951 was 1,293 pounds.

Snake-Catcher Hired

Durban, South Africa (AP)—Mambas, puff-adders and other deadly reptiles have so harassed white technicians and African laborers working on the new 17 million dollar Standard Vacuum Oil refinery here that the company has hired a snake-catcher to prevent walkouts. Site workers hacking their way through virgin bush complained of the snakes which festooned the trees and whirred up from overturned rocks. Julio Desebrook, 66, was hired to flush the snakes out. He has been catching snakes about 40 years, and is rated as "the most successful snake catcher in South Africa." Desebrook has caught one snake nearly five feet long. The company also permits him to sell the snakes he catches.

Hughes Sells His Control of RKO

Hollywood, Sept. 23 (AP)—Millionaire industrialist Howard Hughes announced early today the outright sale of his controlling interest in RKO Pictures Corp., producers and distributors of motion pictures, for $7,093,940.

Purchasers are a group of California, Texas and midwest business men headed by Ralph Stolkin, 34-year-old Chicago mail order millionaire.

The sum covers the purchase of 1,013,420 shares of stock at $7 per share. This amounts to about 30 per cent interest in the studio.

Recent reports said Edward Burk and Robert Hayes of San Antonio, Tex., and Ray Ryan of Evansville, Ind., would be associated with Stolkin in the deal.

Hughes owns an aircraft plant, an oil tool business and a big interest in Transworld Airlines.

RKO Pictures Corp. is one of two firms stemming from Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corp. Hughes still owns 929,020 of 3,914,913 shares outstanding — or 24 per cent — in RKO Theaters Corp. This corporation is the other firm growing out of Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

Stolkin is no newcomer to Hollywood. He headed Screen Associates, which produced the Dean Martin-Jerry Lewis film "At War With the Army."

Friends say Stolkin is something of a financial wizard. He is said to have parlayed a $15,000 loan into Empire Industries, which netted him millions in mail order business. Much of this he put into Texas Oil, where a lot of Hughes' money comes from.

Bingo Ban Clapped On in New York

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Police have suddenly banned bingo throughout New York city.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said yesterday that in the past week police have visited churches, clubs and other places where bingo has been played for years without interference.

"It's a violation of law" was the only comment he would make.

Pastors of some churches were upset, noting that the games were operated by church members solely to finance church improvements.

Unsuccessful attempts have been made in the state Legislature to legalize bingo by organizations promoting religious and charitable activities and other nonprofit groups.

In New Jersey the Legislature approved a bill to submit the issue to a referendum but Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll vetoed it on the ground that racketeers would dominate the game.

Two Masked Men Are Held in Connecticut

Milford, Conn., Sept. 23 (AP)—A Merritt Parkway toll station attendant became understandably suspicious yesterday when an automobile bearing three young men, two of whom wore masks, stopped at his booth.

The car had no license plates, but the driver exhibited a permit from Utah authorities in lieu of markers.

After collecting the dime toll, the attendant notified police and the east-bound car was halted on the Wilbur Cross Parkway in West Haven, about a mile from Yale Bowl.

State Policeman Joseph Ciecierski said the three occupants identified themselves as Norris B. Finalyson, 20, of Seattle, Wash.; Max L. Weiss, 19, of Portland, Ore., and Charles I. Wurster, Jr., 20, of Portland, Ore., all Yale students.

Ciecierski said he booked Finlayson and Weiss on breach of the peace charges because they were wearing masks. Wurster, unmasked, was not arrested.

Wipes Out Army Brass

Quito, Ecuador, Sept. 23 (AP)—Ecuador's new President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra last night ordered the army commander-in-chief and 47 other top officers into retirement. The move obviously was designed to consolidate his control of the nation. Col. Octavio Ochoa, ousted as army boss, called the order an "unjust and reckless treatment of the army high command."

Scientists Claim Weed Will Control Birth

London, Sept. 23 (AP)—A British researcher said today the juice of a common weed which can be drunk like coffee may yield a successful means of birth control.

Dr. O. P. Wiesner, a London specialist on human fertility, identified the weed as gromwell, also known as gray millet, a botanical relative of the forget-me-not.

He said liquid extracts of the weed, which already had proved effective in preventing conception by mice, had been given experimentally to three women and a man who suffered no physical ill effects.

The subjects refrained from risking conception during the period of treatment. However, Dr. Wiesner said he is convinced the use of the extracts "is an effective method of birth control and that it is safe."

Further experiments will be carried out next spring, when researchers hope to obtain a big enough crop of the weed for larger-scale tests.

The island of Jamaica in the British West Indies boasts that it is almost fog free.

Two Senators Call Nixon 'Fine Man'

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Two Republican senators returning from Europe today called Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California "a very fine man" in the face of the political furore over his privately-raised $18,235 expense fund.

The senators, Robert C. Hendrickson, of New Jersey, and Eugene D. Millikan, of Colorado, commented on the Republican vice presidential nominee as they returned aboard the Queen Mary.

"I have a great deal of confidence in the integrity of Sen. Nixon," Hendrickson told newsmen. "I think he is a very fine man."

Millikin said he intended to keep a pledge he made to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, GOP presidential nominee, to "give him (Eisenhower) all the help I can." He also used the term "very fine man" in describing Nixon.

Millikan and his wife had been vacationing in Europe. Hendrickson visited Europe to study refugee and immigration problems.

Vets Anniversary Dinner Sunday

Arrangements have been completed, except for filling a few reservations, for Sunday's dinner in celebration of the 10th anniversary of the contingent that left for the armed forces on September 28, 1942.

Police Sergeant Robert Murphy, who was in charge of the group, said today that most of the men have been contacted and will attend the dinner at 6 p. m. in Cuneo's Restaurant on Broadway. "We are awaiting a few more reservations, however," he said, "and will be pleased to hear from the veterans as soon as possible."

Members of the contingent desiring to attend the dinner, but who have not made reservations may sign up by phoning Sergeant Murphy at 5606 or Frank Murphy at 2631-M.

Approximately 100 men left with the group 10 years ago and it is anticipated that service yarns will be yards long when they get together for the anniversary celebration.

One Person Is Hurt

One person was injured slightly in a collision of two trucks and a car on Wurts street near Abeel yesterday. A report by Officer Louis Sapp, Jr., at 4:12 p. m., said that a tractor trailer owned by Associated Transport Inc., of New York and driven by Joseph H. Simpson, of Waterford, a sedan owned and operated by Joseph Uhl, 94 O'Neil street, and another truck which left the scene, were involved. All were headed north on Wurts street, when the New York truck hit the sedan and the latter hit the other truck, the report said. Anna Uhl, of 94 O'Neil street reported injuries of the head and an elbow.

Tax Penalties Imposed On 13 Repair Firms

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Income tax penalties were imposed on 13 Brooklyn ship repair firms yesterday for granting wage increases without Wage Stabilization Board authorization.

The order requires each firm to disregard 15 per cent of the total of each excess pay increase when calculating payrolls for tax purposes.

The Wage Stablization Board's Enforcement Commission, which announced the fines after hearings, said it was making the penalties light because of extenuating and mitigating circumstances."

These circumstances, the commission said, involved the fact that the companies and the AFL Marine Trades Council "were about to reach an agreement, and were 'caught short' by the sudden imposition of wage controls."

The firms and the union group agreed later on the pay increases and they were put into effect without board approval.

Grand Jury Probes Waterfront Racket

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—A Brooklyn grand jury is investigating an alleged multi-million dollar waterfront racket involving the sale of impure coffee, tea and cocoa.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Julius Helfand, announcing yesterday that three men were being held as material witnesses, said the racket reportedly worked in this manner:

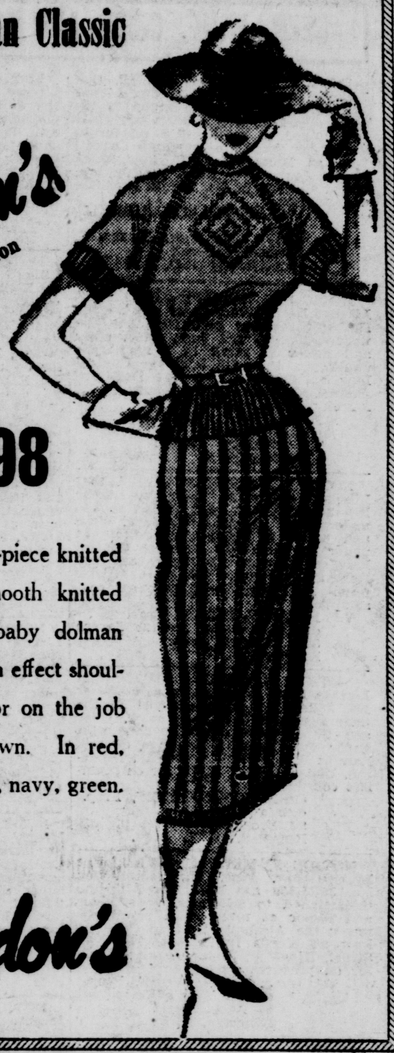

Huge quantities of coffee, tea and cocoa which have spilled out of bags in shipment are collected at the docks. Then the salvaged foods are shipped abroad, repackaged and returned here as new merchandise.

The three men held as material witnesses were identified as John Mamanno, 43, of Brooklyn, operator of a cargo salvage business; Harry Acer, 37, of West Hempstead, N. Y., cargo claim agent; and William L. Capaldo, 32, an assistant claim agent for the steamship line.

Mamanno was held in $50,000 bail, the others in $5,000 each.

Helfand said high bail was set to protect the trio against possible reprisals and to assure their appearance before the grand jury.

Scientists Claim Weed Will Control Birth

London, Sept. 23 (AP)—A British researcher said today the juice of a common weed which can be drunk like coffee may yield a successful means of birth control.

Dr. O. P. Wiesner, a London specialist on human fertility, identified the weed as gromwell, also known as gray millet, a botanical relative of the forget-me-not.

He said liquid extracts of the weed, which already had proved effective in preventing conception by mice, had been given experimentally to three women and a man who suffered no physical ill effects.

The subjects refrained from risking conception during the period of treatment. However, Dr. Wiesner said he is convinced the use of the extracts "is an effective method of birth control and that it is safe."

Further experiments will be carried out next spring, when researchers hope to obtain a big enough crop of the weed for larger-scale tests.

Two Senators Call Nixon 'Fine Man'

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Two Republican senators returning from Europe today called Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California "a very fine man" in the face of the political furore over his privately-raised $18,235 expense fund.

The senators, Robert C. Hendrickson, of New Jersey, and Eugene D. Millikan, of Colorado, commented on the Republican vice presidential nominee as they returned aboard the Queen Mary.

"I have a great deal of confidence in the integrity of Sen. Nixon," Hendrickson told newsmen. "I think he is a very fine man."

Millikin said he intended to keep a pledge he made to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, GOP presidential nominee, to "give him (Eisenhower) all the help I can." He also used the term "very fine man" in describing Nixon.

Millikan and his wife had been vacationing in Europe. Hendrickson visited Europe to study refugee and immigration problems.

Vets Anniversary Dinner Sunday

Arrangements have been completed, except for filling a few reservations, for Sunday's dinner in celebration of the 10th anniversary of the contingent that left for the armed forces on September 28, 1942.

Police Sergeant Robert Murphy, who was in charge of the group, said today that most of the men have been contacted and will attend the dinner at 6 p. m. in Cuneo's Restaurant on Broadway. "We are awaiting a few more reservations, however," he said, "and will be pleased to hear from the veterans as soon as possible."

Members of the contingent desiring to attend the dinner, but who have not made reservations may sign up by phoning Sergeant Murphy at 5606 or Frank Murphy at 2631-M.

Approximately 100 men left with the group 10 years ago and it is anticipated that service yarns will be yards long when they get together for the anniversary celebration.

Anna Uhl, of 94 O'Neil street reported injuries of the head and an elbow.

Tax Penalties Imposed On 13 Repair Firms

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Income tax penalties were imposed on 13 Brooklyn ship repair firms yesterday for granting wage increases without Wage Stabilization Board authorization.

The order requires each firm to disregard 15 per cent of the total of each excess pay increase when calculating payrolls for tax purposes.

The Wage Stablization Board's Enforcement Commission, which announced the fines after hearings, said it was making the penalties light because of extenuating and mitigating circumstances."

These circumstances, the commission said, involved the fact that the companies and the AFL Marine Trades Council "were about to reach an agreement, and were 'caught short' by the sudden imposition of wage controls."

The firms and the union group agreed later on the pay increases and they were put into effect without board approval.

Grand Jury Probes Waterfront Racket

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—A Brooklyn grand jury is investigating an alleged multi-million dollar waterfront racket involving the sale of impure coffee, tea and cocoa.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Julius Helfand, announcing yesterday that three men were being held as material witnesses, said the racket reportedly worked in this manner:

Huge quantities of coffee, tea and cocoa which have spilled out of bags in shipment are collected at the docks. Then the salvaged foods are shipped abroad, repackaged and returned here as new merchandise.

The three men held as material witnesses were identified as John Mamanno, 43, of Brooklyn, operator of a cargo salvage business; Harry Acer, 37, of West Hempstead, N. Y., cargo claim agent; and William L. Capaldo, 32, an assistant claim agent for the steamship line.

Mamanno was held in $50,000 bail, the others in $5,000 each.

Helfand said high bail was set to protect the trio against possible reprisals and to assure their appearance before the grand jury.

Chaplin Is Given Noisy Welcome

London, Sept. 23 (AP) — Joyful welcoming crowds brought tears to the eyes of Charlie Chaplin today as the little comedian returned to the land of his birth for the first time in 21 years.

Beset by a move to bar his reentry into America, Chaplin cried openly as a throng of more than 1,000 jammed around him at Waterloo station yelling "good old Charlie" and "welcome back."

Repeatedly the 63-year-old actor turned to his young wife, the former Oona O'Neill, and murmured: "It's wonderful, it's wonderful."

Asked what plans he has for his stay in England, which is expected to last several months the comedian replied: "We're just going to see everything we can, historic sights and so on. But right now you must excuse me, I'm a bit too overwhelmed by the crowd to be articulate."

No Crisis Desired

Earlier at Southampton, where he and his family landed from the liner Queen Elizabeth, Chaplin declared:

"I haven't come over here to create an international crisis."

The silver-haired comedian spent his last evening aboard ship entertaining his wife and some 30 newsmen who came aboard at Cherbourg, France, to get Chaplin's reaction to the Washington-ordered inquiry on his suitability to re-enter the United States.

He gave a cocktail party for the newsmen early in the evening. After dinner, Chaplin took over a piano in the ship's ballroom and picked out some tunes from his new picture, "Limelight."

Harry Crocker, Chaplin's private secretary, told newsmen the comedian had prepared a reply to a question which was never put to him at a shipboard news conference yesterday. If asked, Crocker said, Chaplin intended to declare:

"I have never been a member of the Communist party and I am not a member of the Communist party."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Slam Is Bid Though Partner Lacks Aces

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is a sort of curiosity. South went out of his way to ask about his partner's aces, discovered that North had no ace, and then bid a grand slam anyway!

For the benefit of those who have just come in I should explain that South's bid of four no-trump was part of the Blackwood Convention. North is supposed to respond five clubs to show no aces, five diamonds to show one ace, five hearts to show two aces, and so on.

In this case North bid five clubs to show that he had no aces. Much to everybody's surprise, South then immediately contracted for a grand slam.

South made his slam with no particular trouble. Dummy's king of spades won the opening lead, and declarer next cashed the top diamonds. He then ruffed a diamond with one of dummy's high trumps, returned to his hand with the ace of spades, and ruffed another diamond with a high trump.

Now, for the first time, he led a trump, winning in his hand. This left one trump in dummy, which

	NORTH 23 ♠ K 5 ♥ Q 10 8 2 ♦ 8 5 ♣ K Q J 6 4
WEST ♠ J 10 9 ♥ 5 ♦ Q 10 9 4 ♣ A 8 7 5 3		EAST ♠ Q 8 7 3 2 ♥ 7 6 3 ♦ 6 2 ♣ 10 9 2
	SOUTH (D) ♠ A 6 4 ♥ A K J 9 4 ♦ A K J 7 3 ♣ None

North-South vul.

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
7 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ J

took care of South's remaining spade. South then ruffed a club, drew two more rounds of trumps and claimed the rest of the tricks.

North watched the play with great interest and some curiosity. (The dummy is seldom bored when the contract is a grand slam.) But when the hand was over, he asked a natural question: "What were you going to do if I showed an ace? Were you going to bid eight hearts?"

"No," South answered. "Only six."

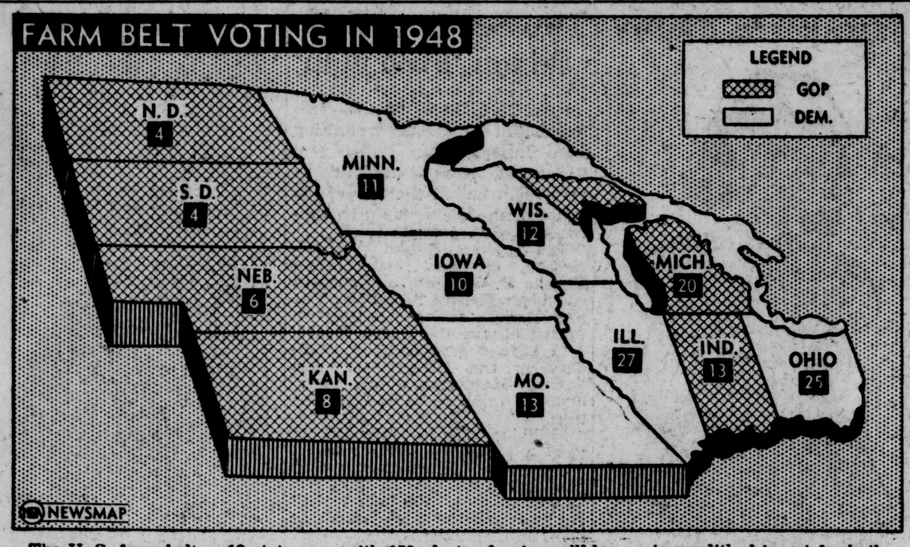

The answer was surprising, but quite logical. If North's raise to three heart's happened to be based on an aceless hand, the hand was practically sure to fit the South hand like a glove. The actual North hand was about as bad a fit as he could possibly have. It was quite possible for North to have the queen of diamonds among his valuables — instead of high, but useless, clubs.

If North had the only missing ace, however, it was quite possible for his hand to be a bad fit for the South hand. The more North had in clubs, the less he would have elsewhere. The play for a grand slam might well be poor or even impossible, and South would have contended himself with bidding six hearts instead of seven.

If either candidate could sweep the votes of this area he would only need to pick up an additional 103 electoral votes and win the 1952 election.

Cartoonist Dies Of Heart Ailment

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 23 (AP)—Harold Tucker Webster, whose cartoons made "Caspar Milquetoast" a part of the national language, died in an ambulance yesterday after collapsing on a railroad train as it pulled into the Stamford station.

Webster, a Stamford resident, observed his 67th birthday Sunday.

Dr. F. C. McMahon, medical examiner, said Webster suffered a coronary thrombosis (heart attack).

Webster had been in excellent health, friends said, although he underwent an operation three months ago for the removal of a cataract from his right eye.

His cartoons—he had drawn more than 16,000 of them in his lifetime—were syndicated by the New York Herald Tribune to papers all over the country.

"The Timid Soul" (Caspar Milquetoast) was Webster's favorite character, but he turned often to such titles as 'Life's Darkest Moment" and "The Thrill That Comes Once in Lifetime," cartoons that recalled childhood memories. Other Webster favorites included "And Nothing Can Be Done About It," 'Bridge," and "How To Torture Your Wife (or Husband)."

He was months ahead of his work, and the Herald Tribune said his cartoons will continue to appear as long as the supply lasts.

Webster, who had lived here more than 25 years, was born in Parkersburg, W. Va., and got his first job on the Denver Post. He worked on Chicago and Cincinnati papers before coming to New York.

His widow, Ethel Worts Webster, is his only immediate survivor.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon.

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. PRODUCTION FOR FREEDOM is the theme of the private power companies. Back of it is the biggest post-war expansion program of any United States industry. In the area served by New York Central, these companies are investing $6 BILLION in new electric power facilities.

2. MAN WITH 210 HELPERS! The 14,000 kilowatt hours a year used by the average U.S. worker are equal to 210 helpers! That's why the 15,000,000 kilowatts of generating capacity private power companies are adding between 1944-54 in Central territory are so vital to new industry.

3. KILOWATTS BY THE CARLOAD! Most of that new capacity will come from efficient, low-cost, year-round steam power plants that burn coal. And with 28,000 new coal cars added to its fleet since 1945, New York Central will be well equipped to deliver "kilowatts by the carload!"

4. NOT ONLY COAL, but big transformers, generators, spools of power cable move dependably and economically by train. So do the things electricity helps produce in your town and every town on New York Central. That's transportation for freedom. And it's the CENTRAL IDEA!

Slam Is Bid Though Partner Lacks Aces

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is a sort of curiosity. South went out of his way to ask about his partner's aces, discovered that North had no ace, and then bid a grand slam anyway!

For the benefit of those who have just come in I should explain that South's bid of four no-trump was part of the Blackwood Convention. North is supposed to respond five clubs to show no aces, five diamonds to show one ace, five hearts to show two aces, and so on.

In this case North bid five clubs to show that he had no aces. Much to everybody's surprise, South then immediately contracted for a grand slam.

South made his slam with no particular trouble. Dummy's king of spades won the opening lead, and declarer next cashed the top diamonds. He then ruffed a diamond with one of dummy's high trumps, returned to his hand with the ace of spades, and ruffed another diamond with a high trump.

Now, for the first time, he led a trump, winning in his hand. This left one trump in dummy, which took care of South's remaining spade. South then ruffed a club, drew two more rounds of trumps and claimed the rest of the tricks.

North watched the play with great interest and some curiosity. (The dummy is seldom bored when the contract is a grand slam.) But when the hand was over, he asked a natural question: "What were you going to do if I showed an ace? Were you going to bid eight hearts?"

"No," South answered. "Only six."

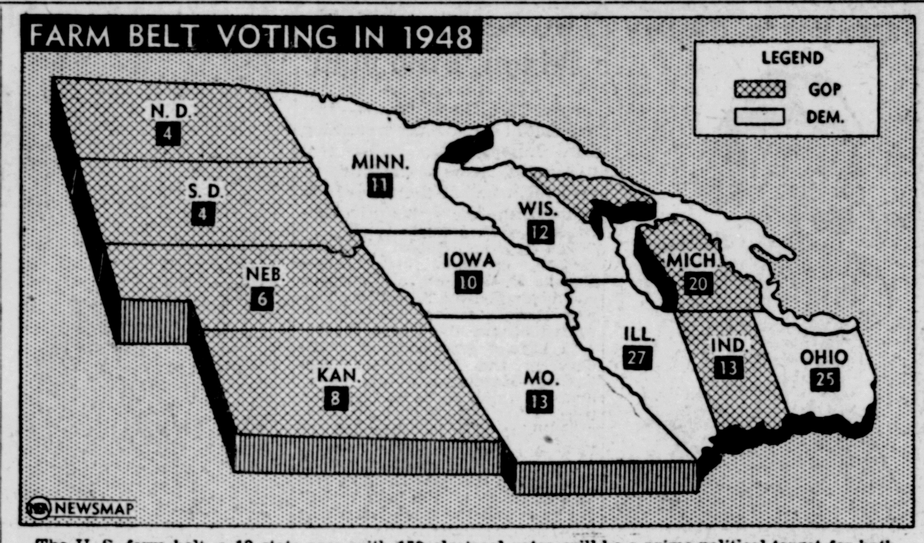

The answer was surprising, but quite logical. If North's raise to three heart's happened to be based on an aceless hand, the hand was practically sure to fit the South hand like a glove. The actual North hand was about as bad a fit as he could possibly have. It was quite possible for North to have the queen of diamonds among his valuables — instead of high, but useless, clubs.

If North had the only missing ace, however, it was quite possible for his hand to be a bad fit for the South hand. The more North had in clubs, the less he would have elsewhere. The play for a grand slam might well be poor or even impossible, and South would have contended himself with bidding six hearts instead of seven.

Cartoonist Dies Of Heart Ailment

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 23 (AP)—Harold Tucker Webster, whose cartoons made "Caspar Milquetoast" a part of the national language, died in an ambulance yesterday after collapsing on a railroad train as it pulled into the Stamford station.

Webster, a Stamford resident, observed his 67th birthday Sunday.

Dr. F. C. McMahon, medical examiner, said Webster suffered a coronary thrombosis (heart attack).

Webster had been in excellent health, friends said, although he underwent an operation three months ago for the removal of a cataract from his right eye.

His cartoons—he had drawn more than 16,000 of them in his lifetime—were syndicated by the New York Herald Tribune to papers all over the country.

"The Timid Soul" (Caspar Milquetoast) was Webster's favorite character, but he turned often to such titles as 'Life's Darkest Moment" and "The Thrill That Comes Once in Lifetime," cartoons that recalled childhood memories. Other Webster favorites included "And Nothing Can Be Done About It," 'Bridge," and "How To Torture Your Wife (or Husband)."

He was months ahead of his work, and the Herald Tribune said his cartoons will continue to appear as long as the supply lasts.

Webster, who had lived here more than 25 years, was born in Parkersburg, W. Va., and got his first job on the Denver Post. He worked on Chicago and Cincinnati papers before coming to New York.

His widow, Ethel Worts Webster, is his only immediate survivor.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon.

THE CENTRAL IDEA

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. PRODUCTION FOR FREEDOM is the theme of the private power companies. Back of it is the biggest post-war expansion program of any United States industry. In the area served by New York Central, these companies are investing $6 BILLION in new electric power facilities.

2. MAN WITH 210 HELPERS! The 14,000 kilowatt hours a year used by the average U.S. worker are equal to 210 helpers! That's why the 15,000,000 kilowatts of generating capacity private power companies are adding between 1944-54 in Central territory are so vital to new industry.

3. KILOWATTS BY THE CARLOAD! Most of that new capacity will come from efficient, low-cost, year-round steam power plants that burn coal. And with 28,000 new coal cars added to its fleet since 1945, New York Central will be well equipped to deliver "kilowatts by the carload!"

4. NOT ONLY COAL, but big transformers, generators, spools of power cable move dependably and economically by train. So do the things electricity helps produce in your town and every town on New York Central. That's transportation for freedom. And it's the CENTRAL IDEA.

First Dutch Church 100th Anniversary Of Dedication of Its Present Edifice

Service Attended By 1,000 Persons Here on Sunday

The Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Kingston, more generally known as the First Dutch Church, marked the 100th anniversary of the dedication of its present building with a service on Sunday morning patterned after a divine worship service of a century ago.

Frock coats, tall hats, sweeping skirts and parasols were resurrected by a large number of the congregation for the occasion.

An estimated 1,000 persons crowded into the church for the service. Other hundreds lined Main street to watch and take photographs.

The main speaker was Dr. Edwin B. Wilson, executive editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle. After reviewing international developments over the past century, Dr. Wilson contended that it is necessary for the churches of America continue to exert their influence for decency and right-living, lest the American civilization follow the Roman Empire and other civilizations of the past into a decline and fall.

Presiding at the service was the pastor, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, who arrived with his wife, Virginia, and sons Dirk and Jan, and several other members of the congregation, all in dress of the 1850's, in a four-seater surrey drawn by two horses. Joseph Vanderveer of Emerson street arrived in his 1910 Renault automobile.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, chairman of the committee planning the centennial service, read excerpts from the minutes of the Consistory pertaining to the building of the church's present edifice.

In his talk, Dr. Wilson noted the decline and fall of the Roman Empire was due "entirely to the collapse of all standards of morals and decency. . . . And the same fate has befallen many other empires and civilizations."

Present-day American civilization will follow those of the past "if the churches of America are not able to exercise such an influence over both the people and the government that decency and right-living and all the higher values of life can hold back the evil forces that inevitably spew forth vice and crime and the indecencies of life," he said. That, he added "is the challenge to the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Kingston and to all other churches of every denomination."

Warning of the forces of communism at work today in labor groups, in government, in education, and among writers and even in a few instances among the clergy, Dr. Wilson urged the issue be met head-on.

The speaker had no sympathy for those who object to being asked if they are or ever have been Communists. "To me that is strong presumptive evidence that they are Reds or have deep Red sympathies. Otherwise, they would indignantly shout 'No,'" he said.

Of the time one hundred years ago, when the present church building was dedicated, Dr. Wilson noted that the world was passing through a great period in history. Social disturbances were occurring all over Europe. The Communist Manifesto had been issued several years earlier. America was entering a great era of expansion.

There were 36 states in the Union, and Millard Fillmore, a native of Cayuga county, New York, was president.

"Already the dark clouds of internal dissension over the slave issue hung over the country," the speaker said. The year 1852 was the year that Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was issued in book form, he said. It was also the year that Commodore Matthew Perry went to Japan to negotiate a trade agreement, and the year the first through train went from New York city to Chicago. Abraham Lincoln, an obscure lawyer in Springfield, Ill., joined the Sons of Temperance. Col. Robert E. Lee became commandant of West Point Military Academy. The national debt was $66,199,341. Today, Dr. Wilson noted, it is "about 4,000 times as much."

Laidlaw read from the consistory minutes the various steps taken between 1850 and 1852 leading to the erection of the present church building. At a meeting on Nov. 2, 1850, plans submitted by Minard LeFevre, architect, were adopted. Records show that in September of 1852, when the new building was dedicated, there were 200 families on the roll, 1,000 persons in the congregation and 200 in the Sabbath School. The pastor at the time was Dominie John C. Hoes. Elders were D. W. Kiersted, C. P. Meyer, H. E. Legg and C. D. Van Gaasbeck. Deacons were D. Smith, G. Elmendorf, W. D. Swart and E. Burhans. Members of the building committee were I. H. DeWitt, G. P. Sharp, G. D. Crispell, N. Elmendorf, I. D. Wilson, I. P. Osterhoudt, I. Burhans, A. M. Pells and C. M. Van Leuven.

The present church building was dedicated Sept. 28, 1852. The room on the north was enlarged in 1882 and further extended into a religious educational unit last year. The church was organized in 1659 and its previous buildings included a log structure erected in 1661, a stone church built in 1679, and a brick building erected in 1832.

Frock-coated consistorymen received the offering in the church's antique long-handled collection boxes.

Music for Sunday morning's service, under direction of Donald R. Romme, was entirely taken from music that was available in the 1850's for use in church services. Church decorations were also of the type used a century ago.

Following the service, a social hour or reception was held in the adjoining Bethany Hall, with coffee and doughnuts served under the direction of Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler and Miss Eleanor Easton.

Century Old Costumes Are Revived

Costumes and customs of a century ago were revived Sunday for the service marking the 100th anniversary of the dedication of the present edifice of the First Dutch Church. In the upper left photo, the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor, stands beside the four-seater surrey in which he, his family and other worshippers arrived. In the front seat nearest the camera is the minister's son, Dirk, and Mrs. Oudemool is in the second seat.

Will Provide Psychiatry

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—The League for Mental Health will launch a program Oct. 1 to bring private psychiatric treatment within the reach of low-income persons at $5 a visit. Regular fees of psychiatrists involved in the program range up to $20 or $25 a visit. The league, announcing the program yesterday, said its treasury will make up the balance between what the patient will pay and the psychiatrists' regular fees. Founded in 1934 to promote mental health, the league's membership of 700 includes many former patients at hospitals and sanitoriums.

WANTS CHANGES MADE — In Frankfurt, Germany, Commander Willard E. Edwards, USN, wants to make over the calendar. Here he displays his 364-day perpetual calendar—which he says "makes sense"—superimposed on a conventional calendar. The Edwards version provides for more three-day holidays and no Friday-the-Thirteenths at all. It gives 31 days to March, June, September and December and 30 days to the other months, including February. New Year's would be a separate special day, between Dec. 31 and Jan. 1. Leap Year day would move from Feb. 29 to balmy June.

Rainy, Cool Weather Covers Broad Areas

(By The Associated Press)

Rainy and cool weather covered wide areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard today while it was pleasant in the western states.

Temperatures dropped to freezing in some midwest regions early today.

It was 32 above at Demidji, Minn., and near the freezing mark in other northern midwest areas. Some warming was in prospect for the north central states by tomorrow.

Rain fell along the middle Atlantic coast while showers were reported in Michigan and Ohio and parts of New Mexico and west Texas. Generally fair weather was reported in other sections of the country. Nearly three inches of rain fell in Cape Hatteras, N. C., yesterday.

Plants Are Strikebound

Los Angeles, Sept. 23 (AP)—The vast Lockheed and Douglas El Segundo aircraft plants remained strikebound today. Negotiations between the companies and the AFL International Association of Machinists have broken down with no immediate plans to resume peace talks.

Use Refrigeration In Heart Operation

Minneapolis, Sept. 23 (AP)—University of Minnesota surgeons have used refrigeration successfully in slowing the bodily processes of a 5-year-old girl for a heart operation.

After an anaesthetic was administered, the little girl's temperature was dropped from the normal 98.6 degrees to 81. This slowing of circulation enabled halting the flow of blood through the heart for 5½ minutes, or nearly twice the safety limit under ordinary anaesthesia.

In addition to the 17.6 degree temperature drop, the child's pulse rate fell from 120 to 70 and oxygen needs of her body went down 50 per cent.

Temperature 79

The heart continued to beat even though veins entering it were closed. At one time during the hour-long operation the child's temperature dropped to 79.

Dr. F. John Lewis, associate professor of surgery at the university, was assisted by Dr. Richard L. Varco, head heart surgeon at the hospital, and Dr. Mansur Taufic, a surgery fellow.

If necessary, Dr. Lewis estimated in this case it would have been possible to cut off blood circulation for as long as eight minutes. Normally circulation cannot be halted for more than three minutes without serious brain cell injuries.

The child had been born with a small hole between her two heart sections. The normal blood flow was upset with the result one section was overworked and enlarged. The condition, known as an interpatrial septel defect, may bring heart failure and death.

158 Red Trucks Are Destroyed in Raid

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 23 (AP)—U. S. B-26 invaders pounced on Communist-supply convoys last night and pilots reported 158 Red trucks destroyed—the highest one night bag since February.

Ground action tapered off after several days of fierce fighting at both ends of the 155-mile front. The Reds jabbed at allied lines with 20 patrols. All were beaten back.

The U. S. Eighth Army said 3,332 Communist troops were killed or wounded last week, the fourth highest weekly toll of the year.

The bag of 158 Red trucks destroyed ran the September total to 1,461. Although a high mark for recent months, the figure is far short of the record 6,179 trucks reported destroyed between Sept. 27and Oct. 27, 1951.

The vehicles knocked out last night were caught on supply routes between Songchon on the west and Wonsan, an east coast port.

Women Are Indicted

Pusan, Korea, Sept. 23 (AP)—Ten of the 17 women arrested last week in an espionage crackdown were indicted on spy charges, the Korean Home Ministry announced today. The other seven were released. Among the 10 facing trial are two women doctors, students, clerks, and a Korean woman formerly employed by the U. S. Eighth Army. All were accused of giving information to Communist guerrillas and the North Korean Army. No date has been set for a trial.

Detectives Report Finding Guns

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Bronx detectives reported today the discovery of a private arms cache of rifles, revolvers, pistols, shotguns, knives and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Two men, arrested in a midnight raid on a two-story private house, were held today on charges of violating New York's Weapons Law.

Police identified the two as Arthur Fred Seifert, 27, and Howard Voegelin, 26 both of the Bronx.

Acting on a tip, officers trailed the two through the Bronx for nearly three hours before taking them into custody as they left Seifert's home.

It was in Seifert's residence, police said, that the arms were discovered. Reported in the assortment of weapons were old type western revolvers, ball shot, two cannisters of gunpowder, and modern type revolvers. Calibers varied.

Detectives said Seifert, who described himself as a free lance commercial artist, claimed ownership of all the arms except an army type .45 caliber automatic.

"I just have a habit of picking things up," Seifert was quoted as saying.

The .45 caliber automatic was claimed by Voegelin, an ex-marine and now a seaman. He was reported as saying he bought the weapon home as a military service souvenire.

Boy Says He Set Fire; Couldn't Fish on Land

Hudson Falls, Sept. 23 (AP)—A 17-year-old boy has admitted, police says, that he set a $20,000 barn fire that his father, an assistant fire chief, helped to fight.

Kenneth Wells Jr., of nearby Kingsbury, said he started the blaze in the dairy barn of Benjamin Swirsky because the owner had refused to let him hunt and fish on the property, police reported.

The boy, son of Assistant Chief Kenneth Wells Sr., of the Kingsbury Volunteer Hose Company, was arraigned yesterday before Peace Justice John A. Leary on charges of third degree arson. Leary ordered the youth held in Washington county jail at Salem, pending grand jury action.

Reds Protest to UN

Munsan, Korea, Sept. 23 (AP)—The top Communist truce delegate today protested that the allies "persecuted to death" a Red prisoner of war Sunday. The protest from North Korean Gen. Nam Il was contained in a letter to Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior allied armistice negotiator. The UN prisoner of war command yesterday said a prisoner hanged himself Sunday.

15 Cents Comes High

Indianapolis, Sept. 23 (AP)—Clarence Elsbury, 27, Greenfield, Ind., was fined $10 and sent to jail for 10 days Monday for stealing 15 cents from Lorenz Rosemeyer, a blind news vendor.

Joseph Vanderveer of Emerson street arrived in his 1910 Renault automobile.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, chairman of the committee planning the centennial service, read excerpts from the minutes of the Consistory pertaining to the building of the church's present edifice.

In his talk, Dr. Wilson noted the decline and fall of the Roman Empire was due "entirely to the collapse of all standards of morals and decency. . . . And the same fate has befallen many other empires and civilizations."

Present-day American civilization will follow those of the past "if the churches of America are not able to exercise such an influence over both the people and the government that decency and right-living and all the higher values of life can hold back the evil forces that inevitably spew forth vice and crime and the indecencies of life," he said. That, he added "is the challenge to the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Kingston and to all other churches of every denomination."

Warning of the forces of communism at work today in labor groups, in government, in education, and among writers and even in a few instances among the clergy, Dr. Wilson urged the issue be met head-on.

The speaker had no sympathy for those who object to being asked if they are or ever have been Communists. "To me that is strong presumptive evidence that they are Reds or have deep Red sympathies. Otherwise, they would indignantly shout 'No,'" he said.

Of the time one hundred years ago, when the present church building was dedicated, Dr. Wilson noted that the world was passing through a great period in history. Social disturbances were occurring all over Europe. The Communist Manifesto had been issued several years earlier. America was entering a great era of expansion.

There were 36 states in the Union, and Millard Fillmore, a native of Cayuga county, New York, was president.

"Already the dark clouds of internal dissension over the slave issue hung over the country," the speaker said. The year 1852 was the year that Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was issued in book form, he said. It was also the year that Commodore Matthew Perry went to Japan to negotiate a trade agreement, and the year the first through train went from New York city to Chicago. Abraham Lincoln, an obscure lawyer in Springfield, Ill., joined the Sons of Temperance. Col. Robert E. Lee became commandant of West Point Military Academy. The national debt was $66,199,341. Today, Dr. Wilson noted, it is "about 4,000 times as much."

Laidlaw read from the consistory minutes the various steps taken between 1850 and 1852 leading to the erection of the present church building. At a meeting on Nov. 2, 1850, plans submitted by Minard LeFevre, architect, were adopted. Records show that in September of 1852, when the new building was dedicated, there were 200 families on the roll, 1,000 persons in the congregation and 200 in the Sabbath School. The pastor at the time was Dominie John C. Hoes. Elders were D. W. Kiersted, C. P. Meyer, H. E. Legg and C. D. Van Gaasbeck. Deacons were D. Smith, G. Elmendorf, W. D. Swart and E. Burhans. Members of the building committee were I. H. DeWitt, G. P. Sharp, G. D. Crispell, N. Elmendorf, I. D. Wilson, I. P. Osterhoudt, I. Burhans, A. M. Pells and C. M. Van Leuven.

The present church building was dedicated Sept. 28, 1852. The room on the north was enlarged in 1882 and further extended into a religious educational unit last year. The church was organized in 1659 and its previous buildings included a log structure erected in 1661, a stone church built in 1679, and a brick building erected in 1832.

Frock-coated consistorymen received the offering in the church's antique long-handled collection boxes.

Music for Sunday morning's service, under direction of Donald R. Romme, was entirely taken from music that was available in the 1850's for use in church services. Church decorations were also of the type used a century ago.

Following the service, a social hour or reception was held in the adjoining Bethany Hall, with coffee and doughnuts served under the direction of Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler and Miss Eleanor Easton.

Will Provide Psychiatry

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—The League for Mental Health will launch a program Oct. 1 to bring private psychiatric treatment within the reach of low-income persons at $5 a visit. Regular fees of psychiatrists involved in the program range up to $20 or $25 a visit. The league, announcing the program yesterday, said its treasury will make up the balance between what the patient will pay and the psychiatrists' regular fees. Founded in 1934 to promote mental health, the league's membership of 700 includes many former patients at hospitals and sanitoriums.

Century Old Costumes Are Revived

WANTS CHANGES MADE — In Frankfurt, Germany, Commander Willard E. Edwards, USN, wants to make over the calendar. Here he displays his 364-day perpetual calendar—which he says "makes sense"—superimposed on a conventional calendar. The Edwards version provides for more three-day holidays and no Friday-the-Thirteenths at all. It gives 31 days to March, June, September and December and 30 days to the other months, including February. New Year's would be a separate special day, between Dec. 31 and Jan. 1. Leap Year day would move from Feb. 29 to balmy June.

Rainy, Cool Weather Covers Broad Areas

(By The Associated Press)

Rainy and cool weather covered wide areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard today while it was pleasant in the western states.

Temperatures dropped to freezing in some midwest regions early today.

It was 32 above at Demidji, Minn., and near the freezing mark in other northern midwest areas. Some warming was in prospect for the north central states by tomorrow.

Rain fell along the middle Atlantic coast while showers were reported in Michigan and Ohio and parts of New Mexico and west Texas. Generally fair weather was reported in other sections of the country. Nearly three inches of rain fell in Cape Hatteras, N. C., yesterday.

Plants Are Strikebound

Use Refrigeration In Heart Operation

Minneapolis, Sept. 23 (AP)—University of Minnesota surgeons have used refrigeration successfully in slowing the bodily processes of a 5-year-old girl for a heart operation.

After an anaesthetic was administered, the little girl's temperature was dropped from the normal 98.6 degrees to 81. This slowing of circulation enabled halting the flow of blood through the heart for 5½ minutes, or nearly twice the safety limit under ordinary anaesthesia.

In addition to the 17.6 degree temperature drop, the child's pulse rate fell from 120 to 70 and oxygen needs of her body went down 50 per cent.

Temperature 79

The heart continued to beat even though veins entering it were closed. At one time during the hour-long operation the child's temperature dropped to 79.

Dr. F. John Lewis, associate professor of surgery at the university, was assisted by Dr. Richard L. Varco, head heart surgeon at the hospital, and Dr. Mansur Taufic, a surgery fellow.

If necessary, Dr. Lewis estimated in this case it would have been possible to cut off blood circulation for as long as eight minutes. Normally circulation cannot be halted for more than three minutes without serious brain cell injuries.

The child had been born with a small hole between her two heart sections. The normal blood flow was upset with the result one section was overworked and enlarged. The condition, known as an interpatrial septel defect, may bring heart failure and death.

158 Red Trucks Are Destroyed in Raid

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 23 (AP)—U. S. B-26 invaders pounced on Communist-supply convoys last night and pilots reported 158 Red trucks destroyed—the highest one night bag since February.

Ground action tapered off after several days of fierce fighting at both ends of the 155-mile front. The Reds jabbed at allied lines with 20 patrols. All were beaten back.

The U. S. Eighth Army said 3,332 Communist troops were killed or wounded last week, the fourth highest weekly toll of the year.

The bag of 158 Red trucks destroyed ran the September total to 1,461. Although a high mark for recent months, the figure is far short of the record 6,179 trucks reported destroyed between Sept. 27and Oct. 27, 1951.

The vehicles knocked out last night were caught on supply routes between Songchon on the west and Wonsan, an east coast port.

Women Are Indicted

Pusan, Korea, Sept. 23 (AP)—Ten of the 17 women arrested last week in an espionage crackdown were indicted on spy charges, the Korean Home Ministry announced today. The other seven were released. Among the 10 facing trial are two women doctors, students, clerks, and a Korean woman formerly employed by the U. S. Eighth Army. All were accused of giving information to Communist guerrillas and the North Korean Army. No date has been set for a trial.

Detectives Report Finding Guns

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Bronx detectives reported today the discovery of a private arms cache of rifles, revolvers, pistols, shotguns, knives and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Two men, arrested in a midnight raid on a two-story private house, were held today on charges of violating New York's Weapons Law.

Police identified the two as Arthur Fred Seifert, 27, and Howard Voegelin, 26 both of the Bronx.

Acting on a tip, officers trailed the two through the Bronx for nearly three hours before taking them into custody as they left Seifert's home.

It was in Seifert's residence, police said, that the arms were discovered. Reported in the assortment of weapons were old type western revolvers, ball shot, two cannisters of gunpowder, and modern type revolvers. Calibers varied.

Detectives said Seifert, who described himself as a free lance commercial artist, claimed ownership of all the arms except an army type .45 caliber automatic.

"I just have a habit of picking things up," Seifert was quoted as saying.

The .45 caliber automatic was claimed by Voegelin, an ex-marine and now a seaman. He was reported as saying he bought the weapon home as a military service souvenire.

Boy Says He Set Fire; Couldn't Fish on Land

Hudson Falls, Sept. 23 (AP)—A 17-year-old boy has admitted, police says, that he set a $20,000 barn fire that his father, an assistant fire chief, helped to fight.

Kenneth Wells Jr., of nearby Kingsbury, said he started the blaze in the dairy barn of Benjamin Swirsky because the owner had refused to let him hunt and fish on the property, police reported.

The boy, son of Assistant Chief Kenneth Wells Sr., of the Kingsbury Volunteer Hose Company, was arraigned yesterday before Peace Justice John A. Leary on charges of third degree arson. Leary ordered the youth held in Washington county jail at Salem, pending grand jury action.

Reds Protest to UN

Munsan, Korea, Sept. 23 (AP)—The top Communist truce delegate today protested that the allies "persecuted to death" a Red prisoner of war Sunday. The protest from North Korean Gen. Nam Il was contained in a letter to Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior allied armistice negotiator. The UN prisoner of war command yesterday said a prisoner hanged himself Sunday.

Memoriam

In loving memory of William W. Dunbar, whom God hath called to rest two years ago today, September 23, 1950.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tried to break but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the great sorrow of our heart.
Years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

(Signed)
WIFE and CHILDREN.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my daughter, Amy Louise Burger, who passed away two days before her birthday, four years ago, Sept. 20, 1948.

Sincere and true, in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories, she left behind.

Peace Justice Is Heart Victim at Work for Neighbor

Leonard Albert, justice of the peace of the town of Rosendale, died suddenly Monday afternoon at Tillson while engaged in work at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bonn, a neighbor. Death was due to a heart attack.

Judge Albert, a former resident of New York, was engaged in doing work in the attick of the Bonn home when he was found by a member of the family who had gone upstairs to present Judge Albert with a birthday card. Monday was Judge Albert's 59th birthday.

Suffered Some Time

Judge Albert resided alone in Tillson and had gone to the Bonn home to do some work. While engaged in work he apparently was stricken with a heart seizure and had endeavored to get from the attic. When discovered he had one foot hanging from the attic trapdoor. He had been suffering from a heart condition for some time. The body was discovered about 4.30 p. m. and Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz was summoned and pronounced Judge Albert dead from a heart attack.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was summoned and gave a verdict of death from a heart attack.

The remains were taken in charge by the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Rosendale, and a brother in New York city was notified. A sister also survives. Mr. Albert was expected to arrive in Rosendale today and funeral arrangements were postponed pending arrival of relatives.

Mother, Ex-Actress Get Quinn Estate

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—The late state Senator Elmer F. Quinn left the residue of his "more than $20,000" estate to his mother and $10,000 to a Bloomfield, N. J., woman in his will, being readied for probate today in Surrogate's Court.

Sen. Quinn, a Democrat from the 18th Senatorial District, died in St. Luke's Hospital on Sept. 2. The Senate minority leader was 57 years old.

In his will, dated July 24, 1942, he left $10,000 to Helen I. Hannan, of 24 Montgomery street, Bloomfield. Miss Hannan was not identified in the papers but is reportedly a former Ziegfeld Follies actress.

Sen. Quinn then directed that the residue of his estate go to "my beloved mother," Elizabeth Quinn.

To Hold Jobless Waiter For Murder of Wife

West New York, N. J., Sept. 23 (AP)—An ailing waiter who police said slugged his wife to death with a lead pipe is in critical condition today after swallowing a can of lye and stabbing himself with a bread knife.

Police said 41-year-old Charles Barattia bludgeoned his wife, Emma, 38, yesterday in the kitchen of their second-floor apartment at 43 64th street and then tried to commit suicide.

Barattia was taken to North Hudson Hospital, Weehawken, in critical condition. Police said he apparently stabbed himself twice in the stomach with a 12-inch knife and then took the poison.

The couple's three children, Charlotte, 15, and Tony and Joseph, seven-year-old twins, were not at home at the time.

Barattia, a waiter, has been out of work for four months because of illness. He is under a round-the-clock guard and will be booked on a murder charge if he survives, police said.

Five Plead Guilty To Conspiracy in Saratoga Gambling

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Five men formerly identified with a Saratoga gambling casino and indicted with Saratoga county's Democratic leader pleaded guilty today to conspiracy.

The five, who were associated with the now-closed Piping Rock Club, were accused of conspiring with the Democratic chief, Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, to permit gambling at the casino in return for bribes and unlawful fees, which the state alleges were accepted by Leonard.

Disposition of the other counts in the indictment—nine charging bribery and seven having to do with unlawful fees—was held up indefinitely.

The conspiracy count, a misdemeanor, calls for a maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $500 fine.

The five are:

John McEwen, 59, Saratoga Springs; his brother, Edward, Saratoga Springs; Cassius Pond, 48, Glens Falls; Samuel Gold, 52, New York city; and Arthur Verra, 42, Lake George and Schenectady.

Justice Leo J. Hagerty of State Supreme Court deferred sentencing the quintet pending disposition of the charges against Dr. Leonard and two men described as fugitives who were named in the same indictment. The two are Roy Hamlin and Robert Mentser, addresses unknown.

The guilty pleas were entered following a two-hour conference by Justice Hagerty, Special Prosecutor Paul W. Williams and Defense Counsel Daniel H. Prior and James Carroll.

The conference was called as 150 prospective jurors assembled for the selection of a jury to try the 71-year-old Leonard on charges of conspiracy and taking bribes and unlawful fees.

Justice Hagerty postponed the trial of Dr. Leonard, Saratoga Springs former Commissioner of Public Safety, until Nov. 12.

Orders Study of Funds

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Attorney General James P. McGranery was reported today to have ordered a study of the whole question of the legality of supplemental funds received by public officials. The survey, obviously, was prompted by the current furore over the disclosure that $18,235 has been made available to Sen. Richard Nixon by California supporters, for use as a special expense fund while serving in the Senate. The Justice Department does not admit this. In fact, it is answering every question concerning the survey with a "no comment." However, the situation appears to shape up like this: No investigation of the Nixon fund, as such, is being made. But Justice Department aides have begun a general examination of the statutes relating to expense accounts or other supplemental funds received by officials to determine just how far public officials might go in this field without transgressing the U. S. criminal code.

New Economic Plans

$10,000,000 Was Embezzled From Government Grain

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Senate Agriculture Committee said today it had found embezzlements totaling 10 million dollars in government-owned grain. It added that Agricultural Department employes had not profited personally by them.

The findings were in a 43-page report summarizing the committee's six months investigation of shortages in grain and other farm products in connection with government purchases under price support programs.

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) said the report was approved unanimously by the eight senators present—five Democrats and three Republicans.

Although the report absolved the government workers who handled the storage program of profiting personally, it had sharp words for the government administration of the program.

"The evidence indicates as of May, 1952, there had been embezzlement or criminal conversion of Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC)-owned grain inventories by 131 warehousemen, aggregating approximately $10,000,000, but no evidence was presented to the committee that any CCC personnel profited personally or was criminally involved in this connection," the report said.

The CCC is the Agriculture Department agency which buys and stores grain and other farm products under the price support program. Conversion is a procedure in which a warehouseman uses government owned grain for his private purposes, expecting to replace it before the CCC calls on him to make good on it.

Sen. Aiken (R.-Vt.) top Republican on the committee, had predicted in advance the report would show about 10 million dollars was stolen from the government.

Labor Federation Sees Dual Unionism in Move

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—The State Federation of Labor contends the state CIO is "encouraging dual unionism in the educational field" with a "divisive" and "unprincipled" appeal to teachers to join a new CIO teachers organizing committee.

In a joint statement yesterday, Thomas A. Murray, the federation's president, and Harold C. Hanover, secretary-treasurer, asserted the CIO should encourage teachers to join the American Federation of Teachers (AFT), affiliated with the AFL.

CIO officials could not be reached for comment.

"AFT locals in this state have advantage that the CIO group cannot match—notably affiliation with a nation-wide teachers federation, with over 600 locals, which gives them strength and prestige," Murray and Hanover said. They added:

"There is no national CIO teachers organization."

Teen-Agers Nabbed Loading Chutes in Plane

Two 15-year-old boys who looked as if they were preparing to steal an airplane from the Kingston-Ulster Airport this morning were detained by state police of the Kingston station.

Troopers said the youngsters were seen about 6 a. m. today taking two parachutes from a building on the airport and placing them into a plane, as if about to take off on a flight.

Questioning of the boys disclosed both had run away from their homes at North Tarrytown, troopers said. The parents were contacted and the boys were being entertained at the troopers' barracks until the parents arrive later today. Names of the youngsters were not revealed.

Dunphy Case Slated

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 23 (AP)—Superior Court Judge James E. Murphy today was scheduled to hear the case of Martin Dunphy, 50, of White Plains, N. Y., who is charged with manslaughter as a result of a Merritt Parkway accident in Greenwich, Aug. 16, which took the lives of two persons. Dunphy already has entered a plea of innocent to the charges. His was one of several cases on today's docket. Court attendants could not say when it would be reached. Dunphy is accused of being the driver of a car which struck and killed Joseph Leopold Caron, 48, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Cecile Caron, 44, of Lowell, Mass., as the former was changing a tire on his car on the early morning of Aug. 16.

Lesser Fined $50 For Speeding

Jerome Stewart Lesser, 19, of Elmhurst was fined $50 by Justice of the Peace Lester Davis of West Shokan when he was arraigned on Saturday on an old speeding charge which he may have forgotten—but the state didn't.

Cpl. B. J. Herron of the Kingston troopers' station said Lesser was issued a summons on March 30 alleging that he exceeded the speed limit on Route 28 near Boiceville on that date. Lesser, Cpl. Herron charged, failed to answer the summons, so a warrant was issued for his arrest. State police at Elmhurst arrested him at his home and trasported him back to this county for arraignment.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—With trading quiet, the stock market today moved along an irregularly lower course.

Prices changed sluggishly with gains in fractions and losses ranging from fractions to around a point.

The pace of trading was around a million shares for the entire day, possibly lower, as compared with 1,160,000 shares traded yesterday.

Railroads, a big upside leader yesterday, were mostly lower today.

Radio-television issues, the other leader yesterday, were under the threat of profit-taking today, but the section managed to maintain a steady base nonetheless.

Also steady were steels, motors, rubbers, utilities, oils, nonferous metals, and chemicals.

Deny Red Charge

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The United States and Britain have bluntly denied Russia's charge they are converting Trieste into a "war base" or have violated a peace treaty by giving Italians new authority to govern part of the area. The American note, a brusque 190 words stripped of customary diplomatic language, said Russia, not the West, is to blame for failure of plans to create a free territory of Trieste, which lies between Italy and Yugoslavia.

In making this announcement today, President Lawrence J. MacAvery urged all members who possibly can reserve the date and attend. "At the last open meeting we had," MacAvery said, "members requested at least two or more such meetings each year. We held one late in the spring, and future meetings will depend on how much interest members take in this type of meeting."

According to the plan followed thus far brief reports on activities are given and the meeting then opened for general discussion. MacAvery said, "We want members to ask questions and make suggestions for the consideration of the appropriate committee or the Board of Directors." MacAvery continued, "We would like to have more members take an active part in formulating a program and this meeting is being held to give every member that opportunity." Suggestions as to the type of meeting which would suit members best, will also be appreciated.

Memoriam

In loving memory of William W. Dunbar, whom God hath called to rest two years ago today, September 23, 1950.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tried to break but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the great sorrow of our heart.
Years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

(Signed)
WIFE and CHILDREN.

Leonard Albert, justice of the peace of the town of Rosendale, died suddenly Monday afternoon at Tillson while engaged in work at the home of Mrs. Margaret Bonn, a neighbor. Death was due to a heart attack.

Judge Albert, a former resident of New York, was engaged in doing work in the attick of the Bonn home when he was found by a member of the family who had gone upstairs to present Judge Albert with a birthday card. Monday was Judge Albert's 59th birthday.

The body was discovered about 4.30 p. m. and Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz was summoned and pronounced Judge Albert dead from a heart attack.

The remains were taken in charge by the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Rosendale, and a brother in New York city was notified. A sister also survives. Mr. Albert was expected to arrive in Rosendale today and funeral arrangements were postponed pending arrival of relatives.

Mother, Ex-Actress Get Quinn Estate

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—The late state Senator Elmer F. Quinn left the residue of his "more than $20,000" estate to his mother and $10,000 to a Bloomfield, N. J., woman in his will, being readied for probate today in Surrogate's Court.

Sen. Quinn, a Democrat from the 18th Senatorial District, died in St. Luke's Hospital on Sept. 2. The Senate minority leader was 57 years old.

In his will, dated July 24, 1942, he left $10,000 to Helen I. Hannan, of 24 Montgomery street, Bloomfield. Miss Hannan was not identified in the papers but is reportedly a former Ziegfeld Follies actress.

Sen. Quinn then directed that the residue of his estate go to "my beloved mother," Elizabeth Quinn.

To Hold Jobless Waiter For Murder of Wife

West New York, N. J., Sept. 23 (AP)—An ailing waiter who police said slugged his wife to death with a lead pipe is in critical condition today after swallowing a can of lye and stabbing himself with a bread knife.

Police said 41-year-old Charles Barattia bludgeoned his wife, Emma, 38, yesterday in the kitchen of their second-floor apartment at 43 64th street and then tried to commit suicide.

Barattia was taken to North Hudson Hospital, Weehawken, in critical condition. Police said he apparently stabbed himself twice in the stomach with a 12-inch knife and then took the poison.

The couple's three children, Charlotte, 15, and Tony and Joseph, seven-year-old twins, were not at home at the time.

Barattia, a waiter, has been out of work for four months because of illness. He is under a round-the-clock guard and will be booked on a murder charge if he survives, police said.

Five Plead Guilty To Conspiracy in Saratoga Gambling

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—Five men formerly identified with a Saratoga gambling casino and indicted with Saratoga county's Democratic leader pleaded guilty today to conspiracy.

The five, who were associated with the now-closed Piping Rock Club, were accused of conspiring with the Democratic chief, Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, to permit gambling at the casino in return for bribes and unlawful fees, which the state alleges were accepted by Leonard.

Disposition of the other counts in the indictment—nine charging bribery and seven having to do with unlawful fees—was held up indefinitely.

The conspiracy count, a misdemeanor, calls for a maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $500 fine.

The five are:

John McEwen, 59, Saratoga Springs; his brother, Edward, Saratoga Springs; Cassius Pond, 48, Glens Falls; Samuel Gold, 52, New York city; and Arthur Verra, 42, Lake George and Schenectady.

Justice Leo J. Hagerty of State Supreme Court deferred sentencing the quintet pending disposition of the charges against Dr. Leonard and two men described as fugitives who were named in the same indictment. The two are Roy Hamlin and Robert Mentser, addresses unknown.

The guilty pleas were entered following a two-hour conference by Justice Hagerty, Special Prosecutor Paul W. Williams and Defense Counsel Daniel H. Prior and James Carroll.

The conference was called as 150 prospective jurors assembled for the selection of a jury to try the 71-year-old Leonard on charges of conspiracy and taking bribes and unlawful fees.

Justice Hagerty postponed the trial of Dr. Leonard, Saratoga Springs former Commissioner of Public Safety, until Nov. 12.

Orders Study of Funds

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Attorney General James P. McGranery was reported today to have ordered a study of the whole question of the legality of supplemental funds received by public officials. The survey, obviously, was prompted by the current furore over the disclosure that $18,235 has been made available to Sen. Richard Nixon by California supporters, for use as a special expense fund while serving in the Senate. The Justice Department does not admit this. In fact, it is answering every question concerning the survey with a "no comment." However, the situation appears to shape up like this: No investigation of the Nixon fund, as such, is being made. But Justice Department aides have begun a general examination of the statutes relating to expense accounts or other supplemental funds received by officials to determine just how far public officials might go in this field without transgressing the U. S. criminal code.

New Economic Plans

$10,000,000 Was Embezzled From Government Grain

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Senate Agriculture Committee said today it had found embezzlements totaling 10 million dollars in government-owned grain. It added that Agricultural Department employes had not profited personally by them.

The findings were in a 43-page report summarizing the committee's six months investigation of shortages in grain and other farm products in connection with government purchases under price support programs.

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) said the report was approved unanimously by the eight senators present—five Democrats and three Republicans.

Although the report absolved the government workers who handled the storage program of profiting personally, it had sharp words for the government administration of the program.

"The evidence indicates as of May, 1952, there had been embezzlement or criminal conversion of Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC)-owned grain inventories by 131 warehousemen, aggregating approximately $10,000,000, but no evidence was presented to the committee that any CCC personnel profited personally or was criminally involved in this connection," the report said.

The CCC is the Agriculture Department agency which buys and stores grain and other farm products under the price support program. Conversion is a procedure in which a warehouseman uses government owned grain for his private purposes, expecting to replace it before the CCC calls on him to make good on it.

Sen. Aiken (R.-Vt.) top Republican on the committee, had predicted in advance the report would show about 10 million dollars was stolen from the government.

Labor Federation Sees Dual Unionism in Move

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP)—The State Federation of Labor contends the state CIO is "encouraging dual unionism in the educational field" with a "divisive" and "unprincipled" appeal to teachers to join a new CIO teachers organizing committee.

In a joint statement yesterday, Thomas A. Murray, the federation's president, and Harold C. Hanover, secretary-treasurer, asserted the CIO should encourage teachers to join the American Federation of Teachers (AFT), affiliated with the AFL.

CIO officials could not be reached for comment.

"AFT locals in this state have advantage that the CIO group cannot match—notably affiliation with a nation-wide teachers federation, with over 600 locals, which gives them strength and prestige," Murray and Hanover said. They added:

"There is no national CIO teachers organization."

Teen-Agers Nabbed Loading Chutes in Plane

Two 15-year-old boys who looked as if they were preparing to steal an airplane from the Kingston-Ulster Airport this morning were detained by state police of the Kingston station.

Troopers said the youngsters were seen about 6 a. m. today taking two parachutes from a building on the airport and placing them into a plane, as if about to take off on a flight.

Questioning of the boys disclosed both had run away from their homes at North Tarrytown, troopers said. The parents were contacted and the boys were being entertained at the troopers' barracks until the parents arrive later today. Names of the youngsters were not revealed.

Dunphy Case Slated

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 23 (AP)—Superior Court Judge James E. Murphy today was scheduled to hear the case of Martin Dunphy, 50, of White Plains, N. Y., who is charged with manslaughter as a result of a Merritt Parkway accident in Greenwich, Aug. 16, which took the lives of two persons. Dunphy already has entered a plea of innocent to the charges. His was one of several cases on today's docket. Court attendants could not say when it would be reached. Dunphy is accused of being the driver of a car which struck and killed Joseph Leopold Caron, 48, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Cecile Caron, 44, of Lowell, Mass., as the former was changing a tire on his car on the early morning of Aug. 16.

Lesser Fined $50 For Speeding

Jerome Stewart Lesser, 19, of Elmhurst was fined $50 by Justice of the Peace Lester Davis of West Shokan when he was arraigned on Saturday on an old speeding charge which he may have forgotten—but the state didn't.

Cpl. B. J. Herron of the Kingston troopers' station said Lesser was issued a summons on March 30 alleging that he exceeded the speed limit on Route 28 near Boiceville on that date. Lesser, Cpl. Herron charged, failed to answer the summons, so a warrant was issued for his arrest. State police at Elmhurst arrested him at his home and trasported him back to this county for arraignment.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—With trading quiet, the stock market today moved along an irregularly lower course.

Prices changed sluggishly with gains in fractions and losses ranging from fractions to around a point.

The pace of trading was around a million shares for the entire day, possibly lower, as compared with 1,160,000 shares traded yesterday.

Railroads, a big upside leader yesterday, were mostly lower today.

Radio-television issues, the other leader yesterday, were under the threat of profit-taking today, but the section managed to maintain a steady base nonetheless.

Also steady were steels, motors, rubbers, utilities, oils, nonferous metals, and chemicals.

Deny Red Charge

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—The United States and Britain have bluntly denied Russia's charge they are converting Trieste into a "war base" or have violated a peace treaty by giving Italians new authority to govern part of the area. The American note, a brusque 190 words stripped of customary diplomatic language, said Russia, not the West, is to blame for failure of plans to create a free territory of Trieste, which lies between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Eleanor Steber, Metropolitan Opera Soprano, Will Open Community Concerts on October 1

Eleanor Steber, leading soprano of the Metropolitan, who stands today at the top of her profession as America's outstanding opera, concert, television and recording artist, will open the Community Concert Association season Wednesday, October 1, 8:30 p. m. in Kingston High School. Miss Steber was born in Wheeling, W. Va., and studied at the New England Conservatory of Music where she was recently honored at a reception.

Her career has been distinguished by many awards and citations, such as twice being voted "the outstanding woman singer on radio" by Musical America; recipient of two Honorary Doctorates of Music, one from Florida Southern College, 1948, and the other from Ithaca College, 1951. She was the first Metropolitan opera star to be regularly scheduled in a simulcast series, The Voice of Firestone program, and last winter she made history at the Met when she voluntarily sang two operas in one day—as Desdemona in Otello in the afternoon, followed by Fiordiligi in Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte that evening.

She already has 22 major roles to her credit and will add her second Wagnerian role, that of Elsa in Lohengrin at the Met this coming season. She has been signed to sing this part six times at next summer's Bayreuth Festival. Miss Steber has been called upon to sing in opening night performances of many of the musical festivals throughout the country and this summer opened the Ann Arbor May Festival and the Cincinnati Summer Opera Season. She has recently returned from a European vacation.

Constitution Revised

In final preparation for the coming season, the board of directors of the local association met Friday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The main item of business was the revision of the constitution and by-laws to bring the documents up-to-date.

The official name, adopted at Friday night's meeting, is Community Concert Association which drops the word Kingston from the listing. The membership now spreads over such a wide area of Ulster and Greene counties that the board felt this change advisable. All residents of the city and surrounding area are eligible for membership by payment of dues during the annual one-week membership campaign. Admission to all concerts is by membership card only and no single admissions to any individual event will be sold by the association.

Purposes

Purposes of the association are to build and maintain through a nonprofit plan, a permanent concert audience on a strictly membership basis; to cultivate in the citizens of Kingston, and its surrounding area, interest in good music; to provide for its members an opportunity to hear good music in the form of concerts and recitals, of which there will be a minimum of three presented annually; to foster and encourage public appreciation of music and the teaching of music, history of music, and music appreciation in the schools of Kingston, and its surrounding area.

The affairs of the association shall be in the hands of a board of directors, which shall consist of not less than six nor more than 24 members. The board will select the artists. When there is a vacancy on the board, the remaining members will elect a new director.

Five officers will be elected at the annual meeting of the board. Provision is made for the appointment of a nominating committee to arrange for a slate of officers each year. The officers as an executive committee will have charge of the affairs of the association between meetings of the board.

Funds shall be used exclusively for the local campaign and operating expenses and in the furtherance of the purposes of the association. Officers shall serve without pay. No part of the funds shall be paid to or distributed to the members.

Officers for the current season are Lloyd R. LeFever, president; Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Sr., vice presidents; Mrs. Louis Kegler, secretary; and Joseph H. Craig, treasurer.

Other members of the board include Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr, Mrs. Bernard Forst, membership chairmen; John McCullough, concert presentation chairman; Leonard Stine, in charge of arrangements at the high school; Mrs. Harry C. Seitz, publicity; N. Eleanor Steber, Metropolitan Opera Soprano, Will Open Community Concerts on October 1

Eleanor Steber, leading soprano of the Metropolitan, who stands today at the top of her profession as America's outstanding opera, concert, television and recording artist, will open the Community Concert Association season Wednesday, October 1, 8:30 p. m. in Kingston High School. Miss Steber was born in Wheeling, W. Va., and studied at the New England Conservatory of Music where she was recently honored at a reception.

Her career has been distinguished by many awards and citations, such as twice being voted "the outstanding woman singer on radio" by Musical America; recipient of two Honorary Doctorates of Music, one from Florida Southern College, 1948, and the other from Ithaca College, 1951. She was the first Metropolitan opera star to be regularly scheduled in a simulcast series, The Voice of Firestone program, and last winter she made history at the Met when she voluntarily sang two operas in one day—as Desdemona in Otello in the afternoon, followed by Fiordiligi in Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte that evening.

She already has 22 major roles to her credit and will add her second Wagnerian role, that of Elsa in Lohengrin at the Met this coming season. She has been signed to sing this part six times at next summer's Bayreuth Festival. Miss Steber has been called upon to sing in opening night performances of many of the musical festivals throughout the country and this summer opened the Ann Arbor May Festival and the Cincinnati Summer Opera Season. She has recently returned from a European vacation.

Constitution Revised

In final preparation for the coming season, the board of directors of the local association met Friday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The main item of business was the revision of the constitution and by-laws to bring the documents up-to-date.

The official name, adopted at Friday night's meeting, is Community Concert Association which drops the word Kingston from the listing. The membership now spreads over such a wide area of Ulster and Greene counties that the board felt this change advisable. All residents of the city and surrounding area are eligible for membership by payment of dues during the annual one-week membership campaign. Admission to all concerts is by membership card only and no single admissions to any individual event will be sold by the association.

Purposes

Purposes of the association are to build and maintain through a nonprofit plan, a permanent concert audience on a strictly membership basis; to cultivate in the citizens of Kingston, and its surrounding area, interest in good music; to provide for its members an opportunity to hear good music in the form of concerts and recitals, of which there will be a minimum of three presented annually; to foster and encourage public appreciation of music and the teaching of music, history of music, and music appreciation in the schools of Kingston, and its surrounding area.

The affairs of the association shall be in the hands of a board of directors, which shall consist of not less than six nor more than 24 members. The board will select the artists. When there is a vacancy on the board, the remaining members will elect a new director.

Five officers will be elected at the annual meeting of the board. Provision is made for the appointment of a nominating committee to arrange for a slate of officers each year. The officers as an executive committee will have charge of the affairs of the association between meetings of the board.

Funds shall be used exclusively for the local campaign and operating expenses and in the furtherance of the purposes of the association. Officers shall serve without pay. No part of the funds shall be paid to or distributed to the members.

Officers for the current season are Lloyd R. LeFever, president; Mrs. Herbert I. Bloom, Dr. Frederic Holcomb, Sr., vice presidents; Mrs. Louis Kegler, secretary; and Joseph H. Craig, treasurer.

Other members of the board include Mrs. Reynolds B. Carr, Mrs. Bernard Forst, membership chairmen; John McCullough, concert presentation chairman; Leonard Stine, in charge of arrangements at the high school; Mrs. Harry C. Seitz, publicity; N. LeVan Haver, Abram Molyneaux, C. Franklin Pierce; Miss Emily Rice and the Mmes. Benjamin W. Johnston, Eloise P. Lovatt, Henry L. Bibby, Harold L. Rakov and K. Edward Lefren.

New Date for Ice Age

Scientists who have dated the last ice age in the world through the use of radio-active carbon, believe it occurred about 11,000 years ago and not 20,000 to 25,000 years ago as previously believed.

Hawaii's Recipes Please Taste

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

When I was in Hawaii, I was warmly impressed by the hospitality and the pineapples. From the Pali, a high cliff outside Honolulu, you look down at acres and acres of pineapples growing near the edge of the blue Pacific Ocean.

Now, to celebrate the harvest season, gather up some of those pineapples and some of Hawaii's hospitable recipes and have your own Hawaiian harvest festival.

Some of the most popular foods in Hawaii are pork, bananas, coconut and coffee, as well as pineapple. They are all in tomorrow's menu.

Pacific Pork Chops With Glazed Pineapple Garnish

Brush 6 or 8 shoulder or loin pork chops on both sides with soy sauce, then rub in ground ginger and pepper. Bake uncovered in a 350 degrees F. oven for 1½ to 2 hours.

Drain off part of the drippings (which will be flavored with soy sauce and ginger) and add ¼ cup brown sugar. In the flavorful drippings saute 2 cups (No. 2 can) drained pineapple chunks until glazed. Garnish pork chops with glazed pineapple chunks and sprigs of parsley, watercress or green leaves from your garden.

Baked Whole Bananas, Aloha

Wash medium-ripe bananas. Bake whole bananas in the skin in an uncovered pan for 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven. (For this oven dinner, allow your pork chops to bake for 1½ to 1¾ hours, then put in your bananas for the last 15 to 20 minutes.)

Serve these baked bananas as you would a baked potato—let each person split the skin and eat the cooked banana as a vegetable. No butter is needed.

Cole slaw made of chipped cabbage, celery, green pepper, onion and a tart dressing would be a complementary touch.

For the hot rolls, dip "brown 'n' serve" rolls in soft or melted butter, then bake in your 350 degree F. oven for the last 10 minutes before the pork chops and bananas are to be served.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit and orange juice (blended), fried bologna and eggs, enriched bread, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Casserole of red kidney beans with brown sugar, sliced onions and green peppers, rye bread, butter or margarine, sliced tomatoes, fresh fruit, tea, milk.

HAWAIIAN HARVEST FESTIVAL DINNER: Pacific pork chops with glazed pineapple garnish, baked whole bananas, Aloha, cole slaw, hot rolls, butter or margarine, angel food cake with coconut frosting, coffee, milk.

Donald Brown, 19-year-old stockboy, struggles with patrolmen after he was carried by police from room of 10-story Boston building. SHOKAN

Shokan, Sept. 23 — A supplementary roster of persons attending the two-day Old School Baptist Meeting in the Olive and Hurley meetinghouse last Thursday, follows: Flossie B. Walkers, Ontario, Can.; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac T. McIntyre, Jefferson, Delaware county; Elder and Mrs. George Ruston, Dutton, Canada; Agnes B. Goodrich, Rome; Mrs. G. O. Sands and Mrs. J. B. Hinkley, Cobleskill; Fannie Woodin and Mrs. Virtin Ballard, Vega, and Jeannette Small, London, Canada. Also attending was Mrs. Lincoln Smith, formerly a resident of Ashokan for many years, who now resides with her daughter in Schenectady.

George "Curly" Conormon, Cottekill, is the new representative and deliveryman of the Thomson Laundry in the reservoir country. George, a KHS graduate in 1940 and veteran of six and a half years in the Marine Corps during World War 2, replaces Harley Keator who has been made supervisor at the laundry. Harley, an employe of Thomson's for 31 years, resided as a boy on Winchell Hill near the east end of the present Ashokan main dam.

Two fires of unusual origin were extinguished without much damage on a recent Sunday, according to the Walton Reporter. The Roscoe and Callicoon Center vols made the run to a resort where an electric record player in the dance hall, not properly shut off, had been running all night. Up at Arkville, the local smokeaters were summoned to a very smoky blaze caused by a mischievous refrigerator in an upstairs apartment. Both families in the house were away and the wall paper was beginning to scorch. (One has to "be keerful with these here modern doo-dads," as Old Timer would put it).

Mr. and Mrs. Thor Kroh and daughter of New York have been spending a few days at the country home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Valdmar Christensen of VanSteenburgh Road. Thor is a radio entertainer in the big city.

Frank Winchell, who resides at Vega, a few miles from Roxbury, returned home Saturday after spending several days in the village center. Frank, who comes of old Olive stock, has known Elders Arnold Bellows and Amasa Slauson of the Olive and Hurley Church for more than half a century. He has a daughter, Mrs. Orrin Aley, and two grandsons of Big Indian.

Property owners in the several townships embraced by the Onteora Central school district will be interested, though not overjoyed, at the near approach of taxpaying dates as arranged by Collector Mabel D. Weidner who succeeds Ralph Thompson of Pine Hill in the office. Tax sittings in the 1st Olive district are scheduled for September 30 at Winchell's Store, and October 15 at the big Boiceville schoolhouse. (Now "this is going to hurt a little.")

Girls Suffocate

Bellflower, Calif., Sept. 23 (AP)—An old refrigerator, just standing in a garage, became a suffocation death trap for two 3-year-old girls. Tamarrah Boucher and her playmate, Rowena Baird, were missed by their families yesterday. After about two hours one neighbor boy who had been searching, Gus Gold, told his mother about the missing girls. Mrs. Bertha Gold happened to remember the refrigerator in the Boucher garage. She ran to it, opened the door and there were Tamarrah and Rowena, jammed face to face in the box. Whether the girls locked themselves in, or the refrigerator door simply swung shut on them, could not be determined.

Says UN Is Failure

Johannesburg, South Africa, Sept. 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan described the United Nations last night as a hopeless failure and threatened to withdraw South Africa from the world organization if the UN continued to "meddle" in this country's domestic affairs. Malan told a meeting of his Nationalist party that the UN had demonstrated it was impotent because Russia had been able to dominate it through vetoes in the Security Council. He declared it was a hopeless failure because it had failed to preserve world peace.

Firemen Probe Woodshed Blazes

Local police and firemen were called to the property of Ralph Hutton, 50 Hunter street last night, to investigate the origin of two fires in a woodshed.

A police report at 8:56 p. m., said Hutton reported that at about 7:20 p. m., his wife had looked out of a back window and saw a fire in the shed. This she quenched, he said, and at about 8:45 when Hutton returned home he saw a fire in the opposite side of the shed. This he quenched and notified the police.

The police report said the fires had apparently been started by some persons or persons who placed papers near each side of the shed.

Structure Saved

Deputy Fire Chief George D. Matthews, who said he was called to investigate at 9:51 p. m., reported that the second fire apparently started in a box of papers. Both had been checked before the structure was damaged.

Officers George Dougherty and Harold Bowers were sent to investigate when the fires were reported to police headquarters and Detective Clarence Brophy began an investigation today. Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said he would make a further investigation in the shed this afternoon.

Combat Pay Forms Ready for Vets at Service Agency

Forms are available for Korean veterans to make application for "combat pay" at the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street, according to two of the officers there State Veteran Counselor Donald Moore and Director Howard Shurter.

Complete assistance in filing claims will be given to any veteran or his next of kin, they said.

The newly enacted law provides that a veteran be paid an additional $45 a month provided he had served with a combat unit and was actually under hostile fire or actually subjected to explosion for not less than six days during a given month, or the veteran must have been killed, injured, wounded, captured or have been missing in action while serving with a combat unit.

Shurter pointed out that no individual can receive both "combat pay" and incentive or special pay (flying, demolition, parachute, submarine, etc.) for the same month.

Counselor Moore and Director Shurter said in the case of a deceased or incompetent veteran that the next-of-kin or the legal representative of the deceased may use this same form.

Branch offices of the veterans service agency are at Ellenville, Kerhonkson, Highland and Saugerties.

Reports Senator's Profits

North Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 23 (AP) — Senator James P. Kem, Republican, charged last night that his Democratic opponent, Stuart Symington, made more than a million dollars in "war profiteering" during World War 2. Symington was an administration trouble shooter under President Truman. Kem told about 150 persons at a Clay county Republican rally that Symington made the money on 50,000 shares of the Emerson Electric Co., St. Louis, while serving as its president. The Missouri senator said the company allowed Symington to buy the stock on option at a low price, and that "Mr. Symington got back his original purchase price of $200,000, plus a total profit of approximately $1,020,046.

Hawaii's Recipes Please Taste

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

When I was in Hawaii, I was warmly impressed by the hospitality and the pineapples. From the Pali, a high cliff outside Honolulu, you look down at acres and acres of pineapples growing near the edge of the blue Pacific Ocean.

Now, to celebrate the harvest season, gather up some of those pineapples and some of Hawaii's hospitable recipes and have your own Hawaiian harvest festival.

Some of the most popular foods in Hawaii are pork, bananas, coconut and coffee, as well as pineapple. They are all in tomorrow's menu.

Pacific Pork Chops With Glazed Pineapple Garnish

Brush 6 or 8 shoulder or loin pork chops on both sides with soy sauce, then rub in ground ginger and pepper. Bake uncovered in a 350 degrees F. oven for 1½ to 2 hours.

Drain off part of the drippings (which will be flavored with soy sauce and ginger) and add ¼ cup brown sugar. In the flavorful drippings saute 2 cups (No. 2 can) drained pineapple chunks until glazed. Garnish pork chops with glazed pineapple chunks and sprigs of parsley, watercress or green leaves from your garden.

Baked Whole Bananas, Aloha

Wash medium-ripe bananas. Bake whole bananas in the skin in an uncovered pan for 15 to 20 minutes in a moderate (350 degrees F.) oven. (For this oven dinner, allow your pork chops to bake for 1½ to 1¾ hours, then put in your bananas for the last 15 to 20 minutes.)

Serve these baked bananas as you would a baked potato—let each person split the skin and eat the cooked banana as a vegetable. No butter is needed.

The fruit itself is rich and good. Some folks like a bit of lemon juice.

Cole slaw made of chipped cabbage, celery, green pepper, onion and a tart dressing would be a complementary touch.

For the hot rolls, dip "brown 'n' serve" rolls in soft or melted butter, then bake in your 350 degree F. oven for the last 10 minutes before the pork chops and bananas are to be served.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit and orange juice (blended), fried bologna and eggs, enriched bread, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Casserole of red kidney beans with brown sugar, sliced onions and green peppers, rye bread, butter or margarine, sliced tomatoes, fresh fruit, tea, milk.

HAWAIIAN HARVEST FESTIVAL DINNER: Pacific pork chops with glazed pineapple garnish, baked whole bananas, Aloha, cole slaw, hot rolls, butter or margarine, angel food cake with coconut frosting, coffee, milk.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Sept. 23 — A supplementary roster of persons attending the two-day Old School Baptist Meeting in the Olive and Hurley meetinghouse last Thursday, follows: Flossie B. Walkers, Ontario, Can.; Mr. and Mrs. Isaac T. McIntyre, Jefferson, Delaware county; Elder and Mrs. George Ruston, Dutton, Canada; Agnes B. Goodrich, Rome; Mrs. G. O. Sands and Mrs. J. B. Hinkley, Cobleskill; Fannie Woodin and Mrs. Virtin Ballard, Vega, and Jeannette Small, London, Canada. Also attending was Mrs. Lincoln Smith, formerly a resident of Ashokan for many years, who now resides with her daughter in Schenectady.

George "Curly" Conormon, Cottekill, is the new representative and deliveryman of the Thomson Laundry in the reservoir country. George, a KHS graduate in 1940 and veteran of six and a half years in the Marine Corps during World War 2, replaces Harley Keator who has been made supervisor at the laundry. Harley, an employe of Thomson's for 31 years, resided as a boy on Winchell Hill near the east end of the present Ashokan main dam.

Two fires of unusual origin were extinguished without much damage on a recent Sunday, according to the Walton Reporter. The Roscoe and Callicoon Center vols made the run to a resort where an electric record player in the dance hall, not properly shut off, had been running all night. Up at Arkville, the local smokeaters were summoned to a very smoky blaze caused by a mischievous refrigerator in an upstairs apartment. Both families in the house were away and the wall paper was beginning to scorch. (One has to "be keerful with these here modern doo-dads," as Old Timer would put it).

Mr. and Mrs. Thor Kroh and daughter of New York have been spending a few days at the country home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Valdmar Christensen of VanSteenburgh Road. Thor is a radio entertainer in the big city.

Frank Winchell, who resides at Vega, a few miles from Roxbury, returned home Saturday after spending several days in the village center. Frank, who comes of old Olive stock, has known Elders Arnold Bellows and Amasa Slauson of the Olive and Hurley Church for more than half a century. He has a daughter, Mrs. Orrin Aley, and two grandsons of Big Indian.

Property owners in the several townships embraced by the Onteora Central school district will be interested, though not overjoyed, at the near approach of taxpaying dates as arranged by Collector Mabel D. Weidner who succeeds Ralph Thompson of Pine Hill in the office. Tax sittings in the 1st Olive district are scheduled for September 30 at Winchell's Store, and October 15 at the big Boiceville schoolhouse. (Now "this is going to hurt a little.")

Girls Suffocate

Bellflower, Calif., Sept. 23 (AP)—An old refrigerator, just standing in a garage, became a suffocation death trap for two 3-year-old girls. Tamarrah Boucher and her playmate, Rowena Baird, were missed by their families yesterday. After about two hours one neighbor boy who had been searching, Gus Gold, told his mother about the missing girls. Mrs. Bertha Gold happened to remember the refrigerator in the Boucher garage. She ran to it, opened the door and there were Tamarrah and Rowena, jammed face to face in the box. Whether the girls locked themselves in, or the refrigerator door simply swung shut on them, could not be determined.

Dodgers Celebrate, Yanks, Indians Scrap

(By The Associated Press)

Bedlam was expected to reign sometime today in the Brooklyn Dodgers' clubhouse but while the Brooks prepared to celebrate the clinching of the 1952 National League pennant, the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians continued their scrap for American League honors.

The Dodgers, leading the New York Giants by six games with a half dozen games to go, need only one more victory or Giant defeat to nail down their first flag since 1949.

Manager Charley Dressen's eager beavers can clinch the title without lifting a bat. The Giants meet the Boston Braves in a twin-bill this afternoon while the Dodgers tangle with the Philadelphia Phils in a twi-night bargain engagement.

Should the Giants split with Boston the champagne will flow in Brooklyn. If the Giants hang on, it will be up to Billy Loes (or Preacher Roe) and Johnny Rutherford, scheduled to start against the Phils, to bring home the bacon.

Meanwhile, the Yanks, nursing a one-game lead over the Indians, invade the lair of the Boston Red Sox for a three-game series while the Indians entertain the Chicago White Sox in a two-game set.

Indians Narrow Gap

The Indians narrowed the gap yesterday to one game as Early Wynn pitched the Tribe to a 6-3 decision over the Detroit Tigers in the only activity in either league.

Wynn limited the Tigers to five hits yesterday in posting his 23rd victory. The triumph also was Wynn's seventh straight and his ninth in a row over the Tigers since Sept. 6, 1950.

The Indians broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth, Wynn scoring from second base when rookie shortstop Harvey Kuenn fumbled a grounder by Bob Avila. Cleveland wrapped up its 15th victory in 17 starts with two runs in the eighth on a triple by Avila, single by Larry Doby and double by Luke Easter. Virgil Trucks went all the way for Detroit and suffered his 18th defeat.

YOU'RE STILL OUT

Cleveland Indians Manager Al Lopez gets in some last words at Municipal Stadium with Umpire Jim Honochick before Jim threw him out of the game with Detroit. Lopez complained in fifth inning that a ball pitched to Al Rosen was too high to be a strike. Indians went on to win, 6-3, without Lopez. (AP Wirephoto).

John McCardle, who managed the Kingston All Stars to area fame in the mid-30s, was still hopping mad about Umpire Ed Hurley's call in the ninth inning of that Yankee-Athletic thriller Sunday at Yankee Stadium.

Breaking a long spell of silence on the return trek via 9W, the ex-manager exploded:

"If the Yankees win the American League pennant this year, they should cut Hurley in on the World Series gravy."

McCardle didn't mean it that way, since Hurley is an honorable gentleman who just happened to blow one. But it was a grievous sin to an anti-Yankee rooter and perhaps the luckiest break the Yankees have had in their efforts to outdistance the hotly pursuing Indians.

Earlier in the day McCardle's sentiments apparently were shared by thousands of persons in Yankee Stadium. Never did we see a big league manager rant and rave like Jimmy Dykes and still stay in the game.

"It was the lousiest call I've ever saw in my career," Dykes railed after the game.

You know he also added he preferred to see the Yankees win the American League flag, "but not that way."

Obviously, Mr. Hurley pulled a rock on the 3-1 pitch on Joe Astroth that could eventually prove to be the most significant one pitch in the 1952 season.

From where we sat with McCardle, directly behind home plate in Section 4, Allie Reynolds' 3-1 serve to catcher Joe Astroth was obviously a ball that should have given Astroth a walk, forced in the tieing run and left the A's with only one out instead of two. It was a high, fast ball that seemed to take off, up and away when it reached the plate.

McCardle was in the stadium for the express purpose of watching the Athletics pin the Yankee ears back, a noble sentiment not shared by his companion for the day.

But what could we say to Mr. McCardle to assuage his shattered feelings. It was a bad call by Hurley and a lucky break for the Yankees. Never did a pitcher stagger and run into so much trouble in a three-hitter than did Mr. Reynolds. But the important thing is that the Yankees did stagger to victory, if only by 1-0. How can you beat a club like that?

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kitsos of 228 South Wall street will be happy to know that the Lehigh University football brochure lists Bill Kitsos' favorite food as bananas. Papa Kitsos, they tell us, knows a few things about bananas. Lehigh University, one of the best small college teams in the nation, is proud of Kitsos, the former KHS fullback ace. Bill is captain of the 1952 Engineers and a standout candidate for the Little All-America. One of two married players on the Engineers' varsity roster, Kitsos is majoring in business administration. He now stands 5 feet 9 inches, weighs a solid 198 pounds and wears a size-10 shoe. Coach Bill Leckonby rates Kitsos as one of the finest defensive linemen to play under him during the past seven years. The Shandaken baseball report contained this subtle reminder to the Lanesville A. C. squad: "We were sorry to hear that the Lanesville A. C. broke up because we were looking forward to an exciting game with them. . ." Highland High dropped a one-sided decision to Suffern High last Saturday, but don't bet they'll be easy against Kingston next weekend. They have a way of scaring the Maroon to death every time KHS visits the southern Ulster gridiron.

Municipal stadium swarmed with DUSO scouts Friday night. Ralph Frederick, the Port Jervis gazetter was waving the crying towel for the Red and Black. "We don't have much," he said and "Mel Decker is the only backfield veteran returning.". . . . The chances are that Bill Engle will make KHS rooters forget a lot of old all-timers before he winds up his career on Burke Hill. How about little Beacon High upending Sam Kalloch's Blues, 20-13! Maybe Sam wasn't kidding when he predicted this could be one of his worst seasons.

Now for a jaunt down to Philadelphia for the Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano championship bout. Harry Grayson has dubbed this one The Battle of the Last Look—for Old Jersey Joe. Marciano no doubt will have to shake off some of the most devastating blows ever planted on his noble Roman jaw, for the Great Father of Camden has clearly demonstrated that he packs a pistol in both fists. But even a plodding Louis finally caught Walcott and there is little reason to doubt that the much younger Marciano won't do the same. We pick Marciano by a knockout.

Army Launches 63rd Football Campaign Saturday at Point With So. Carolina

With Ed Weaver slated to see action as a reserve end, Army ushers in its 63rd football season Saturday against up-and-coming South Carolina at Michie Stadium.

Ranked among the top three teams in the Southern Conference in the pre-season polls, the Gamecocks figure to be a testy opening day assignment for the remodeled Cadet machine.

South Carolina, under Coach Rex Enright, will introduce the "TV" formation to northern fans. In this novel formation the Gamecocks line up in the standard "T" and shift to a "V." This, according to advance reports, enhances the SC passing attack.

Bobby Drawdy, who consistently breaks 10 seconds for 100 yards, Hootie Johnson and Bill Wohrman, will carry the brunt of Carolina's running attack. Dick Balka takes charge of the passing and signal-calling.

Blaik Experimenting

After three weeks of practice Coach Earl Blaik is still shuffling the deck as far as the Cadets are concerned. The most shifted player in college football, Rox Shain typifies the changing scene. Since the outset of the season three weeks ago, Shain has been tried at center, guard, tackle, end, quarterback and fullback. In addition Shain, more than two dozen other Army players have shifted back and forth in an attempt to get the strongest possible alignment.

For the first time in several seasons the Cadets will deviate from the straight platoon system. At least three men figure to go both ways. Leroy Lunn at guard, Bob Guidera at guard and tackle and Tom Bell at halfback, have double duty assignments.

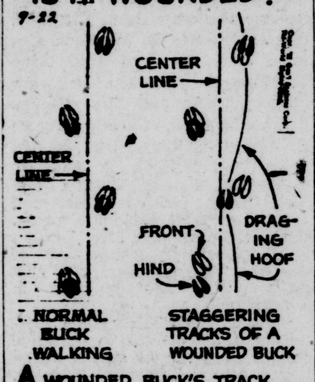

Ten thousand youngsters will be present as West Point celebrates its annual Boy Scout Day. The youths are from Region Two, which includes New York and New Jersey.

The probable starting lineups:

Fox Scores Victory Over Schoonmaker, Bows to Wheatcroft

Due to inclement weather and because of the Jewish holidays play was temporarily suspended in the Kiwanis Tennis Tourney over the weekend with few matches taking place.

In the singles division Chet Fox defeated Jack Schoonmaker 6-1, 6-1 to move into the semi-finals against Irv Wheatcroft but found the doubles champion playing one of his better games to beat Chet 6-3, 6-0. The Fox-Wheatcroft match was a good match with both veterans playing top notch tennis.

Turns Ankle

Immediately after completing the match Irv Wheatcroft turned his ankle causing championship play between himself and defending champ Bill Holmes to be postponed at least until next weekend.

Second round games in the doubles have been scheduled for this week with the team of Chet Fox and Jay Rider meeting Herb Gertner and Buddy Klein this afternoon.

The team of Bill Holmes and John Overbaugh will meet the young team of Bill Zates and Jack Schoonmaker also this week.

Since Daylight Savings time ends Saturday the remainder of the doubles matches will be played on weekends.

Chicago—Toxie Hall, 191, Chicago, outpointed Larry Watson, 177, Omaha (8).

Giants Outlast Stars by 18-17

New Paltz, Sept. 23—In what could not be called exactly a pitcher's battle, the Giants outlasted the New Paltz Little League All Stars Sunday by 18 to 17 before 500 fans at the Gardiner School field.

Tied at 17-all going into the last innings, the Giants, who previously had copped the New Paltz LL series, pushed over the big run to cop the decision. The big hit of the frame was Billy Freer's double.

Seitz Cracks Homer

Rodney Seitz, first sacket for the Giants, unloaded a homer for the Giants in the sixth inning. It was his sixth round-tripper of the season.

The All Stars jumped off to an early lead with a single tally in the first and two more in the third to lead by 3-0. The Giants, however, exploded for six big runs in the bottom half of the third to lead by 6-3.

Both clubs hits pay dirt for a pair of runs in the fourth but the Giants rallied for four more in the fifth to take a 12-5 edge. The Stars came back with a run in the sixth while the Giants kept up their offensive barrage with three more tallies to lead by 15-6 at the end of the sixth.

Stars Score Seven

The All Stars closed the gap to 15-13 with a big seven-run bulge in the seventh and eventually took the lead by 16-15 in in the top of the eighth. The Giants bounced right back with two markers in the eighth to make it a 17-16 slugfest. The Stars tied up the contest at 17-all in the ninth but Freer's ning run for the Giants in the double was turned into the win-bottom half of the final frame.

Dividing the pitching chores for the victors were Billy Freer, who started; Dick Rohe, Gregory Decker and Pete Phillips.

Gerry Upright started for the All Stars and looked good until the third inning. Other hurlers working for the Stars were Mike Caram and Doug Mackey.

Baumholtz, Mitchell Close in on Leaders

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Outfielders Frankie Baumholtz of the Chicago Cubs and Dale Mitchell of the Cleveland Indians are making belated bids to wrest the major League batting titles from Stan Musial and Ferris Fain.

Baumtoltz, hitting .330, is only four points behind Musial, who tops the National League with .334. Mitchell is batting .321 and trails the American League pacesetter, Fain, a .328 hitter, by seven points. Averages include games through Monday.

Musial, aiming for his sixth National League batting crown and his third in a row, lost ground over the past week. The St. Louis stalwart went five-for-18, suffering a two-point decline.

Baumholtz, meanwhile, was lifting his average five points with a seven-for-16 spree. The Cubs flychaser has three games remaining, while Musial has six.

In the American League, Fain and Mitchell both dropped three points off their averages. Fain, the loop's defending batting champ, delivered three hits in 14 at bats, while Mitchell was going seven-for-26. Each has four games to play.

Keeps His Average

Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski remains third among the National League's hitters with a .318 mark. The husky Redleg first baseman went five-for-15 and his average failed to change.

Al (Red) Schoendienst of the Cardinals and Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson share fourth place with .308 each. Schoendienst lost a point, while Robinson, in advancing from fifth, gained four points.

Gene Woodling of the Yankees holds down third place in the American League with a .314 average. Suffering from a groin injury, Woodling connected only once in ten trips and saw his average fall six points.

Former batting titlists George Kell and Billy Goodman, both of the Red Sox, rank fourth and fifth, respectively. Kell, sidelined for the rest of the season with a broken finger, has a .311 mark. Goodman skidded two points last week to .308.

Saugerties Nips Shandaken in 11th

Saugerties scored four runs in the top of the 11th to defeat Shandaken, 10 to 7, Sunday at the Shandaken diamond.

A five-run rally in the bottom of the ninth by the home club sent the contest into extra innings. Neil Grant's clutch single drove in the fourth and fifth runs of the inning.

Harold Swart, who pitched the 11th, was the winner and F. Gossoo, who went the distance for the home club, was tagged with the loss.

The winners collected 14 hits off Gossoo with every player in the batting order connecting safely at least once. Shandaken did likewise and again everybody in the lineup got a base knock.

Shandaken has scheduled the rubber game of a three-game series with the Saugerties Whiz Kids and a return with Saugerties at Cantine Field within the next week.

GILT-EDGE GIL

GIL McDOUGALD

One of the smartest investments the N. Y. Yankees ever made was signing up San Francisco sandlotter Gil McDougald. He started paying dividends his first season up — no fan will ever forget his 1951 Series grand-slammer.

Gil is a sound investor himself. A small investment in "Prestone" anti-freeze each fall keeps Gil's car safe all winter. "I use 'Prestone' anti-freeze because I know I'm protected, no matter how cold it gets," says Gil. One shot of "Prestone" brand anti-freeze lasts all winter. Dodgers Celebrate, Yanks, Indians Scrap

(By The Associated Press)

Bedlam was expected to reign sometime today in the Brooklyn Dodgers' clubhouse but while the Brooks prepared to celebrate the clinching of the 1952 National League pennant, the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians continued their scrap for American League honors.

The Dodgers, leading the New York Giants by six games with a half dozen games to go, need only one more victory or Giant defeat to nail down their first flag since 1949.

Manager Charley Dressen's eager beavers can clinch the title without lifting a bat. The Giants meet the Boston Braves in a twin-bill this afternoon while the Dodgers tangle with the Philadelphia Phils in a twi-night bargain engagement.

Should the Giants split with Boston the champagne will flow in Brooklyn. If the Giants hang on, it will be up to Billy Loes (or Preacher Roe) and Johnny Rutherford, scheduled to start against the Phils, to bring home the bacon.

Meanwhile, the Yanks, nursing a one-game lead over the Indians, invade the lair of the Boston Red Sox for a three-game series while the Indians entertain the Chicago White Sox in a two-game set.

Indians Narrow Gap

The Indians narrowed the gap yesterday to one game as Early Wynn pitched the Tribe to a 6-3 decision over the Detroit Tigers in the only activity in either league.

Wynn limited the Tigers to five hits yesterday in posting his 23rd victory. The triumph also was Wynn's seventh straight and his ninth in a row over the Tigers since Sept. 6, 1950.

The Indians broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth, Wynn scoring from second base when rookie shortstop Harvey Kuenn fumbled a grounder by Bob Avila. Cleveland wrapped up its 15th victory in 17 starts with two runs in the eighth on a triple by Avila, single by Larry Doby and double by Luke Easter. Virgil Trucks went all the way for Detroit and suffered his 18th defeat.

YOU'RE STILL OUT

Cleveland Indians Manager Al Lopez gets in some last words at Municipal Stadium with Umpire Jim Honochick before Jim threw him out of the game with Detroit. Lopez complained in fifth inning that a ball pitched to Al Rosen was too high to be a strike. Indians went on to win, 6-3, without Lopez. (AP Wirephoto).

By CHARLES J. TIANO

John McCardle, who managed the Kingston All Stars to area fame in the mid-30s, was still hopping mad about Umpire Ed Hurley's call in the ninth inning of that Yankee-Athletic thriller Sunday at Yankee Stadium.

Breaking a long spell of silence on the return trek via 9W, the ex-manager exploded:

"If the Yankees win the American League pennant this year, they should cut Hurley in on the World Series gravy."

McCardle didn't mean it that way, since Hurley is an honorable gentleman who just happened to blow one. But it was a grievous sin to an anti-Yankee rooter and perhaps the luckiest break the Yankees have had in their efforts to outdistance the hotly pursuing Indians.

Earlier in the day McCardle's sentiments apparently were shared by thousands of persons in Yankee Stadium. Never did we see a big league manager rant and rave like Jimmy Dykes and still stay in the game.

"It was the lousiest call I've ever saw in my career," Dykes railed after the game.

You know he also added he preferred to see the Yankees win the American League flag, "but not that way."

Obviously, Mr. Hurley pulled a rock on the 3-1 pitch on Joe Astroth that could eventually prove to be the most significant one pitch in the 1952 season.

From where we sat with McCardle, directly behind home plate in Section 4, Allie Reynolds' 3-1 serve to catcher Joe Astroth was obviously a ball that should have given Astroth a walk, forced in the tieing run and left the A's with only one out instead of two. It was a high, fast ball that seemed to take off, up and away when it reached the plate.

McCardle was in the stadium for the express purpose of watching the Athletics pin the Yankee ears back, a noble sentiment not shared by his companion for the day.

But what could we say to Mr. McCardle to assuage his shattered feelings. It was a bad call by Hurley and a lucky break for the Yankees. Never did a pitcher stagger and run into so much trouble in a three-hitter than did Mr. Reynolds. But the important thing is that the Yankees did stagger to victory, if only by 1-0. How can you beat a club like that?

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kitsos of 228 South Wall street will be happy to know that the Lehigh University football brochure lists Bill Kitsos' favorite food as bananas. Papa Kitsos, they tell us, knows a few things about bananas. Lehigh University, one of the best small college teams in the nation, is proud of Kitsos, the former KHS fullback ace. Bill is captain of the 1952 Engineers and a standout candidate for the Little All-America. One of two married players on the Engineers' varsity roster, Kitsos is majoring in business administration. He now stands 5 feet 9 inches, weighs a solid 198 pounds and wears a size-10 shoe. Coach Bill Leckonby rates Kitsos as one of the finest defensive linemen to play under him during the past seven years. The Shandaken baseball report contained this subtle reminder to the Lanesville A. C. squad: "We were sorry to hear that the Lanesville A. C. broke up because we were looking forward to an exciting game with them. . ." Highland High dropped a one-sided decision to Suffern High last Saturday, but don't bet they'll be easy against Kingston next weekend. They have a way of scaring the Maroon to death every time KHS visits the southern Ulster gridiron.

Municipal stadium swarmed with DUSO scouts Friday night. Ralph Frederick, the Port Jervis gazetter was waving the crying towel for the Red and Black. "We don't have much," he said and "Mel Decker is the only backfield veteran returning.". . . . The chances are that Bill Engle will make KHS rooters forget a lot of old all-timers before he winds up his career on Burke Hill. How about little Beacon High upending Sam Kalloch's Blues, 20-13! Maybe Sam wasn't kidding when he predicted this could be one of his worst seasons.

Now for a jaunt down to Philadelphia for the Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano championship bout. Harry Grayson has dubbed this one The Battle of the Last Look—for Old Jersey Joe. Marciano no doubt will have to shake off some of the most devastating blows ever planted on his noble Roman jaw, for the Great Father of Camden has clearly demonstrated that he packs a pistol in both fists. But even a plodding Louis finally caught Walcott and there is little reason to doubt that the much younger Marciano won't do the same. We pick Marciano by a knockout.

Army Launches 63rd Football Campaign Saturday at Point With So. Carolina

With Ed Weaver slated to see action as a reserve end, Army ushers in its 63rd football season Saturday against up-and-coming South Carolina at Michie Stadium.

Ranked among the top three teams in the Southern Conference in the pre-season polls, the Gamecocks figure to be a testy opening day assignment for the remodeled Cadet machine.

South Carolina, under Coach Rex Enright, will introduce the "TV" formation to northern fans. In this novel formation the Gamecocks line up in the standard "T" and shift to a "V." This, according to advance reports, enhances the SC passing attack.

Bobby Drawdy, who consistently breaks 10 seconds for 100 yards, Hootie Johnson and Bill Wohrman, will carry the brunt of Carolina's running attack. Dick Balka takes charge of the passing and signal-calling.

Blaik Experimenting

After three weeks of practice Coach Earl Blaik is still shuffling the deck as far as the Cadets are concerned. The most shifted player in college football, Rox Shain typifies the changing scene. Since the outset of the season three weeks ago, Shain has been tried at center, guard, tackle, end, quarterback and fullback. In addition Shain, more than two dozen other Army players have shifted back and forth in an attempt to get the strongest possible alignment.

For the first time in several seasons the Cadets will deviate from the straight platoon system. At least three men figure to go both ways. Leroy Lunn at guard, Bob Guidera at guard and tackle and Tom Bell at halfback, have double duty assignments.

Ten thousand youngsters will be present as West Point celebrates its annual Boy Scout Day. The youths are from Region Two, which includes New York and New Jersey.

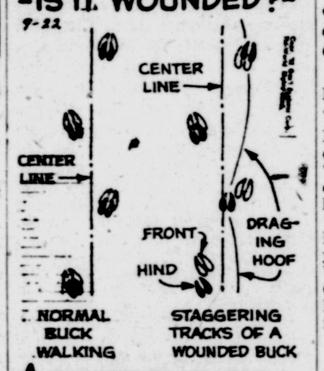

The probable starting lineups:

Wilkerson	LT	Earley
Dunn	LG	Wilson
Ordway	C	Berry
Ziegler	RG	King
Doremus	RT	Witt
Mischak	RE	Bennett

Fox Scores Victory Over Schoonmaker, Bows to Wheatcroft

Due to inclement weather and because of the Jewish holidays play was temporarily suspended in the Kiwanis Tennis Tourney over the weekend with few matches taking place.

In the singles division Chet Fox defeated Jack Schoonmaker 6-1, 6-1 to move into the semi-finals against Irv Wheatcroft but found the doubles champion playing one of his better games to beat Chet 6-3, 6-0. The Fox-Wheatcroft match was a good match with both veterans playing top notch tennis.

Turns Ankle

Immediately after completing the match Irv Wheatcroft turned his ankle causing championship play between himself and defending champ Bill Holmes to be postponed at least until next weekend.

Second round games in the doubles have been scheduled for this week with the team of Chet Fox and Jay Rider meeting Herb Gertner and Buddy Klein this afternoon.

The team of Bill Holmes and John Overbaugh will meet the young team of Bill Zates and Jack Schoonmaker also this week.

Since Daylight Savings time ends Saturday the remainder of the doubles matches will be played on weekends.

Chicago—Toxie Hall, 191, Chicago, outpointed Larry Watson, 177, Omaha (8).

Giants Outlast Stars by 18-17

New Paltz, Sept. 23—In what could not be called exactly a pitcher's battle, the Giants outlasted the New Paltz Little League All Stars Sunday by 18 to 17 before 500 fans at the Gardiner School field.

Tied at 17-all going into the last innings, the Giants, who previously had copped the New Paltz LL series, pushed over the big run to cop the decision. The big hit of the frame was Billy Freer's double.

Seitz Cracks Homer

Rodney Seitz, first sacker for the Giants, unloaded a homer for the Giants in the sixth inning. It was his sixth round-tripper of the season.

The All Stars jumped off to an early lead with a single tally in the first and two more in the third to lead by 3-0. The Giants, however, exploded for six big runs in the bottom half of the third to lead by 6-3.

Both clubs hits pay dirt for a pair of runs in the fourth but the Giants rallied for four more in the fifth to take a 12-5 edge. The Stars came back with a run in the sixth while the Giants kept up their offensive barrage with three more tallies to lead by 15-6 at the end of the sixth.

Stars Score Seven

The All Stars closed the gap to 15-13 with a big seven-run bulge in the seventh and eventually took the lead by 16-15 in in the top of the eighth. The Giants bounced right back with two markers in the eighth to make it a 17-16 slugfest. The Stars tied up the contest at 17-all in the ninth but Freer's ning run for the Giants in the double was turned into the win-bottom half of the final frame.

Dividing the pitching chores for the victors were Billy Freer, who started; Dick Rohe, Gregory Decker and Pete Phillips.

Gerry Upright started for the All Stars and looked good until the third inning. Other hurlers working for the Stars were Mike Caram and Doug Mackey.

Baumholtz, Mitchell Close in on Leaders

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Outfielders Frankie Baumholtz of the Chicago Cubs and Dale Mitchell of the Cleveland Indians are making belated bids to wrest the major League batting titles from Stan Musial and Ferris Fain.

Baumtoltz, hitting .330, is only four points behind Musial, who tops the National League with .334. Mitchell is batting .321 and trails the American League pacesetter, Fain, a .328 hitter, by seven points. Averages include games through Monday.

Musial, aiming for his sixth National League batting crown and his third in a row, lost ground over the past week. The St. Louis stalwart went five-for-18, suffering a two-point decline.

Baumholtz, meanwhile, was lifting his average five points with a seven-for-16 spree. The Cubs flychaser has three games remaining, while Musial has six.

In the American League, Fain and Mitchell both dropped three points off their averages. Fain, the loop's defending batting champ, delivered three hits in 14 at bats, while Mitchell was going seven-for-26. Each has four games to play.

Keeps His Average

Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski remains third among the National League's hitters with a .318 mark. The husky Redleg first baseman went five-for-15 and his average failed to change.

Al (Red) Schoendienst of the Cardinals and Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson share fourth place with .308 each. Schoendienst lost a point, while Robinson, in advancing from fifth, gained four points.

Gene Woodling of the Yankees holds down third place in the American League with a .314 average. Suffering from a groin injury, Woodling connected only once in ten trips and saw his average fall six points.

Former batting titlists George Kell and Billy Goodman, both of the Red Sox, rank fourth and fifth, respectively. Kell, sidelined for the rest of the season with a broken finger, has a .311 mark. Goodman skidded two points last week to .308.

Saugerties Nips Shandaken in 11th

Saugerties scored four runs in the top of the 11th to defeat Shandaken, 10 to 7, Sunday at the Shandaken diamond.

A five-run rally in the bottom of the ninth by the home club sent the contest into extra innings. Neil Grant's clutch single drove in the fourth and fifth runs of the inning.

Harold Swart, who pitched the 11th, was the winner and F. Gossoo, who went the distance for the home club, was tagged with the loss.

The winners collected 14 hits off Gossoo with every player in the batting order connecting safely at least once. Shandaken did likewise and again everybody in the lineup got a base knock.

Shandaken has scheduled the rubber game of a three-game series with the Saugerties Whiz Kids and a return with Saugerties at Cantine Field within the next week.

GIL McDOUGALD

One of the smartest investments the N. Y. Yankees ever made was signing up San Francisco sandlotter Gil McDougald. He started paying dividends his first season up — no fan will ever forget his 1951 Series grand-slammer.

Gil is a sound investor himself. A small investment in "Prestone" anti-freeze each fall keeps Gil's car safe all winter. "I use 'Prestone' anti-freeze because I know I'm protected, no matter how cold it gets," says Gil. One shot of "Prestone" brand anti-freeze lasts all winter. Bill Engle Played

In describing the brilliant performance of young Bill Engle, Kingston High School tackle, in the Saturday opener with Mont Pleasant he was inadvertently referred to as "Bob" Engle. "Bob" is an older brother who is remembered for his fine play with the Maroons two years ago.

Smart Shooters Don't Pull Trigger

We often speak of a trigger as having a 4-pound pull. By that we mean a weight of 64 ounces will exert enough downward pull on the trigger to cause the sear and striker notches to slip apart and so let the gun fire. But smart shooters don't pull a trigger.

We should squeeze or press the trigger. It makes not one whit of difference which term we use. By either word we mean a smooth, steady increase of controlled pressure, exerted by the sensitive pad of the forefinger's first joint, which bears straight back against the trigger or its shoe. This is the exact opposite of the pull which usually becomes a yank or a jerk.

Smooth, controlled trigger squeeze is probably the most vital part of accuracy for high scores in both pistol or rifle shooting. If, for example, you jerk the trigger of a superdooper .22 rim-fire match rifle only just enough to move its muzzle a tenth of an inch off line, you'll be out of the X-ring by a couple of inches at 50 feet, off at 100 yards by a full foot.

Only with the shotgun do we definitely pull on the trigger, pull fast to make the firing pin punch the primer exactly when we want it to. Smoothbore shooting is a game of gun-pointing, not of aiming. We don't split hairs in shotgunnery.

The pattern spreads will take care of small errors in lining up the gun. But we must start the shot charge on its way just at the moment when we're lined up enough ahead of the duck or clay target, with just enough lead so that the target will be splattered by cigar-shaped shot string. So we pull.

Some good shotgunners even slap the trigger, carrying the right forefinger outside along the trigger guard until the instance of exactly proper lead arrives. The breaking point of a smoothbore trigger need be no less than about four pounds, but it ought to be clean, not spongy, so you can cut loose just as that drake mallard hangs like a balloon over the decoys.

Beginners with the rifle and handgun are usually taught to squeeze the trigger with gently increasing pressure so that they won't know when the gun is due to go off. Nobody, not even champion pistol shots Benner and Reeves super-riflemen like Art Cook, can hold any gun rock-steady. We all wiggle and wabble more or less.

The hotshot who knows his guns to perfection after long years of practice will develop such trigger-finger control that he can finish the let-off of a rifle or pistol just when he wants to. He can bring up his pressure within an ounce of the breaking point, and add the final straw just as the signs come to perfect alignment. But he has a glass-smooth gun, its pull identical to the ounce for each shot.

For a sporting rifle, a clean trigger releasing between 3½ and 4 pounds is light enough for accuracy, heavy enough for safety. Match .22 rifles must let go at no less than three pounds, .22 automatics used in competitive pistolry at two or better. The .38 calibre target revolver must lift three pounds, the .45 auto, four.

But unless you're a better than middling mechanic or have already ruined a few sears, monkeying with a stone, have a good gunsmith touch up any triggers that don't let off to suit you or the rules.

Rochester, N. Y. (AP) — Little Nicholas LaVilla, Jr., recently celebrated his 6th birthday, a day his doctors never expected him to see when he was born as a blue baby. Now said to be one of the oldest such children in the country, Nicholas's main blood vessels are irretrievably crossed. His lungs don't get enough oxygen to circulate to the rest of his body, giving him a bluish tinge.

Bill Engle Played

In describing the brilliant performance of young Bill Engle, Kingston High School tackle, in the Saturday opener with Mont Pleasant he was inadvertently referred to as "Bob" Engle. "Bob" is an older brother who is remembered for his fine play with the Maroons two years ago.

Smart Shooters Don't Pull Trigger

We often speak of a trigger as having a 4-pound pull. By that we mean a weight of 64 ounces will exert enough downward pull on the trigger to cause the sear and striker notches to slip apart and so let the gun fire. But smart shooters don't pull a trigger.

We should squeeze or press the trigger. It makes not one whit of difference which term we use. By either word we mean a smooth, steady increase of controlled pressure, exerted by the sensitive pad of the forefinger's first joint, which bears straight back against the trigger or its shoe. This is the exact opposite of the pull which usually becomes a yank or a jerk.

Smooth, controlled trigger squeeze is probably the most vital part of accuracy for high scores in both pistol or rifle shooting. If, for example, you jerk the trigger of a superdooper .22 rim-fire match rifle only just enough to move its muzzle a tenth of an inch off line, you'll be out of the X-ring by a couple of inches at 50 feet, off at 100 yards by a full foot.

Only with the shotgun do we definitely pull on the trigger, pull fast to make the firing pin punch the primer exactly when we want it to. Smoothbore shooting is a game of gun-pointing, not of aiming. We don't split hairs in shotgunnery.

The pattern spreads will take care of small errors in lining up the gun. But we must start the shot charge on its way just at the moment when we're lined up enough ahead of the duck or clay target, with just enough lead so that the target will be splattered by cigar-shaped shot string. So we pull.

Some good shotgunners even slap the trigger, carrying the right forefinger outside along the trigger guard until the instance of exactly proper lead arrives. The breaking point of a smoothbore trigger need be no less than about four pounds, but it ought to be clean, not spongy, so you can cut loose just as that drake mallard hangs like a balloon over the decoys.

Beginners with the rifle and handgun are usually taught to squeeze the trigger with gently increasing pressure so that they won't know when the gun is due to go off. Nobody, not even champion pistol shots Benner and Reeves super-riflemen like Art Cook, can hold any gun rock-steady. We all wiggle and wabble more or less.

The hotshot who knows his guns to perfection after long years of practice will develop such trigger-finger control that he can finish the let-off of a rifle or pistol just when he wants to. He can bring up his pressure within an ounce of the breaking point, and add the final straw just as the signs come to perfect alignment. But he has a glass-smooth gun, its pull identical to the ounce for each shot.

For a sporting rifle, a clean trigger releasing between 3½ and 4 pounds is light enough for accuracy, heavy enough for safety. Match .22 rifles must let go at no less than three pounds, .22 automatics used in competitive pistolry at two or better. The .38 calibre target revolver must lift three pounds, the .45 auto, four.

But unless you're a better than middling mechanic or have already ruined a few sears, monkeying with a stone, have a good gunsmith touch up any triggers that don't let off to suit you or the rules.

Bradley Declares Europe Needs Atom

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today that sooner or later the United States must give atomic warfare secrets to allied military commanders in Europe.

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff set no time limit for turning over atomic information, but he let it be known he believes that eventually the U. S. is going to have to give some inside dope on atomic warfare to the military commanders.

Among other reasons Bradley listed at a Pentagon news conference was that some allied nations have gained the false impression that mere U. S. possession of atomic weapons made it unnecessary for them to build up their own defenses.

He said he found out about this on an 11-day trip to Europe from which he has just returned.

And, said Bradley:

"Atomic weapons will play a great part in the defense of Europe, but they will not replace strong ground and air forces."

Confers on Finances

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 23 (AP)—German financial expert Hjalmar Schacht, who has been getting around lately as an adviser to money-short Moslem governments, began a survey today of what the new Egyptian budget should include. Schacht, once the economic czar of Hitler's Reich, recently visited Iran, and Indonesia for financial conferences.

Claims Materiel Lacking

Sennelager, Germany, Sept. 23 (AP)—Serious weaknesses in the air defense of Western Europe were revealed here today by Air Marshal Sir Robert Foster, British commander of the British-Belgian-Dutch Second Allied Tactical Air Force. He said the interception of enemy planes over West Germany, Belgium and Holland would be handicapped now by shortage of radar, lack of new interceptor planes and the lack of ground observer posts. The air marshal was speaking to allied officers at the end of the NATO Army-Air Force exercise "Holdfast."

Hard Luck Train

San Luis Potosi, Mex., Sept. 23 (AP)—The passengers on train 142 finally got in last night, but it was a hard trip. They left Tampico Sunday night for the journey that usually takes 12 hours but the train was derailed at Zacate. After six hours, it was back on the track, only to be derailed again after another three miles. Twelve hours more and it started again. Then it derailed a third time two miles further on. It doesn't have a diner, either, and the passengers got pretty hungry.

Bradley Declares Europe Needs Atom

Washington, Sept. 23 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today that sooner or later the United States must give atomic warfare secrets to allied military commanders in Europe.

The chairman of the joint chiefs of staff set no time limit for turning over atomic information, but he let it be known he believes that eventually the U. S. is going to have to give some inside dope on atomic warfare to the military commanders.

Among other reasons Bradley listed at a Pentagon news conference was that some allied nations have gained the false impression that mere U. S. possession of atomic weapons made it unnecessary for them to build up their own defenses.

He said he found out about this on an 11-day trip to Europe from which he has just returned.

And, said Bradley:

"Atomic weapons will play a great part in the defense of Europe, but they will not replace strong ground and air forces."

Confers on Finances

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 23 (AP)—German financial expert Hjalmar Schacht, who has been getting around lately as an adviser to money-short Moslem governments, began a survey today of what the new Egyptian budget should include. Schacht, once the economic czar of Hitler's Reich, recently visited Iran, and Indonesia for financial conferences.

Claims Materiel Lacking

Sennelager, Germany, Sept. 23 (AP)—Serious weaknesses in the air defense of Western Europe were revealed here today by Air Marshal Sir Robert Foster, British commander of the British-Belgian-Dutch Second Allied Tactical Air Force. He said the interception of enemy planes over West Germany, Belgium and Holland would be handicapped now by shortage of radar, lack of new interceptor planes and the lack of ground observer posts. The air marshal was speaking to allied officers at the end of the NATO Army-Air Force exercise "Holdfast."

Stevenson Gets

out again.

The convention heard Stevenson yesterday, giving him a tumultuous reception when he advocated repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Last week it heard the Republican presidential candidate, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, advocate some changes in the labor law but not its outright repeal.

Convention delegates represent 8,098,302 AFL members.

The executive council report urging members to vote for Stevenson was submitted by George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer.

It stated that the executive council held "in high esteem" both major candidates for the presidency. It characterized Eisenhower as "a loyal and patriotic citizen" who holds the respect and admiration of all Americans and millions of "other free people throughout the world for his military achievements."

"While we affirm the highest regard for Gen. Eisenhower's military genius," the report continued, "it is as a civilian that he is seeking the highest civilian office in the land. There is little evidence available on record that Gen. Eisenhower possesses any intimate knowledge of, or experience with, the great domestic problems facing our nation."

Don't Like Reactionary Ties

The report said:

"To the working people of this country the public embrace of the Republican presidential candidate and Sen. Taft, the symbol of reaction, came as a shock.

"Gen. Eisenhower, who was built up as the champion of liberalism in the Republican party, has also clasped to his bosom such notable reactionaries as Senators Kem of Missouri, Cain of Washington, Bricker of Ohio, Jenner of Indiana, and McCarthy of Wisconsin."

In discussing Stevenson the report said that he had not evaded issues and "inspires our full confidence."

"He told us forthrightly in his address to this convention," the report said, "that he is for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and its replacement with a new law that will deal fairly and justly with labor-management problems and protect the public interest."

Report on T-H Stand

It pointed out that the Democratic party platform had approved the AFL proposal to replace the Taft-Hartley law "with a new law" and that the Republican party platform favored retention of the law.

The report emphasized that each member of an AFL affiliate is free to make his own individual political decision "without any compulsion on our part." But it added that "the entire future course of our country requires us to express our carefully-considered choice as between the two presidential candidates."

Pleads Innocent

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Daniel A. Bolich, formerly the government's second-ranking tax collector, pleaded innocent today to a charge of evading payment of $7,444 in his own income taxes. Trial was set for Oct. 6. The alleged offense covered a period of five years, ending in 1950.

Lashes at Opponent

Eisenhower, on the offensive, lashed out at Stevenson with these declarations:

"It is not hard to find men of fine intellect and faint heart. But this is no time for men of refined and elaborate indecision."

"The Democratic candidate gave us, in his recent San Francisco speech, a dismaying example of this faintness of heart, this curiously defensive way of thinking. He was speaking of taxes and he said: 'with 85 per cent of our budget allocated to defense, it is the Soviet Union which now fixes that level of our defense expenditures and thus our tax rates.' * * * the tell-tale wording of that statement reflects the surrender of the initiative to the Communists.

"It takes smugness to try to stifle critics as the Democrat candidate did last week with the epigram that 'a wise man does not try to hurry history.' * * * neither a wise man nor a brave man lies down on the tracks of history to wait for the train of the future to run over him." second degree, and also that Turck be given credit for the time he has served in jail. That motion was granted.

County Judge Cashin announced that there would be no court on Tuesday since the court room would be in use for Naturalization Court and he excused jurors until Wednesday at 10 o'clock when criminal matters will be again taken up.

$201.62 Verdict

Following the disposition of criminal matters Monday afternoon a civil action brought by Forst Packing Company against Perry's Taxi, Inc., and Albert H. Stewart, negligence, was taken up for trial with a jury.

This action arose out of a collision at Downs street and South Manor avenue on December 5, 1951, while George Myers, salesman for the Forst Packing Company was driving a company car north on Downs street and the cab was being operated toward Albany avenue on South Manor avenue. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., of Cook & Cook appeared for the Forst Packing Company and Francis X. Tucker for the defendants. The action was for property damage. There was no personal injury involved.

The jury later returned a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $201.62, the full amount of the plaintiff's damage.

even talk about the Nixon incident in a serious way "until the dope is in."

He went off the record at that point. But on the highest possible authority aboard this train, it was said that Eisenhower will wait until after tonight's broadcast to make up his mind about Nixon.

Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas, one of Eisenhower's top advisers, told a reporter there isn't any doubt in his mind that Nixon will be cleared.

There was plenty of evidence Eisenhower has not been kept fully informed by his aides about the Nixon case, which has caused a political furore in the country.

The General was disclosed not to have had any report from Nixon on the $18,235 fund except what he read in the newspapers about a report made by Dana Smith, Pasadena, Calif., attorney and manager of the fund.

Eisenhower took the viewpoint that Nixon would have to clear himself completely. But the GOP presidential nominee's attitude was that Nixon was a grown man and a senator and could take care of himself.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower does not discount the politically hot seat on which Nixon is perched at this time.

Telegrams supporting Nixon were arriving in numbers on this train, along with others urging that he be taken off the ticket.

strain for both Nixon and his slim, blond-haired wife Patricia.

A high-ranking member of his staff declared privately that Nixon was "sick" over the furor caused by the $18,000 but added firmly there was no talk of a resignation.

At the airport he was asked for comment on what he expected the decision will be. He climbed up on the hood of a car with his wife and said:

"Patricia and I just want you to know how wonderful it is to get back and get such a fine welcome from our friends.

"We want you to know we have received thousands of wires from all over the country and we are grateful for them, particularly from the people we know.

"This is a time when you find out who your friends are.

"And we want you to know we won't let you down."

said. "There is no question of improper influence because there was no connection between the contributors and the beneficiaries."

He said the funds used were left over from the 1948 campaign for governor, plus later general contributions.

"During my administration I have never heard of any case of a promise, either direct or implied, of any favor in exchange for a contribution," Stevenson said. "My orders were explicit and well known."

Chandler's telegram to Stevenson followed recent disclosure that Sen. Richard Nixon, Republican vice presidential candidate, had accepted $18,235 in expense funds from private sources.

Chandler, who is vice chairman of A. B. Dick and Company, an office equipment firm, said in his telegram:

"In view of the attack on Senator Nixon because of the privately raised expense fund and your campaign manager's ill-considered charges, it is your responsibility to state publicly that this method of financially assisting public officials is in keeping with the policy you expressed to a group of your friends, including myself, at the Commercial Club April 23 last."

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic nation chairman, has publicly called upon Nixon to resign as a candidate.

Chandler, in his telegram asking the governor disclose the names of the contributors and recipients and amounts involved, added: "Provided such monies are properly used, there can be no just criticism of this manner of assisting able and intelligent men not blessed with private incomes to serve their state and country."

Union Fern is celebrating with special sales its 53rd anniversary in 13 cities including Kingston. Eleven of the stores are located in New York State and the others in Bennington, Vt. and Pittsfield, Mass.

The growth of Union Fern started back in 1899 under the able leadership of the late Joseph Goldman, founder and first president of the organization. said. "There is no question of improper influence because there was no connection between the contributors and the beneficiaries."

He said the funds used were left over from the 1948 campaign for governor, plus later general contributions.

"During my administration I have never heard of any case of a promise, either direct or implied, of any favor in exchange for a contribution," Stevenson said. "My orders were explicit and well known."

Chandler's telegram to Stevenson followed recent disclosure that Sen. Richard Nixon, Republican vice presidential candidate, had accepted $18,235 in expense funds from private sources.

Chandler, who is vice chairman of A. B. Dick and Company, an office equipment firm, said in his telegram:

"In view of the attack on Senator Nixon because of the privately raised expense fund and your campaign manager's ill-considered charges, it is your responsibility to state publicly that this method of financially assisting public officials is in keeping with the policy you expressed to a group of your friends, including myself, at the Commercial Club April 23 last."

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic nation chairman, has publicly called upon Nixon to resign as a candidate.

Chandler, in his telegram asking the governor disclose the names of the contributors and recipients and amounts involved, added: "Provided such monies are properly used, there can be no just criticism of this manner of assisting able and intelligent men not blessed with private incomes to serve their state and country."
